By JOHN O. KOEHLER

BERLIN (AP) — East German Communists, defying Western access rights to West Berlin, closed the Berlin autobahn for more than 3½ hours today and MIG jet fighters flew across the air corridors leading to the divided city.

The Communists claimed their actions were necessary because of East German-Soviet military maneuvers. Westerners believed they were in retaliation for West Germany's plans to hold a session of Parliament in West Berlin Wednesday to underline the West's contention that West Berlin is part of West Germany.

First in 16 Years

It was the first time in 16 years that the Communist completely halted all automobile traffic moving to and from Berlin over the 110-mile highway through East Germany. Secondary roads were open, but some delays were reported.

The steel barriers at Berlin and Helmstaedt, on the West German frontier, went down at 9:30 a.m. Armed Communist guards refused Germans, as well as Allied travelers, the right to cross East Germany. The barriers were lifted again at 1 p.m. in Berlin and at 2 p.m. at Helmstaedt.

Buzzes French Sector

Another MIG buzzed Tegel Airport in the French sector of Berlin, coming down to 300 feet to flash over the runway of the airfield used by Western powers.

The Communists originally indicated that the closure of the autobahn would last until 4 p.m. The fact that the highway was reopened earlier took some Westerners by surprise. Shortly before, West Berlin had been buzzing with rumors that the U.S. Army was preparing an armed convoy that would challenge the right of the East Germans to close the border.

There was some thought here that the Russians ordered the reopening because they did not want confrontation with the U.S. Army.

Notification Given

The Russians had notified the Western powers that Soviet military aircraft would fly across the air corridors and that certain altitudes could not be used by the three Western airlines that serve West Berlin.

Continue Flights

The Soviets said they wanted to use the altitudes from 2,000 to 4,000 feet. Commercial planes normally fly between 6,000 and 7,000 feet, except on their approach to Berlin.

The airlines have experienced such threats in the past and went ahead with their flights. Up to noon there had been no interference with the Western air traffic.

A U.S. military convoy made the road trip from West Berlin to West Germany without interference, but it left the divided city before the East Germans closed the superhighway across East Germany.

A British military spokesman said Soviet soldiers halted three British cars as they tried to drive out of Berlin. They returned to the British checkpoint to await developments.

Apartments In Ulster; No Zoning?

Would zoning have prevented construction of the million-dollar Sunset Garden Apartments in the Town of Ulster, which was strongly protested by Sunset Park area residents and never did obtain "official" approval from the town's Planning Board?

Perhaps not, but practically everyone involved in the development from its inception a year ago to its realization at the turn of the year, is willing to concede that a zoning resolution, or building, plumbing and/or electrical code regulations, or at least a "large-scale development" ordinance would have clearly established:

1. What, if any, jurisdiction the town's planning board and the town itself had over such a proposed development, and

2. Once, established, what the developer could or couldn't do under such regulations under the town's jurisdiction.

Many Sunset Park area residents may still be asking how the Sunset Garden Apartments an admittedly outstanding modern development, could possible have become a reality in spite of overwhelming residential protest and failure of the planning board to grant the developer full approval to go through with his building plans.

This, in spite of a previously avowed doubt by town officials of their jurisdiction over the development, led The Freeman to make a number of inquiries as to just how the project "came to be."

Thus, starting tomorrow, The Freeman will publish a four-part series on the history of the development, purely in the interest of the general public, and based upon inquiries made to and comments by town officials, area residents, attorneys and legal advisers, the developer, and others connected with the development.

Staff Writer Charles M. McCarthy, who spent months compiling facts from the aforementioned sources, will publish the facts as they could be best ascertained from these sources, leaving any conclusions which may be drawn, up to the reader..

Don't miss the first part of the series starting Tuesday, which deals with the breakdown of early developments from the developer's announced plans to the planning board's initial reactions.

MIGs Score Pair Of Hits on Sunday

By JOHN T. WHEELER

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Sixty-six U.S. Navy and Air Force planes attacked targets in North Viet Nam today. A U.S. spokesman said one Air Force plane was downed by Communist groundfire, and the pilot was recovered.

No enemy aircraft were reported sighted. Communist MIG fighters shot down two U.S. supersonic jets Sunday in the first air clash of the Viet Nam war and got away in the haze.

The Navy raid, launched from the carrier Coral Sea, was against the Vinh Linh early warning radar installation just north of the 17th Parallel border, a U.S. spokesman said.

25 Tons of Bombs

Thirty Skyraider, Skyhawk and Skywarrior planes hit the target with 25 tons of general-purpose bombs from 250 to 1,000 pounds in size. They also used napalm.

The strike planes were supported by about 20 Crusaders and Phantom fighters flying flak-suppression and interceptor missions.

Pilot Recovered

A U.S. spokesman said the target "was heavily damaged." He said the weather was clear, visibility good and no antiaircraft fire was encountered.

A flight of 16 U.S. Air Force jets struck rail lines and highways in North Viet Nam today, blowing up at least one train. Red groundfire was reported "moderate."

A U.S. spokesman said an F105 Thunderchief was shot down, but the pilot was recovered.

He said 10 F105 strike planes using rockets and cannon ranged over Routes 7 and 8 about 120 miles south of the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi. Six other jets flew cover and took photographs.

One diesel train exploded during the 30-minute raid, and another locomotive and two trucks were left in flames.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor returned from policy talks in Washington and hinted that the United States will broaden its role in the fight against the Communists.

No Sign on Talks

Taylor told an airport news conference that there was no sign that the North Vietnamese regime wants peace talks at this time.

"I believe it should be clear to friend and foe alike," he said, "that our commitment here is irrevocable and I will be discussing with Prime Minister (Phan Huy) Quat and other members of his government additional ways which our common effort can be strengthened additional ways which our common effort can be strengthened during the weeks ahead."

A U.S. crew chief on an armed helicopter was killed when the aircraft crashed in South Viet Nam's central highlands.

The helicopter apparently lost power, skidded 60 yards when it hit the ground and caught fire, a U.S. spokesman said.

In addition to the two U.S. jets shot down by the Communist MIGs Sunday, U.S. officials in

Design Is to Cut Off $200 Million on Farms

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration today proposed legislation designed to cut federal farm spending more than $200 million a year. But retail prices of bread and other foods probably would be pushed up $300 million or more a year.

The extra $100 million in food costs would go toward increasing farm income. In effect, the changes would shift part of the cost of farm programs from the government to consumers.

Savings to the government would come from a major change in the wheat subsidy program and modifications in rice supports and a cropland reduction program, all outlined in a farm bill sent to Congress.

Foods which would be expected to rise in price include bread, bakery products, flour, other wheat products and rice.

Present government farm price and income stabilization programs cost more than $3 billion a year. The net farm income last year was about $12.6 billion.

Some Changes

Along with wheat, the farm bill proposed a two-year extension of the feed grains program and a four-year extension of the wool stabilization program, both with some changes; a sharp modification in the rice support program; a cropland retirement system offering rental payments for land taken out of surplus crops and authority for farmers to sell, lease or otherwise transfer acreage planting allotments.

The measure contained no recommendations for either the cotton program or for creation of an emergency food reserve, both of which Johnson had mentioned in a special farm message on Feb. 4.

Administration officials said cotton wasn't included because no agreement has been reached on possible improvements. The food reserve plan still is being studied.

Wheat Arrangement

The wheat program, which would cover two years, would work this way:

Wheat grown for domestic food use would be supported at the parity price goal of federal farm programs, which, in the case of this grain, is about $2.50 a bushel. Under the present program domestically consumed wheat is supported at $2.

As in the case now, all wheat grown by farmers complying with the program by holding down acreages would be eligible for price supports at about $1.25 a bushel, the same as at present.

The millers would have to pay $1.25 a bushel on all wheat milled for domestic consumption compared with 75 cents now. Money paid by millers through purchase of marketing certificates would go to farmers complying with the program on the basis of their share of the domestic food wheat market of about 500 million bushels.

50 Cents More

This would mean that wheat be expected to pass this cost on for domestic food use would cost millers at least 50 cents a bushel more than at present. They would be expected to pass this cost on to consumers in the form of higher prices for flour, bread and other wheat food products.

The $1.25 wheat support would be at or near the world market price — a fact that would permit

State Penologist Enters Field for Sheriff's Post

A man who rose in the military ranks from private to colonel, and who has 28 years' service in criminology and penology announced today that he will seek the Republican nomination for Sheriff of Ulster County.

He is Frank Harkin, 52, of Kerhonkson, sergeant on the supervisory staff of the Eastern Correctional Institution at Napanoch and commander of 27th Armored Division Artillery, New York National Guard, with headquarters in Albany.

Colonel Harkin said he has notified Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson (R-Woodstock) Ulster County GOP chairman, of his candidacy. He said Wilson was in "accord" with Harkin's announcement, which was not to be construed as an endorsement.

Fifth in Race

Harkin thus becomes the fifth county resident to throw his hat into the ring for the post of sheriff which is to be vacated by Sheriff Claude Bell. The others who previously announced their candidacies for the GOP nomination, include Carl Cline of Port Ewen, a former county jailer; Earl J. Conro of Chichester, identification officer and clerk in charge of pistol permits in the Sheriff's Department; Peace Justice Robert Ferrigan of the Town of Kingston and Constable Joseph Feraca of the Town of Esopus.

Harkin was born in Brooklyn and graduated from St. Francis Xavier Military Academy. He entered the military as a private and rose quickly through the ranks. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in the National Guard Coast Artillery in 1935.

He served in various posts and in late 1940 went into active duty in staff and faculty posts at Fort Sill, Okla. and Camp Hood, Tex. in World War II.

On release from active duty in 1946, he returned to his position at the Napanoch Institution as

Commissioner Explains System

Move for Surplus Food Is Reported Underway

A petition reportedly was being circulated locally, calling for the start of a Surplus Foods Program in Ulster County.

Mrs. Edward Averill of 85 Abeel Street, said that those interested in getting signatures for the petition were urged to contact her or the Ulster County Chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) at 74½ Broadway. She said that such a program, which now has participation in 54 of the 65 counties in New York State, "would mean that people with large families or low incomes could get such foods as flour, peanut butter, rice, beans, butter, dry milk, cheese and canned meats which the Federal government donates at no cost to the state." She said that each county must apply to Albany for the program.

Official Explains

Meanwhile, Joseph Fitzsimmons, county commissioner of Public Welfare, said that Ulster has not made application for the surplus program in recent years because there was no demand for it. He explained that while it would provide the additional food, the program would require extra help and facilities for the administration and distribution of the foods. For instance, he said, refrigerated storage would be required for perishables, which would result in additional expense to the department over and above ordinary expenses. Besides, he said, a person being paid a certain amount of money each month by welfare, would still be paid the same amount under the food program.

Fitzsimmons said he met a week ago to discuss the program with Mrs. Averill and others and he also has met with the Welfare Committee of the Board of Supervisors. He said it was possible that a committee report would be made at Thursday's meeting of the Board.

Mrs. Averill said that the Surplus Foods Program gives "thousands of dollars to the countries," which in turn are

Johnson Appoints Eight to Take Look at Hospitals

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, wanting to take a second look at plans to close 11 veterans hospitals, has named an eight-man panel to review the controversial situation. The group expects to start its study this week.

Johnson appointed the panel Saturday night and told it to report back to him by June 1, adding he will "promptly act on its recommendations."

E. Barrett Prettyman, retired chief judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, was named chairman. He said Sunday that "we should be moving before the week is out."

Could Have Erred

"We may have erred in the past, and we may err in the future," Johnson said. "We must be certain no veteran who needs medical attention is deprived of it by unwise action."

The plan to close the hospitals, 4 soldiers homes and 17 regional VA offices was announced Jan. 13 and immediately ran into congressional criticism. Veterans Administrator William J. Driver said an estimated total of $23 million would be saved by closing outmoded

New CP Center Planned On Webster Ave. Site

At a special meeting of the board of directors of United Cerebral Palsy of Ulster County Edward deGroff, president, announced that plans are now underway for the construction of a new building.

Land on Webster Avenue, Kingston is being donated to the CP Center by the Benedictine Hospital for the purpose of a new building.

"This new building will house our present clinic and staff and will have room for expansion," deGroff said. "There will be adaquate parking and an outdoor playground for the children."

At present the CP Center is operating under extremely crowded conditions. All available space is being used, much of it for dual purposes. There is no room for expansion, yet the case load increases each year. The present staff of three speech therapists, one physical therapist, nursery school teacher, director and secretary cannot handle any more children.

"It has been proven best for the children to receive help as early in life as possible, but because of the lack of space we currently have long waiting lists of children who need therapy. With our new building we can accomodate these children when they need help," said deGroff. "No longer must there be frustrations caused by needless waiting lists."

United Cerebral Palsy of Ulster County is a member of the Ulster County Community Chest and treats all physically handicapped children from infancy to age 18 in the counties of Ulster and Greene.

Good Traveling Weather Brings 31 Road Deaths

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The worst traffic death toll of the year was registered in New York State over the weekend as sunny skies and spring breezes enticed thousands of motorists.

Road conditions were good throughout most of the state, state police said, but traffic accidents still claimed 31 lives in the 54 hours from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday. Four traffic deaths were registered during the same period the previous weekend.

In other weekend mishaps, two persons perished in fires and a three-month old boy was asphyxiated when he pulled a plastic bag over his face.

The weekend traffic toll was within 10 of the highest death count for a non-holiday weekend in recent years. Forty-one persons were killed in traffic accidents in the first weekend of November, 1963, Associated Press records show.

Deaths, by community included:

Friday night

Saturday

Mansville — S-Sgt. Louis Dempsey, 23, stationed at Fort Devens, Mass., and in training at Camp Drum, car-tractor-trailer crash on Interstate Route 81, south of Watertown.

United States Officials Embarrassed As Air Force Loses 2 Planes to Reds

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials were embarrassed today because the Air Force came off second best in the first air combat with Communist fighters since the Korean war.

To deepen the embarrassment, the Communist MIGs shot down two of this country's modern fighter-bombers over North Viet Nam with models dating back to the Korean War period.

Gen. J. P. McConnell, Air Force chief of staff, was reported irked over the incident. As one source put it: "When they get ours and we don't get theirs, you know how he feels."

A report reaching here said the pilot of an F100 fighter, escorting the F105 fighter-bombers on a strike against a key rail and highway bridge, thought he winged a MIG with a 20mm cannon shot.

However, confirmation of such a hit was lacking. The six attacking MIGs disappeared back into a haz from which they jumped the fighter bombers.

The MIGs bore North Vietnamese markings and presumably were part of 30 such aircraft based at fields near Hanoi.

McConnell, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and others were in the Pentagon on Sunday reading the cable reports on the incident.

No official would speak out publicly, but their discomfiture was evident from private remarks.

The Defense Department issued an unusual Sunday statement which played down the loss of the two F105s and other craft, and emphasized results of U.S. and South Vietnamese air strikes against three important bridges in North Viet Nam.

The Pentagon said the strikes "inflicted serious damage" by ruining the bridges, which it called "vital links in the North Vietnamese transportation system supporting Communist guerrilla operations in South Viet Nam and Laos."

The vital importance of these bridges to the North Vietnamese was indicated by the heavy antiaircraft defenses and by the fact that MIG interceptor aircraft were employed for the first time," it added.

The Pentagon statement, unlike official information given out in Saigon, did not mention that the Thanh Hoa bridge had to be hit a second time Sunday

Good Traveling Weather Brings 31 Road Deaths

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The worst traffic death toll of the year was registered in New York State over the weekend as sunny skies and spring breezes enticed thousands of motorists.

Road conditions were good throughout most of the state, state police said, but traffic accidents still claimed 31 lives in the 54 hours from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday. Four traffic deaths were registered during the same period the previous weekend.

In other weekend mishaps, two persons perished in fires and a three-month old boy was asphyxiated when he pulled a plastic bag over his face.

The weekend traffic toll was within 10 of the highest death count for a non-holiday weekend in recent years. Forty-one persons were killed in traffic accidents in the first weekend of November, 1963, Associated Press records show.

Deaths, by community included:

Friday night

Saturday

Albany — E. L. Weston, about 37, fire in his second-floor apartment.

Commissioner Explains System

Move for Surplus Food Is Reported Underway

A petition reportedly was being circulated locally, calling for the start of a Surplus Foods Program in Ulster County.

Mrs. Edward Averill of 85 Abeel Street, said that those interested in getting signatures for the petition were urged to contact her or the Ulster County Chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) at 74½ Broadway. She said that such a program, which now has participation in 54 of the 65 counties in New York State, "would mean that people with large families or low incomes could get such foods as flour, peanut butter, rice, beans, butter, dry milk, cheese and canned meats which the Federal government donates at no cost to the state." She said that each county must apply to Albany for the program.

Official Explains

Meanwhile, Joseph Fitzsimmons, county commissioner of Public Welfare, said that Ulster has not made application for the surplus program in recent years because there was no demand for it. He explained that while it would provide the additional food, the program would require extra help and facilities for the administration and distribution of the foods. For instance, he said, refrigerated storage would be required for perishables, which would result in additional expense to the department over and above ordinary expenses. Besides, he said, a person being paid a certain amount of money each month by welfare, would still be paid the same amount under the food program.

Fitzsimmons said he met a week ago to discuss the program with Mrs. Averill and others and he also has met with the Welfare Committee of the Board of Supervisors. He said it was possible that a committee report would be made at Thursday's meeting of the Board.

Mrs. Averill said that the Surplus Foods Program gives "thousands of dollars to the countries," which in turn are

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, wanting to take a second look at plans to close 11 veterans hospitals, has named an eight-man panel to review the controversial situation. The group expects to start its study this week.

Johnson appointed the panel Saturday night and told it to report back to him by June 1, adding he will "promptly act on its recommendations."

E. Barrett Prettyman, retired chief judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, was named chairman. He said Sunday that "we should be moving before the week is out."

Could Have Erred

"We may have erred in the past, and we may err in the future," Johnson said. "We must be certain no veteran who needs medical attention is deprived of it by unwise action."

The plan to close the hospitals, 4 soldiers homes and 17 regional VA offices was announced Jan. 13 and immediately ran into congressional criticism. Veterans Administrator William J. Driver said an estimated total of $23 million would be saved by closing outmoded

At a special meeting of the board of directors of United Cerebral Palsy of Ulster County Edward deGroff, president, announced that plans are now underway for the construction of a new building.

Land on Webster Avenue, Kingston is being donated to the CP Center by the Benedictine Hospital for the purpose of a new building.

"This new building will house our present clinic and staff and will have room for expansion," deGroff said. "There will be adaquate parking and an outdoor playground for the children."

At present the CP Center is operating under extremely crowded conditions. All available space is being used, much of it for dual purposes. There is no room for expansion, yet the case load increases each year. The present staff of three speech therapists, one physical therapist, nursery school teacher, director and secretary cannot handle any more children.

"It has been proven best for the children to receive help as early in life as possible, but because of the lack of space we currently have long waiting lists of children who need therapy. With our new building we can accomodate these children when they need help," said deGroff. "No longer must there be frustrations caused by needless waiting lists."

United Cerebral Palsy of Ulster County is a member of the Ulster County Community Chest and treats all physically handicapped children from infancy to age 18 in the counties of Ulster and Greene.

United States Officials Embarrassed As Air Force Loses 2 Planes to Reds

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials were embarrassed today because the Air Force came off second best in the first air combat with Communist fighters since the Korean war.

To deepen the embarrassment, the Communist MIGs shot down two of this country's modern fighter-bombers over North Viet Nam with models dating back to the Korean War period.

Gen. J. P. McConnell, Air Force chief of staff, was reported irked over the incident. As one source put it: "When they get ours and we don't get theirs, you know how he feels."

A report reaching here said the pilot of an F100 fighter, escorting the F105 fighter-bombers on a strike against a key rail and highway bridge, thought he winged a MIG with a 20mm cannon shot.

However, confirmation of such a hit was lacking. The six attacking MIGs disappeared back into a haz from which they jumped the fighter bombers.

The MIGs bore North Vietnamese markings and presumably were part of 30 such aircraft based at fields near Hanoi.

McConnell, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and others were in the Pentagon on Sunday reading the cable reports on the incident.

The Defense Department issued an unusual Sunday statement which played down the loss of the two F105s and other craft, and emphasized results of U.S. and South Vietnamese air strikes against three important bridges in North Viet Nam.

The Pentagon said the strikes "inflicted serious damage" by ruining the bridges, which it called "vital links in the North Vietnamese transportation system supporting Communist guerrilla operations in South Viet Nam and Laos."

The vital importance of these bridges to the North Vietnamese was indicated by the heavy antiaircraft defenses and by the fact that MIG interceptor aircraft were employed for the first time," it added.

The Pentagon statement, unlike official information given out in Saigon, did not mention that the Thanh Hoa bridge had to be hit a second time Sunday

Polish Catholics Face Dilemma of Church vs. State

By GENE KRAMER

The question is a burning one in Poland, where the government is Communist while 90 per cent of the people are Catholic.

Some Catholics work for the state out of partiotism or civic pride. Some are able to reconcile Marxism with their religion. Many don't think about it and have no choice anyway, if they want to eat.

Poland's Roman Catholic primate, Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, has a choice and he exercises it.

Catholics and Communists alike predict the eloquent, white-haired prince of the Church never again will give Wladyslaw Gomulka's regime as much cooperation as he did in 1956 and 1957.

Assisted in Election

Cardinal Wyszynski helped Gomulka by urging Catholics to vote in the regime's single slate election of 1957.

Four years later, the Church was neutral at election time. It is expected to stay neutral again in this year's May 30 voting. The 63-year-old cardinal has indicated he will not make any new agreements with the regime, on the grounds that it has not lived up to the one he and Gomulka concluded in 1956.

Cardinal Wyszynski has never forgiven the Polish government for removing religious instruction from the public schools after agreeing to it in 1956 as an optional course for students desiring it.

Border Is Barrier

There is no sign of an early solution to the school issue. Another barrier to agreement is that the Vatican appears unprepared to recognize as final the Oderneisse frontier between Poland and Germany, a basic demand of the Warsaw government.

The Church-state commission created in 1956 has not met this year and no meetings are scheduled.

Polish Catholics enjoy freedom of worship. Churches are crowded. The complaints raised by Cardinal Wyszynski and his bishops are over restrictions on the Church in the fields of teaching, propagation, building construction, heavy taxation and the lack of a Catholic daily press or radio. The cardinal has accused the Polish government of religious persecution and violation of international agreements.

The regime feels time is on its side as long as Church education is restricted. Officials portray the clergy as spreading antiquated ideas and claim that education and migration to the cities will in time create a more secular Polish nation.

Audrey Will Sub For Pat Neal At Oscar Show

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It is the custom of the Motion Picture Academy for the best-actor Oscar to be presented by the previous year's winner for best actress. Tonight, due to the illness of Patricia Neal, that tradition will be broken.

Audrey Hepburn, who won the award in 1953 for "Roman Holiday," will substitute for Miss Neal. The event has this added significance: Miss Hepburn came here from Europe even though she was snubbed by academy voters, who failed to nominate her for "My Fair Lady."

The substitution might have overtones of sorrow except for the fact that Miss Neal, winner of an Oscar last year for "Hud," is making a remarkable recovery from triple strokes that threatened her life.

On Feb. 17, the actress finished her second day's work on "Seven Women" and returned to the rented home she shared with her two children and husband Rouald Dahl, noted British author of short stories. She suffered the first, disabling stroke.

Her husband rushed her to UCLA hospital where a second stroke made her unconscious. While emergency measures were being taken, the third and largest of the strokes made surgery imperative. Dr. Charles Carton removed clots created by hemorrhaging. A complicating factor: Miss Neal was pregnant with her fourth child.

For days she showed no sign of movement. Then, slowly, consciousness returned. Her motor responses so improved that she was allowed to go home from the hospital after four weeks.

"As to Pat's speech, no one can tell about it yet," Dahl added. "She gets along pretty well, but she can't ask questions.

Population Explosion Is Church Seminar Concern

Commenting on the discussion at the two-day conclave, the Rev. Mr. Werner said that the current population increases if continued presents a greater threat of war than the unclear bomb.

He pointed out the biggest problem today in world relations is the gap between the industralized richer nations of the West and the underdeveloped poorer nations primarily in the East. The rate of population increase in the West is more or less correlated with industrial growth and is not as much of an economic hardship as it is in the non-industrialized nations where the rate of increase far out distances the ability to produce goods.

Famine, Unrest Result

This serves to widen the gap as poverty increases in the already poorer nations. Famine and unrest can be the only outcome and would serve as the trigger to war.

The seminar heard world leaders from countries which are represented on the United Nations Population Commission outline the problems, goals and proposed solutions. The role of society and religion were stressed. It was noted that most of the major religions of the world are not opposed to birth control and that the Catholic Church is softening in its views.

The Rev. Mr. Werner was invited to participate as a member of the seminar by the General Board of Christian Social Concerns of the Methodist Church. Sessions were held at the Church Center of the United Nations in the Dag Hammarskjold Room.

Keynote speaker was Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher, president of the Planned Parenthood World Population. Other speakers included John Durand, assistant director, Bureau of social affairs in charge of population branch; C. K. Diwali, secretary, World Population Conference; Dr. Edgar Berman, chief health consultant, Alliance of Progress; Winfield Best, executive vice president, Planned Parenthood — World Population; Dr. Louis Dupre, professor of philosophy, Georgetown University; Dr. Richard M. Fagley, commission of the Churches on International Affairs, World Council of Churches and William Streng, Planned Parenthood Consultant of Church World Service.

More Making Dash to Banks

Many Seeking Loans To Ease Tax Burden

WASHINGTON (AP) — Income tax is biting so hard this year you can see the marks.

Some banks are reporting an unusually large number of personal loans. The reason, no secret: money needed to pay taxes.

The Internal Revenue Service has noticed a significant slowdown in the flow of tax returns. The reason, presumed but obvious: more people than usual are waiting until the last minute — April 15 — because they have to send money in.

No Refunds This Time

A lot of families which are used to getting refunds in the spring haven't got any this year. The reason, the same one that is behind most of this year's more than usual tax distress: last year's under-withholding.

And yet, ironically, a larger percentage of those taxpayers who have filed their returns are making errors in favor of the government.

When pay check deductions were reduced in March 1964 from 18 per cent to 14 per cent following enactment of an $11.5 billion tax cut, the largest in history, Johnson administration taxpayers who earn from $7,500 to $20,000 wouldn't be fully covered by withholding.

The withholding rate was set a little low to put more money in the spending stream and thereby pep up the economy. Economists almost unanimously agree that the strategy worked — but it put a crimp in the personal financial strategy of many taxpayers.

Many taxpayers did not take advantage of their option to permit larger deductions from their pay checks.

Big Rush Later

Some banks say the big rush for loan applications won't come until a few days before the April 15 deadline.

However, officials of Federal Reserve District banks in Philadelphia and Richmond, Va., said there was no noticeable increase in the number of personal loans.

As of March 19, the revenue service had mailed out 16.3 million refunds compared to 18.8 million at a comparable point last year, a decline of 14 per cent.

Refunds totaled about $1.9 billion, a drop of 25 per cent from the $2.6 billion of last year.

Usually the number of returns increases 2 to 4 per cent a year. By March 19, the IRS had received 7.5 per cent fewer returns as compared to March 19, 1964. The totals: 32,060,000 in the 1964 period and 29,656,000 this year.

THE DIFFUSION OF PROSPERITY

To alleviate somewhat the adverse balance of payments, the United States Government has set in motion plans to reduce American lending and spending abroad. This action has disturbed many investors, especially those who own common stocks of corporations doing foreign business.

This suggested curtailment of lending and spending will not have a great influence on long-range corporate prosperity. The economic needs of low-standard countries with large undeveloped resources will challenge the merchandising, manufacturing, and financing brains of America and, as a result, everybody will benefit.

Here in New York City, I hear every day unfavorable comments about the world-leading banks which will be somewhat affected by the reduction of foreign loans. In recent weeks, some of the blue-chip bank stocks have been weak, primarily because of this belief.

Likewise, the prospect of reduced capital spending abroad has dampened the spirits of many prospective common stock holders who have either taken profits or refrained from buying sound equities.

But the pulse of the international economic world is still strong and within a reasonable length of time, the balance of payments will be straightened out and spending and lending will be allowed to follow their normal course.

As a matter of fact, foreign investment always has a healthy influence on American prosperity. In 1950, direct investments abroad totalled $11,800,000,000. Today, they are more than $40,000,000,000.

In recent years, the total of direct private investments from the United States have averaged $1,700,000,000 annually. And there has been a steady increase in income from overseas from these investments.

Nothing exemplifies this situation better than the world's largest manufacturing and sales organization which, in 1964, did a $17,000,000,000 business. Overseas, this giant corporation has operational units in Argentina, Australia, Austria, Belgium, Brazil, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Great Britain, Italy, Mexico, New Zealand, Norway, Peru, Portugal, South Africa, Sweden, Switzerland, Uruguay, and Venezuela.

One important reason why I have been enthusiastic about common stocks as sound investments for 40 years is that our great American enterprises, catering to the social and economic needs of the world, are constantly expanding their markets to help other peoples achieve a higher standard of living.

Periodically (like the prospective curtailment of foreign lending and spending), something will come along to discourage investors. But these things are of a temporary nature.

My favorite bank stock is down $15 a share and constantly, I hear: "Its foreign lending is going to drop and this will influence profits and dividends."

But under the aegis of the best-managed corporations in the world, the world's living standards are slowly rising and prosperity is becoming more diffused every day.

In such a world, an investor with vision will buy common stocks for growth and inflation protection.

Four Big Proposals Are Still Pending in Congress

BY JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Spring is the vague time in Washington, that busy-busy period when much is adoing and little is finished, but few springs have been vaguer than this.

To begin with, President Johnson has four big proposals pending in Congress: medical care for the aged, federal aid to education, a voting bill to make sure Negroes can go to the polls, and some measure to curb the Ku Klux Klan.

But more vague than anything is the unfinished business in Viet Nam.

Johnson probably never expected to get medical care, aid to education and the voting bill in precisely the form he asked, and he is not likely to since some revisions are inevitable after full House and Senate consideration.

But it seems certain he will get all three in a form still satisfactory to him, and perhaps even more far-reaching than he requested.

All of which is a great tribute to his extraordinary ability to get Congress to see things his way, an ability which involves personal meetings with most or all members of Congress, personal telephone calls and messages, and visits from his aides.

If any president was able to get just one of those pieces of legislation through in any one year — say aid to education — it would have been considered a great triumph.

But to get aid to education and medical aid through in this one year will be a dazzling performance.

The crack-down on the Klan is still in its baby stage if only because the House Committee on Un-American Activities is going to investigate the Klan and not much in legislation can be expected until that is finished.

It is in Viet Nam that the country is left guessing and there are no prophets around glibly or confidently predicting the outcome there.

In the past few weeks there have been rumors around Washington — perhaps rumors is not as good a word as murmurs — that the North Vietnamese Communists would like to start talking about a settlement.

But there is nothing definite — publicly known, that is — to indicate any such desire by the Reds who have been stoically under American bombing as one week of it follows another.

The bombing has had the obvious purpose of pressuring the North Vietnamese into seeking a settlement. As time goes by, and the Reds show no signs of bending, the Johnson administration's inclination to extend the bombing ever deeper into North Viet Nam seems sure.

At this time the Soviet Union and Red China, despite some grumblings and half-hearted threats, have been unusually quiet, too, and all this only adds to the guessing.

No one is pretending to know what Red China will do if the Americans, for instance, finally decide to bomb the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi.

When all this is added up it comes down to phenomenal success for Johnson at home and a great, brooding uncertainty about what may happen overseas.

Co-op Head Says '65 Milk Market Outlook Is Good

Milk marketing prospects for 1965 are considerably improved over a year ago, particularly with respect to handling charges received by operating cooperatives, according to Alton Johnson, High Falls.

Johnson, manager and treasurer of the Shawangunk Cooperative Dairies Inc., spoke at the organization's annual meeting recently at the S. R. S. Resort, Cottekill. The session was attended by 130 members, wives and friends.

Three directors were reelected at the meeting. They were—Joseph Browne, Kingston; Clarence Hansen, High Falls, and Charles Denkensohn, Accord, who also was reelected vice-president of the Cooperative at the reorganization meeting of the Board of Directors, which followed the membership session.

Backs Market Efforts

Johnson pointed out that the Shawangunk plant is the only receiving station remaining in Ulster County, and that the local cooperative no longer needed to be concerned about an outlet or market for its milk, since the Mutual Milk Sales plant at Oneida, operated by the Northeast Dairy Cooperative stands ready to back up marketing efforts of the local cooperatives.

Shawangunk Cooperative Dairies is a member of the Northeast Dairy Cooperative Federation which has recently been formed by the merger of the former Mutual Federation of Independent Cooperatives with the Metropolitan Cooperative Milk Producers Bargaining Agency.

Officers Are Reelected

Other officers re-elected at the reorganization meeting of the Board of Directors included: Frank Coddington, president; Clarence Hansen, secretary; Alton Johnson, treasurer. Johnson was also selected the Cooperative's delegate to the Northeast Federation, succeeding John Schreiber, New Paltz. Schreiber was named alternate delegate.

Other members of the reorganized Board of Directors include: William Anderson, Accord; John Geiger, Ellenville; Wilfred Neff, High Falls; Mr. Schreiber and Raymond Muthig, assistant secretary, Parksville.

Working Girl Works Harder On Tax Form Than on Job

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — The government calls it my income. I call it my outgo. Whatever its name, it turns out the money I earn as a working girl isn't mine, after all.

The part the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker didn't get this past year, the Internal Revenue Service wants.

All of a sudden Uncle Sam shows an interest in my interest. He gives my dividends his undivided attention. He takes stock of my stock transactions.

At this time of the year, it all figures. And so do I.

It's not that I mind sending part of my capital to the Capitol. It's just that I work harder trying to decide how much of my pay to dispatch than I worked earning it in the first place.

They say the form is simpler this year. The trouble is, I'm even simpler than the form. My suggestion is to make it true-false or at least multiple choice. Then I might get a passing grade. As things stand now, the only blanks I'm sure I've filled in correctly are my name and Social Security number.

It's no wonder I'm mixed up. I was taught to add and subtract lines. Nothing in my algebra classes prepared me to take line 11A from line 9 and come up with the proper answer to 11B.

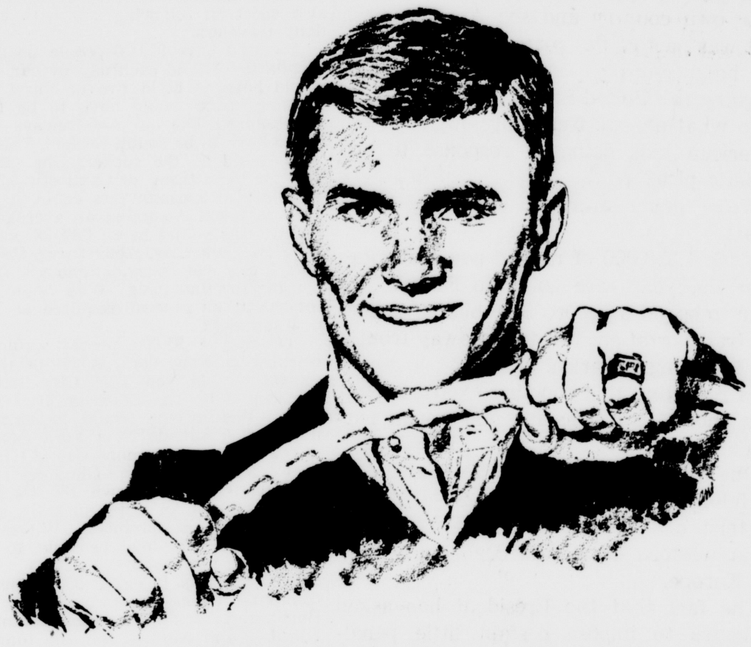

I obeyed the admonition to "See instructions before completing your return." They merely convinced me that my only solution was to 1. Take a wild guess; 2. Quit my job; 3. Throw myself on the mercy of the court; or 3A. Go to jail.

Fighting my way through credits, deductions, exemptions, adjustments, brackets, parentheses, dotted lines, arrows, dashes and a generous supply of Roman and Arabic numerals, I arrived finally at No. 21. This required me simply to subtract line 20 from line 19, an easy maneuver for one who had already tossed off enough A, B, C, D, and E's to make a substantial alphabet soup. I had won!

But now I have to go back and do it all over again. I forgot to enter under expenses for drugs purchased last year that bottle of tranquilizers I armed myself with before I entered the fray.

GOING OVERSEAS

Smart salesmen know the best way to get people to do something is to ask them not to do it.

President Johnson has just proved it.

He appealed to Americans the other day not to take overseas pleasure trips just now, but to spend their travel money in their own country and see America first.

It was part of the current effort to solve the balance-of-payments problem that is plaguing the United States.

So what are we fun-loving, high-spirited American kids doing in response to our leader's plea?

We're going overseas by golly, that's what!

Some 1,350,000 of us—10 per cent more than last year—are going to Europe this year to spend a record $1.7 billion, including transportation, just to get away from it all, including America.

In reporting this booming exodus to foreign shores, travel agents don't seem particularly grief-stricken.

One high travel official, in fact, is quoted as feling "it is unbecoming to the great western democracy" to suggest that we great western democrats curb our yen to see Europe.

The fact that the President has asked Congress to impose certain little penalties on those of us who insist on going overseas—a slash in the amount of duty exemption, for instance—seems only to whet the appetite for foreign travel at this particular time.

Maybe the way to achieve the balance-of-payments goal is for Congress to pass a law making it slightly illegal for any American citizen to travel in the United States this year, and to offer inducements to those who do go abroad.

Then it would really be fun to see America first.

Meanwhile, shall we go to Europe by air or water. Oh, these decisions!

The nation continues to get more than its usual share of late winter storms. We may have another long, hot summer, but anyway we won't have to worry about spring.

The Russian two-man capsule had a special airlock to reduce pressure—which the Kremlin would like to adapt to Soviet-Chinese relations if it could.

COLD CASH COOLS ARABS

Fears that West Germany's recognition of Israel would polarize the Middle Eastern countries and lead to a mass shift of sentiment toward Moscow appear to have been exaggerated.

Two myths—that hatred of Israel dominates all Arab thinking and that Gabel Abdel Nasser dominates all Arabs—may have been exploded.

So far, only two countries have indicated they will follow Nasser's lead and recall their ambassadors from Bonn. They are Yemen and Iraq.

According to some sources, this spotty reaction may be because Libya, for instance, sells almost half its oil to West Germany. Saudi Arabia also sells to Bonn, while Jordan is the recipient of large-scale German aid. Other countries don't want to jeopardize their economic relations with the Common Market.

Syria is dickering for an $87 million loan from Germany. In contrast, Iraq has announced that a $140-million dam will be built in that country by Russia.

It is not, it appears, that the reluctant Arabs oppose Israel the less but that they value their own economic well-being the more.

RESPONSE TO THE CALL

The welfare of little children would seem to be a matter of concern to all decent citizens. Yet recent attempts by organizations to recruit volunteers to supervise dances and other recreational projects netted only a few workers. This, unhappily, is a continuing experience.

These facts point up a common difficulty of persuading men and women of good will to give not only money but time and personal service. Is it true that we really are, as has been suggested so often lately, a people hesitant to be involved in the welfare of others? All responsible adults ought to mull over this matter and take an honest look at how well they themselves respond to call for service.

New York critics panned the movie, "John Goldfarb, Please Come Home," which takes the name of Notre Dame University in vain. And they aren't alumni, either.

NO DISTINGUISHING BETWEEN SUCKERS

The governors of New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island met the other day to discuss ways of saving the New Haven Railroad (deficit: $2 million a month) for the 25,000 commuters it carries into New York City each working day. It wasn't like the amiable time when all the Governor of South Carolina had to complain of to the Governor of North Carolina was that it was a long time between drinks. In fact, New York's Governor Nelson Rockefeller annoyed the New England governors by saying, "We don't want to be made suckers or have the taxpayers of our state made suckers."

Governor John Dempsey of Connecticut was particularly upset by the Rockefeller remark. To try to distinguish shades of possible suckerdom in putting up tax money to keep the New Haven Railroad passenger service running is a mathematical poser that would require a whole panel of Einsteins to crack, and the Connecticut governor resented the imputation that his state was trying to get something out of New York that is not warranted.

This column can't afford access to Univac, but it doesn't take any professional computer programming to see that in this business of giving and receiving commuters Fate plays no favorites. If Connecticut suburban communities—the famous "exurbs" of learned sociological dissertations—would be ruined by the disappearance of their commuter railroad, New York City would hardly escape its full share of the consequences.

Just try to think of what would happen to the Big Town if the big New England feeder into New York were to go out of business. Surely, if the New Haven were to throw its 25,000 daily passengers to the mercy of busses and automobiles, the New York Central would have a valid excuse to dump its 35,000 profitless commuters. The Erie-Lackawanna and other New Jersey railroads would also insist on following suit with another 35,000 daily travelers.

So we'd have 95,000 people trying to get into Manhattan Island each day by car. Robert Moses would have to build two or three more bridges. Parking space would have to be found for the automobiles. The outer driveways of Manhattan would have to be double-decked. Talk about taxes! Who would be the suckers, the citizens of New York or the citizens of Connecticut?

The 95,000 commuters could, of course, move back to town. Assuming an average of four to a family, this would mean 380,000 new inhabitants for New York City. Ahoy there, Governor Rockefeller, can you provide enough middle income housing for that gang? Who would be the sucker for the urban renewal required to domicile 95,000 new families?

Or maybe 95,000 people would simply stop working in New York. A lot of them now earn big incomes in New York City that are taxed at the source by the State government in Albany. Pouf!—this income would be earned elsewhere, much of it outside New York State. And think of the office space around Grand Central Terminal that would go begging. The New York Central is just about to tear down the Park Lane Hotel, which it owns, in order to build a new highrise building on the premises. Without commuters, would such buildings be able to maintain the value they now have.

Chicago has it easy: it can use double-deck commuter trains like the one that runs over the Burlington tracks to outlying communities such as Hinsdale and Aurora. But the tunnels into Manhattan's terminals aren't high enough to accomodate double-deckers. The commuter railroads could dump their passengers at the city limits, but then the New York suckers have to pay taxes to build new subways downtown. Mayor Wagnor would just love that.

If there are to be suckers in this business of keeping commuter lines going, it's sure to be all of us. We've been suckered by a Federal tax policy that hurt the railroads in order to subsidize airlines. We've been suckered by state transportation policies that provide highways for automobiles yet tax railroad property. Governor Rockefeller shouldn't have annoyed Governor Dempsey; he should have recalled President Kennedy's remark that the word for our whole national transportation policy is chaos.

Visit Nursery School Before Enrolling Child

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Nursery schools are gaining in numbers and popularity. It is not too early to look ahead if your child will be ready in the fall.

A young mother may want to send her child to a nursery school because she is employed outside the home. She may want more free time for outside activities. Or it may be that there are no children her child's age in the immediate vicinity.

Regardless of her reasons she should ask herself: "Is my child ready to adjust to this new experience?

"Does the nursery school give him the kind of experience he needs? Does the school meet certain minimum standards?"

Since nursery schools vary widely, visit the school before enrolling your child. Thus you can observe whether the children appear to be happy. It is very important that each child should have a chance to tell the teacher and others about his experiences. Easy communication is a valuable asset. The earlier it is developed the better.

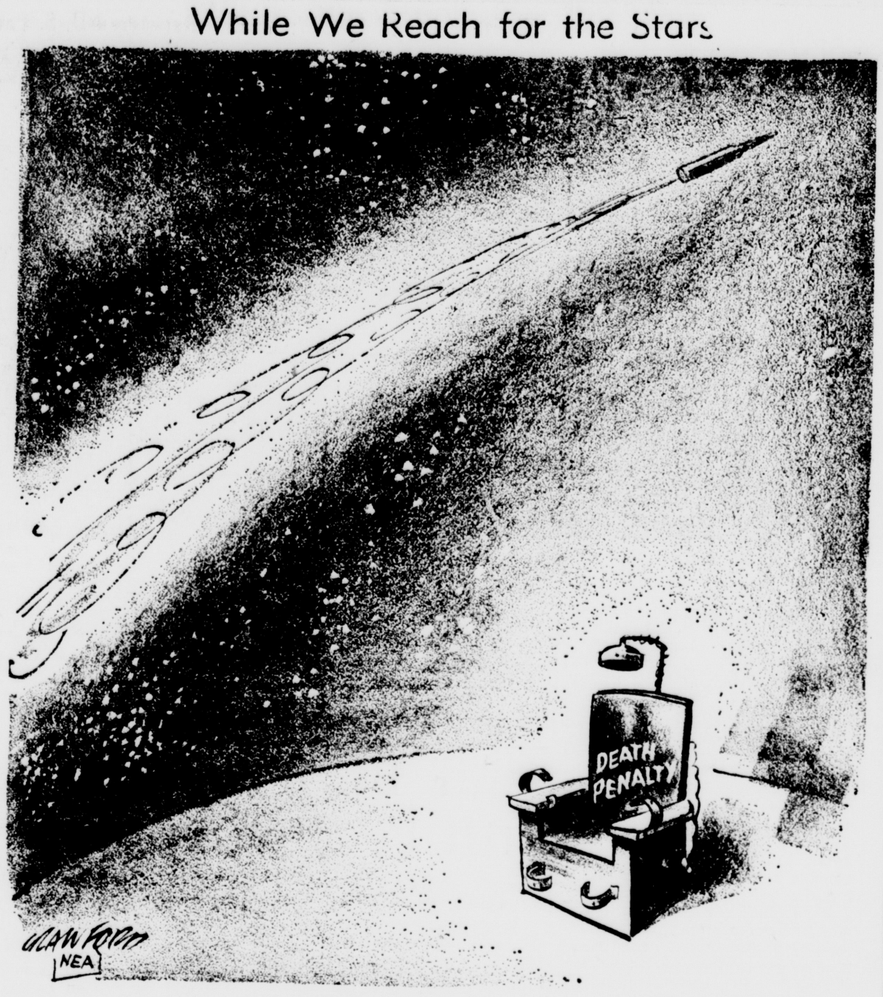

Teachers should be friendly and understanding. In matters of discipline they should be firm but gentle. They should welcome conferences with parents. There should be at least two teachers for each group of 15 to 20 children so that one can give a few minutes of individual attention to a child who needs it while the other one supervises the group. One or more of the teachers should have had training in first aid.

While you are at the school inquire about such safety measures as protection against accidents and fire. Look and see if the toilets are clean and take note of the play materials and equipment.

In any contact with a group your child will be exposed to some infectious diseases. When these are mild they help your child build up an immunity to many common infections. This is an advantage. It is a regular experience in the armed forces that, in the first few months of training, recruits have many infections, mostly of the upper respiratory tract. Youths from rural areas who have had limited contacts with others are always harder hit than those who come from the cities.

If, however, while your child is attending nursery school he has a series of 4 or 5 colds one after another you should consider withdrawing him from the school for a few weeks.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — By coincidence, at this time when some people are advocating a treaty with the Communists on Viet Nam, a study of the history of treaties with Red dictatorships is now circulating among government policy makers.

The study warns:

Beware of treaties that depend on "neutral" enforcement or inspection agencies. Experience has shown the Reds won't accept such "neutral" teams unless they include Communist representation. Then the Red members inevitably go all-out to subvert the team's ability either to enforce or inspect.

Treaty violations aren't likely to be corrected satisfactorily through a coalition government which includes Communists. The Communist government officials will invariably work to take over or immobilize the government.

World opinion can't be counted on to get a Communist dictatorship to stop violating a treaty. Democratic states may be sensitive to the pressure of public opinion. But self-contained powers with a controlled press can usually ignore the opinion of other states.

In particular, widespread disapproval will seldom, if ever, alienate the people of a violating nation from their government; more often than not the reverse will occur and the people of the offending nation will rally behind their government.

Economic sanctions will rarely be effective in preventing treaty violations. They are almost certain to fail against major, self-contained powers.

The concepts of truth, logic and precedent can be of little or no concern to Communists in their approach to treaty negotiations and compliance if these are not consistent with their national or ideological objectives. In negotiations with Communists, it is generally desirable to deal on a tough quid pro quo (something for something) basis.

When a treaty is made with Communist countries, it is essential to be prepared to respond determinedly whenever the Reds violate the pact. The Communists would probably consider failure to respond to a violation as an invitation to go ahead and unilaterally modify the agreement to suit their fancy.

It is essential that this response to treaty violations be both speedy and effective and be carried out with a clear demonstration of U. S. will.

To assure this prompt and adequate response, detailed contingency planning should be undertaken on precisely what action should be taken when violation occurs.

The study concludes:

With the stakes so high, it is necessary to think seriously about the possible consequences of reliance on inst ments so historically fragile as treaties have been.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Control of the human figure is possible, but hardly worth the agony. Mine is shaped like the ace of diamonds. It is five feet seven and one-half inches from north to south. It tilts the toledoes at 176, and looks almost right in a dark suit. The legs and arms are too thick and too short for the rest of the package, and the gray hair and lined face give me the sad expression of an unfrocked cleric who has been caught with the choir singer.

It's going to be sadder because I am on a diet. A few days ago, I sat at lunch with Jackie Gleason and I began to think skinny. Mr. G. is a tub of love. He counts his calories on a computer. Still, he doesn't eat as much as our Karen. She's 12 years old, five feet four inches tall, and knocks off a steak, five baked potatoes, two servings of macaroni and cheese, vegetables, soup, and dessert with whipped cream, two glasses of milk, and looks like a frightened exclamation point.

There is a suspicion that it's the fourth meal each day which fattens me. Could be. My wife and I go to bed with food. This, in our house, is the goody hour. By the time the late news goes on television, we are propped up like maharajahs. She has her family-size bag of potato chips (we turn the volume up on the set to equalize the noise), a can of beer, and sometimes a bowl of salad.

I have a pot of tea, a peanut butter sandwich, two bags of candy and a package of cigarettes. This gets us through the news of the day, but seldom lasts through the movie which follows. Kelly makes additional trips to the kitchen. She remains skinny, which is unfair.

My father watched this from his reclining chair for several nights and then stopped Kelly. "May I tell you something?" he said gravely. "Watching you two go to bed is like watching the Great White Hunters go on safari."

Abuse got him nowhere. He told us he had to be careful what he ate because he has a fibrillating heart and a duodenal ulcer which is livelier than he is. It also gets more exercise. So, Kelly worked him over gently and, in a short time, he was beating her to the refrigerator. My father took a length of hard salami and a fine kitchen knife, followed by pickled pigs' feet and herring, all of which slammed into that ulcer and, in the excitement, the ulcer died.

We never heard another word about it. Within a month, my father began to look pregnant. For him, this is unusual. He left suddenly and flew home to my sister's house to go on a diet. Right now he's on canary seed and crushed vitamin pills in milk. He's no thinner. Adele tells me, but he sings better.

I had to do something about myself. My daughter Gayle, who is studying nursing at Mt. Siani Hospital, said: "Do as you please, but if I were you . . ." She's the only woman I know who can eat a full dinner at home, and then go to a pizza restaurant with her friends and eat another dinner. I gathered that all of this was good for her and bad for me.

Now I'm on a carbohydrate diet. I dropped four pounds in four days. Under this system, you don't count calories at all; you add up carbohydrates. The victim is permitted to ingest 60 grams of carbohydrates per day, and the little Red Book booklet gives you the chart and the count.

At lunch one day I was surprised to find myself knocking over four soft-boiled eggs, four slices of gluten toast (gluten?) and two cups of coffee. The count was low. Perhaps the attractive part of this diet is that there is no starving in it. I eat well. Come to think of it, only the candy, potatoes and rye bread are missing.

When the family eats spaghetti, I find that I am allowed to eat a whole bowl of meat sauce, and no spaghetti. The pasta has no taste anyway. The meat sauce is delicious, even if I have to eat it with gluten (gluten?) bread. Instead of sugar in the coffee, the kids drop small white pellets in it.

They say "You want to be bombed, dad?" That experssion used to have a different meaning. My wife adds up the carbohydrates every day and sometimes, when she is carrying her groceries and beer to bed, she feels sorry for me and says: "Your count today was only 53. You can have a half cheddar cheese sandwich."

I decline, because I know she can't bear to have me watch her eat. I like to inflict the torture of watching her instead of the late news. The potato chips sound like a horse nibbling on a fence rail. Sometimes, when she goes off to sleep, I'm tempted to eat the bag they came in.

Now is the time for you to invite me to your house for dinner. You can get off cheap if you find gluten (gluten?) bread.

Juvenile Delinquency And the Working Wives

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The objective of most public policies today is to advance the cause of human happiness. The emphasis is on measures to reduce the burdens of poverty, but there is a growing evidence that juvenile deliquency and other tragic effects have come about largely because of the neglect of children in the home.

A government report just issued has some interesting statistics on the number of wives who find it necessary to work and therefore cannot spend as much time with their children as non-working women do with theirs.

The survey was made last year by the U. S. Department of Labor. It shows that, in nearly half of the nation's working families, there is more than one wage earner. In the more than 35 million families in which the husband is employed, working wives make up the bulk of the additional job holders. About half of the 1.2 million married men who were unemployed have wives or other family members with jobs.

The Labor Department's report says that the wives of men with incomes of $3,000 to $7,000 are "more likely to be in the labor force than the wives of men with lower or higher incomes." While the report does not discuss the background of such a situation, it is doubtless true that an income between $3,000 and $7,000 is not adequate to satisfy the needs of a family with children. Not only must money be paid for taxes—Federal, state and local—but for necessary expenses such as housing, clothing and food. In many instances, a car is necessary for transportation to and from work.

There is an inclination to regard some of these expenditures as luxuries, but American families are seeking to earn enough to obtain better living conditions. The significant fact, however, is that, with all the talk about America's high standard of living, it is not possible in many instances for the husband alone to earn enough to take care of his family satisfactorily, much less provide any "luxuries."

Neglect of children has been cited as one of the causes of emotional disturbances and of a trend toward criminal behavior in youths. Certainly the absence of both parents in the daily lives of children is less an important psychological factor in a child's development. It has been argued that many youngsters do not have the parental guidance necessary for a balanced life and the instilling of a respect for other human beings.

Many clergymen are finding that some of the most serious problems in which their counsel is sought are related to the misbehavior of teen-agers who come home from school when both parents are away. It is estimated that a great many of the pregnancies among teen-age girls are a direct result of the lack of parental supervision.

There is room for speculation as to whether the American wage level is high enough to take care of the needs of the American family without the necessity of additional income to be earned by a working wife. Labor unions have succeeded in advancing the general pay level, but they have also forced upward the price level—the cost of living. This particularly works a hardship on the vast number of people whose jobs are not adjusted to labor-union wage scales.

There is basis for the argument that more employment would be provided and wages would be higher if the national economy were not subject to so many maladjustments arising from strikes and inordinate wage advances imposed at a time when businesses cannot absorb them. The whole question of a naturally stimulated economy under the private-enterprise system is one that has not received the attention it deserves. The erroneous impression prevails that what is happening in the union-organized industries does not affect adversely the lives of many citizens who are compelled to work at low-scale wages or who are thrown out of work when competition forces businesses to the wall.

The big issue today, of course, is whether a constant series of government grants and subsidies will maintain the economy for any length of time without a serious recession. Certainly economic readjustments will affect more families than has generally been believed. For, since many wives are working to supplement their husband's incomes, the chances are that any substantial increase in unemployment due to a recession will produce even greater hardships than ever before.

The mere fact that so many wives are working today is an indication of a growing problem. For if the incomes of those husbands who are working is not adequate to take care of their families, and their wives must work, the opportunity to care for the smaller children is necessarily impaired.

Sometimes a government report may seem to be a mere tabulation of statistics, but it often reveals a sociological problem of major importance.

GOING OVERSEAS

Smart salesmen know the best way to get people to do something is to ask them not to do it.

President Johnson has just proved it.

He appealed to Americans the other day not to take overseas pleasure trips just now, but to spend their travel money in their own country and see America first.

It was part of the current effort to solve the balance-of-payments problem that is plaguing the United States.

So what are we fun-loving, high-spirited American kids doing in response to our leader's plea?

We're going overseas by golly, that's what!

Some 1,350,000 of us—10 per cent more than last year—are going to Europe this year to spend a record $1.7 billion, including transportation, just to get away from it all, including America.

In reporting this booming exodus to foreign shores, travel agents don't seem particularly grief-stricken.

One high travel official, in fact, is quoted as feling "it is unbecoming to the great western democracy" to suggest that we great western democrats curb our yen to see Europe.

The fact that the President has asked Congress to impose certain little penalties on those of us who insist on going overseas—a slash in the amount of duty exemption, for instance—seems only to whet the appetite for foreign travel at this particular time.

Maybe the way to achieve the balance-of-payments goal is for Congress to pass a law making it slightly illegal for any American citizen to travel in the United States this year, and to offer inducements to those who do go abroad.

Then it would really be fun to see America first.

Meanwhile, shall we go to Europe by air or water. Oh, these decisions!

The nation continues to get more than its usual share of late winter storms. We may have another long, hot summer, but anyway we won't have to worry about spring.

The Russian two-man capsule had a special airlock to reduce pressure—which the Kremlin would like to adapt to Soviet-Chinese relations if it could.

Fears that West Germany's recognition of Israel would polarize the Middle Eastern countries and lead to a mass shift of sentiment toward Moscow appear to have been exaggerated.

Two myths—that hatred of Israel dominates all Arab thinking and that Gabel Abdel Nasser dominates all Arabs—may have been exploded.

So far, only two countries have indicated they will follow Nasser's lead and recall their ambassadors from Bonn. They are Yemen and Iraq.

According to some sources, this spotty reaction may be because Libya, for instance, sells almost half its oil to West Germany. Saudi Arabia also sells to Bonn, while Jordan is the recipient of large-scale German aid. Other countries don't want to jeopardize their economic relations with the Common Market.

Syria is dickering for an $87 million loan from Germany. In contrast, Iraq has announced that a $140-million dam will be built in that country by Russia.

It is not, it appears, that the reluctant Arabs oppose Israel the less but that they value their own economic well-being the more.

Ripley's Believe It or Not!

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Control of the human figure is possible, but hardly worth the agony. Mine is shaped like the ace of diamonds. It is five feet seven and one-half inches from north to south. It tilts the toledoes at 176, and looks almost right in a dark suit. The legs and arms are too thick and too short for the rest of the package, and the gray hair and lined face give me the sad expression of an unfrocked cleric who has been caught with the choir singer.

It's going to be sadder because I am on a diet. A few days ago, I sat at lunch with Jackie Gleason and I began to think skinny. Mr. G. is a tub of love. He counts his calories on a computer. Still, he doesn't eat as much as our Karen. She's 12 years old, five feet four inches tall, and knocks off a steak, five baked potatoes, two servings of macaroni and cheese, vegetables, soup, and dessert with whipped cream, two glasses of milk, and looks like a frightened exclamation point.

There is a suspicion that it's the fourth meal each day which fattens me. Could be. My wife and I go to bed with food. This, in our house, is the goody hour. By the time the late news goes on television, we are propped up like maharajahs. She has her family-size bag of potato chips (we turn the volume up on the set to equalize the noise), a can of beer, and sometimes a bowl of salad.

I have a pot of tea, a peanut butter sandwich, two bags of candy and a package of cigarettes. This gets us through the news of the day, but seldom lasts through the movie which follows. Kelly makes additional trips to the kitchen. She remains skinny, which is unfair.

My father watched this from his reclining chair for several nights and then stopped Kelly. "May I tell you something?" he said gravely. "Watching you two go to bed is like watching the Great White Hunters go on safari."

Abuse got him nowhere. He told us he had to be careful what he ate because he has a fibrillating heart and a duodenal ulcer which is livelier than he is. It also gets more exercise. So, Kelly worked him over gently and, in a short time, he was beating her to the refrigerator. My father took a length of hard salami and a fine kitchen knife, followed by pickled pigs' feet and herring, all of which slammed into that ulcer and, in the excitement, the ulcer died.

We never heard another word about it. Within a month, my father began to look pregnant. For him, this is unusual. He left suddenly and flew home to my sister's house to go on a diet. Right now he's on canary seed and crushed vitamin pills in milk. He's no thinner. Adele tells me, but he sings better.

I had to do something about myself. My daughter Gayle, who is studying nursing at Mt. Siani Hospital, said: "Do as you please, but if I were you . . ." She's the only woman I know who can eat a full dinner at home, and then go to a pizza restaurant with her friends and eat another dinner. I gathered that all of this was good for her and bad for me.

Now I'm on a carbohydrate diet. I dropped four pounds in four days. Under this system, you don't count calories at all; you add up carbohydrates. The victim is permitted to ingest 60 grams of carbohydrates per day, and the little Red Book booklet gives you the chart and the count.

At lunch one day I was surprised to find myself knocking over four soft-boiled eggs, four slices of gluten toast (gluten?) and two cups of coffee. The count was low. Perhaps the attractive part of this diet is that there is no starving in it. I eat well. Come to think of it, only the candy, potatoes and rye bread are missing.

When the family eats spaghetti, I find that I am allowed to eat a whole bowl of meat sauce, and no spaghetti. The pasta has no taste anyway. The meat sauce is delicious, even if I have to eat it with gluten (gluten?) bread. Instead of sugar in the coffee, the kids drop small white pellets in it.

They say "You want to be bombed, dad?" That expression used to have a different meaning. My wife adds up the carbohydrates every day and sometimes, when she is carrying her groceries and beer to bed, she feels sorry for me and says: "Your count today was only 53. You can have a half cheddar cheese sandwich."

I decline, because I know she can't bear to have me watch her eat. I like to inflict the torture of watching her instead of the late news. The potato chips sound like a horse nibbling on a fence rail. Sometimes, when she goes off to sleep, I'm tempted to eat the bag they came in.

Now is the time for you to invite me to your house for dinner. You can get off cheap if you find gluten (gluten?) bread.

Juvenile Delinquency And the Working Wives

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The objective of most public policies today is to advance the cause of human happiness. The emphasis is on measures to reduce the burdens of poverty, but there is a growing evidence that juvenile deliquency and other tragic effects have come about largely because of the neglect of children in the home.

A government report just issued has some interesting statistics on the number of wives who find it necessary to work and therefore cannot spend as much time with their children as nonworking women do with theirs.

The survey was made last year by the U. S. Department of Labor. It shows that, in nearly half of the nation's working families, there is more than one wage earner. In the more than 35 million families in which the husband is employed, working wives make up the bulk of the additional job holders. About half of the 1.2 million married men who were unemployed have wives or other family members with jobs.

The Labor Department's report says that the wives of men with incomes of $3,000 to $7,000 are "more likely to be in the labor force than the wives of men with lower or higher incomes." While the report does not discuss the background of such a situation, it is doubtless true that an income between $3,000 and $7,000 is not adequate to satisfy the needs of a family with children. Not only must money be paid for taxes—Federal, state and local—but for necessary expenses such as housing, clothing and food. In many instances, a car is necessary for transportation to and from work.

There is an inclination to regard some of these expenditures as luxuries, but American families are seeking to earn enough to obtain better living conditions. The significant fact, however, is that, with all the talk about America's high standard of living, it is not possible in many instances for the husband alone to earn enough to take care of his family satisfactorily, much less provide any "luxuries."

Neglect of children has been cited as one of the causes of emotional disturbances and of a trend toward criminal behavior in youths. Certainly the absence of both parents in the daily lives of children is less an important psychological factor in a child's development. It has been argued that many youngsters do not have the parental guidance necessary for a balanced life and the instilling of a respect for other human beings.

Many clergymen are finding that some of the most serious problems in which their counsel is sought are related to the misbehavior of teen-agers who come home from school when both parents are away. It is estimated that a great many of the pregnancies among teen-age girls are a direct result of the lack of parental supervision.

There is room for speculation as to whether the American wage level is high enough to take care of the needs of the American family without the necessity of additional income to be earned by a working wife. Labor unions have succeeded in advancing the general pay level, but they have also forced upward the price level—the cost of living. This particularly works a hardship on the vast number of people whose jobs are not adjusted to labor-union wage scales.

There is basis for the argument that more employment would be provided and wages would be higher if the national economy were not subject to so many maladjustments arising from strikes and inordinate wage advances imposed at a time when businesses cannot absorb them. The whole question of a naturally stimulated economy under the private-enterprise system is one that has not received the attention it deserves. The erroneous impression prevails that what is happening in the union-organized industries does not affect adversely the lives of many citizens who are compelled to work at low-scale wages or who are thrown out of work when competition forces businesses to the wall.

The big issue today, of course, is whether a constant series of government grants and subsidies will maintain the economy for any length of time without a serious recession. Certainly economic readjustments will affect more families than has generally been believed. For, since many wives are working to supplement their husband's incomes, the chances are that any substantial increase in unemployment due to a recession will produce even greater hardships than ever before.

The mere fact that so many wives are working today is an indication of a growing problem. For if the incomes of those husbands who are working is not adequate to take care of their families, and their wives must work, the opportunity to care for the smaller children is necessarily impaired.

Sometimes a government report may seem to be a mere tabulation of statistics, but it often reveals a sociological problem of major importance.

Burma Surgeon Gone, But Memory Lives On

Dr. Gordon S. Seagrave the man is gone, but his memory lives on.

Stories about the surgeon are recounted by his devoted nurses who called him "Daddy," by his colleagues who helped in the administration of his hospital, and by some of the patients who were saved from almost certain death by his medical skill.

Sterling Seagrave, his son, recalled one of his father's favorite stories — about how he performed a delicate cataract operation with a razor because no scalpels were available.

Maraw Prilum, 22, his favorite Kachin nurse, recalled the time when none of a class could provide an answer to one of the doctor's questions.

"He was so mad he stormed away from the lecture hall and would not return until we all went and apologized," she said.

"He was a thorough teacher and made sure that each nurse understood the lectures. He would speak in Burmese, Shan or Kachin so that each nationality would fully grasp what he was trying to get across."

Head matron "Granny" Nao Mi Khan, who trekked with him on the long retreat from Burma before the Japanese advance in World War II and on the triumphant journey back, remembered the early days of the hospital. Seagrave tried to teach anatomy without the equivalent medical terms in Burmese. It made for some earthy language, she said.

His American colleague, Dr. Joseph Newhall, said that Friday was "argument day" — the whole staff had to turn out for baseball.

"We used to get into violent arguments because he had changed the game from American baseball to Namhkam baseball with his own set of rules." Tun Shein, who runs the hospital now, recalled the time a woman's club in Massachusetts donated a wheel chair for Seagrave. He was furious when he saw it.

"I'll never use that damn thing," he said. Yet he did use it in the last three months of his life.

The Rev. Don Crider, an American Baptist missionary from Pennsylvania who runs a mission nearby, recalled the time he arrived in 1953.

It was getting dark and Dr. Seagrave was in the midst of a major operation. There was no electricity and the whole theater was lit by candles.

Pansy Po summed up the feeling of the hospital in these words:

"He was brassy and bossy. He was kind and tolerant of his enemies but cruel and demanding of his friends. Perhaps he expected too much from them. He was a great doctor and a good man. We all loved him very much." Seagrave died March 28.

League Opposes Extension on Adoption Law

The League of Women Voters has announced that it will again make an effort to block passage of legislation which would continue the jurisdiction of the Surrogates Court over adoptions beyond Sept. 1, 1965, the date now established by law for the Family Court to assume sole responsibility for these matters. It is enlisting the support of other civic organizations and social agencies in this effort.

The Woodstock League has issued the following statement: "The court reform amendment to the state constitution, overwhelmingly endorsed by the voters in November, 1961, clearly intends that adoptions shall be handled exclusively by the Family Court. The Family Court, concerned solely with matters affecting children and families, is the appropriate one to preside over the creation of new family relationships through adoption. It has the trained, professional personnel to make the investigation essential in these cases.

Several bills introduced by Sen. Samuel L. Greenberg and Assemblyman Bertram L. Podell are the chief target of the League's opposition. These measures would extend the Surrogates' role in adoptions either permanently or for an additional one year period and would require renewed study of the question which has already been studied by several commissions and committees.

New Budget Topic At P-TA Meeting Tuesday Night

The trustees will discuss the budget for the coming school year, 1965-66. Voting on the budget will take place on May 5. There will be a question and answer period after the board members have spoken.

In a release last week, specific areas of responsibility were given the three speakers as follows: Ebbs, Board of Education; Carlson, Debt Service; and Langham, central registration. All three, however, are fully versed on all phases of the budget.

Seek Nominations

The P-TA also announces that nominations are now open for the annual Jenkins Memorial Award. Anyone wishing to nominate a person for this award may do so by letter to Mrs. Jane Allen, chairman of the awards committee.

New officers will be elected at this meeting and nominations may be made from the floor. The nominating committee will also submit names for election. Refreshments will be served.

Creative Camp Reunion Is Set For Saturday

Ruth Ingalls will hold her Creative Arts Camp reunion on Saturday, April 10, at 3 p. m. at the home of Pat Jacobson, 15 Speare Road, in Woodstock.

Slides and movies in color of the last two years' camp activities will be shown. Anyone interested in the camp is welcome but Miss Ingalls would appreciate knowing in advance so as to plan for refreshments.

There will be an adult class at Pat Jacobson's home on Friday afternoons at 2 p. m., beginning April 9. Women interested in Miss Ingalls' approach to basic and modern dance, also general physical fitness, improving posture and carriage, should contact Pat Jacobson for information.

Miss Ingalls has just returned from a two-months vacation in Palm Beach where she will teach next winter. Besides her classes in New York and Port Washington, she is at present conducting classes for 80 pre-school children in the Montessori school connected with the United Nations.

Former Minister In Area Headed For Japan Trip

A former minister of the old Woodstock, Willow, Shady and Wittenberg Methodist Churches during the years 1949-52, the Rev. Charles L. Wharton, is one of seven men selected from the Southern California - Arizona Methodist Conference to go on a mission to Japan this summer.

In conjunction with the United Church of Japan, Rev. Wharton and his fellow ministers will spend July and August of this summer living and working among the Japanese of Hokaido, the northern island of Japan. In this island which is almost at Russia's back door, there are 40 cities of over 10,000 population each, in which there is not one Christian church.

Big Challenge

This is the tremendous challenge and opportunity that will be faced in the first phase of this missionary cultural exchange program. The second phase will involve the bringing of three English speaking Japanese ministers from Hokaido to the Methodist churches of the Tucson District, for the year 1966-1967.

Each minister going to Japan must raise his own expenses of $2,000 for transportation, lodging and interpreter by June 1, 1965. This is done through the contributions of churches, community groups and personal friends. So far $1,400 has been pledged toward Rev. Wharton's expenses. Contributions should be made to the Wilcox Methodist Church, Box 307, Wilcox, Arizona, and marked "Japan."

The Whartons still visit friends in Woodstock.

Aptitude Tests Results Listed

The Guidance Department of the Onteora Central School is in the process of distributing to the students in Grade Nine the scores they earned on Differential Aptitude Test taken last January. These tests are given to aid the counselor in planning the students' high school program, as well as to help the students become aware of his own strength and weaknesses.

The test manufacturer defines aptitude as simply the capacity to learn. The Differential Aptitude Tests provide scores in nine areas, including Verbal Reasoning, Numerical Ability, Scholastic Aptitude, Abstract Reasoning, Clerical Speed and Accuracy, Mechanical Reasoning, Space Relations, Spelling and Grammar.

Students should be thinking of these scores as useful bits of information. There are many things which contribute to success in addition to aptitude. How a person develops his aptitude is important. The strength of a person's interests in reaching a goal is another important factor in successful achievement.

Parents of ninth grade students are urged to review their child's score with him. Students received their score sheets as well as a descriptive folder on April 1.

Anyone wishing further information should make an appointment to see their child's guidance counselor by calling the guidance secretary at the high school, extension 43.

Music-Art Critic At Albany Art

Alfred Frankenstein, music and art critic of the San Francisco Chronicle will give a unique illustrated talk on "Pop Art" at the Albany Institute of History and Art on Thursday, April 8, in Albany.

Frankenstein has taught art at Harvard, Stanford and the University of Hawaii, among other schools and has been a lecturer in American Art at the University of California and Mills College for more than 20 years.

Also at the Museum, opening the same night of the talk will be an exhibit of paintings and drawings on a Shaker theme by Charles Sheeler as well as a display of fine Shaker furniture from The Shaker Museum at Old Chatham and Shaker Community at Hancock, Mass.

Yonkers Man Held On Vagrancy Charge

Raymond F. Wilson, 47, of 241 Riverdale Avenue, Yonkers, was arrested early this morning at Shokan by sheriff's deputies after he had aroused a number of Shokan residents demanding food, drink and a ride to Kingston.

A call was received at the sheriff's office at 1:30 a. m. asking that deputies be sent to the scene. It was alleged a man had been annoying residents of Upper Boiceville Road, Shokan, seeking food.

Deputies Vincent Van Demark and James Freer were dispatched to the scene and on complaint of M. Croswell, Wilson was taken into custody and charged with vagrancy. He was held in jail for medical examination and appearance before Justice of the Peace Frank Carle at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Saigon Officials Doubt Soviet or Red China Helping in Major Way

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Despite North Viet Nam's successes in downing American planes, officials in Saigon do not believe the Russians or Chinese Communists have entered the war in appreciable numbers or with important new equipment.

The most spectacular Communist success came Sunday when a dozen North Vietnamese MIG jet fighters downed two speedy U.S. Air Force F105 jet bombers.

On nearly all of the 17 U.S. or South Vietnamese raids since Feb. 7 at least one plane has been downed. In at least one raid, as many as six planes were downed.

U.S. officials feel the Communist successes have not been due so much to modern Communist equipment as they have to the tactics the American and South Vietnamese planes have had to use.

The raids have been limited to spot tactical bombing of military objectives. There have been no general raids on population centers or industrial complexes.

This means that the enemy targets are small. Attacking planes, many of which are capable of speeds more than twice the speed of sound, must fly slowly to hit their objectives precisely.

It also means that on large raids attacking planes must wait in line to attack targets.

The weather in North Viet Nam is usually bad now, with fairly low cloud cover over objectives most the time. Attacking planes must come in low and stay low in the target area.

Intelligence men believe the North Vietnamese have only the MIG15s and 17s of Korean War vintage. These are jets equipped only with cannon and capable of flying only a little faster than the speed of sound.

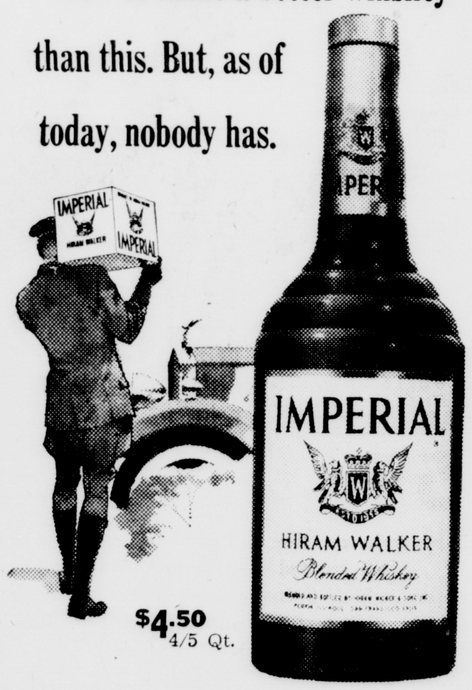

The Red Chinese are known to have some of the newer MIG19s and 21s including some based on Hainan Island, only 80 miles from the site of two of the American raids.

These new MIGs, which would be a match for the American fighters, have not appeared in combat so far.

The older MIGs were flown successfully Sunday by making three hit-and-run strikes on circling American formations. They ran for the protective cover of dense haze as soon as it looked as though the Americans were about to take them on.

"They'll probably continue knocking some of us down," a U.S. officer said. "That's the price we have to pay because of the tactics of this war. But don't get the idea we are not still masters of the skies."

Someday, someone may learn how to make a better whiskey than this. But, as of today, nobody has.

League Opposes Extension on Adoption Law

The League of Women Voters has announced that it will again make an effort to block passage of legislation which would continue the jurisdiction of the Surrogates Court over adoptions beyond Sept. 1, 1965, the date now established by law for the Family Court to assume sole responsibility for these matters. It is enlisting the support of other civic organizations and social agencies in this effort.

The Woodstock League has issued the following statement: "The court reform amendment to the state constitution, overwhelmingly endorsed by the voters in November, 1961, clearly intends that adoptions shall be handled exclusively by the Family Court. The Family Court, concerned solely with matters affecting children and families, is the appropriate one to preside over the creation of new family relationships through adoption. It has the trained, professional personnel to make the investigation essential in these cases.

Several bills introduced by Sen. Samuel L. Greenberg and Assemblyman Bertram L. Podell are the chief target of the League's opposition. These measures would extend the Surrogates' role in adoptions either permanently or for an additional one year period and would require renewed study of the question which has already been studied by several commissions and committees.

New Budget Topic At P-TA Meeting Tuesday Night

The trustees will discuss the budget for the coming school year, 1965-66. Voting on the budget will take place on May 5. There will be a question and answer period after the board members have spoken.

In a release last week, specific areas of responsibility were given the three speakers as follows: Ebbs, Board of Education; Carlson, Debt Service; and Langham, central registration. All three, however, are fully versed on all phases of the budget.

Seek Nominations

The P-TA also announces that nominations are now open for the annual Jenkins Memorial Award. Anyone wishing to nominate a person for this award may do so by letter to Mrs. Jane Allen, chairman of the awards committee.

New officers will be elected at this meeting and nominations may be made from the floor. The nominating committee will also submit names for election. Refreshments will be served.

Creative Camp Reunion Is Set For Saturday

Ruth Ingalls will hold her Creative Arts Camp reunion on Saturday, April 10, at 3 p. m. at the home of Pat Jacobson, 15 Speare Road, in Woodstock.

Slides and movies in color of the last two years' camp activities will be shown. Anyone interested in the camp is welcome but Miss Ingalls would appreciate knowing in advance so as to plan for refreshments.

There will be an adult class at Pat Jacobson's home on Friday afternoons at 2 p. m., beginning April 9. Women interested in Miss Ingalls' approach to basic and modern dance, also general physical fitness, improving posture and carriage, should contact Pat Jacobson for information.

Miss Ingalls has just returned from a two-months vacation in Palm Beach where she will teach next winter. Besides her classes in New York and Port Washington, she is at present conducting classes for 80 pre-school children in the Montessori school connected with the United Nations.

Republicans Are Working On Compromise for Budget

BY CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Influential Republicans in the Legislature are working on a compromise version of Gov. Rockefeller's sales-tax plan as a possible solution to the state budget crisis, it was learned today.

Under their version, the 2 per cent statewide tax would be limited strictly to retail sales and would not apply to services, such as haircuts, laundry and automobile repairs.

They also would grant an exemption avidly sought by New York industry, so that manufacturers would not have to pay the tax on purchases of equipment or fuel.

The effect would be to reduce by $46 million the $330 million in revenue that Rockefeller had estimated the tax would yield in the new fiscal year to help balance his proposed $3.48-billion budget.

Informed sources reported, however, that the GOP leadership was leaning strongly toward the plan as a potential solution to the Legislature's budget impasse.

The report came as the Senate's Democratic majority leader, Joseph Zaretzki, declared he was determined to bring the Republican governor's original sales-tax proposal to a vote on Tuesday.

As the Senate and Assembly prepared to reconvene this afternoon, the state government was in its fifth day of the 1965-66 fiscal year without a budget.

This meant the state had no authority to pay its employes or its bills or to make the normal state - aid payments for education, welfare and other programs.

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt reported over the weekend that obligations falling due in April totaled $691 million, most of it in aid for operation of the public schools.

Senate Minority Leader Earl W. Brydges acknowledged that a revised version of the sales-tax plan was under consideration, but he declined to discuss details at this point.

Both Democrats and Republicans have protested that the Rockefeller plan to extend the sales-tax principle to services made the tax too harsh.

Eliminating services would cost $23 million in potential revenue in the new fiscal year and granting a manufacturers' exemption would cost an equal amount, State Budget Director T. Norman Hurd said.

The Republican governor spoke out against the budget cuts Sunday night, accusing the Democrats of "playing a shell game with the people."

Efforts to break the budget impasse this week will be spurred by the fact the employes of state institutions are due to receive their paychecks on Friday. Normally the checks would be mailed out Wednesday.

Art Lecture Is Set for Library Tuesday Night

Another of the popular art lectures, "700 Years of Art," will be featured at Kingston Library, Tuesday, April 6, starting at 7:30 p. m. The lecture, with over 60 slides, is prepared and provided by the U. S. National Gallery of Art in Washington, D. C.

The lecture will show the radical changes in painting since the Middle Ages, and how they mirror man's ever-changing ideals. The great epochs of art are vividly contrasted to show how cultural ideals, social customs, and art itself have developed in western countries from 1200 to the present day.

On Thursday, April 15, starting at 7:30 p. m., the library will present A Survey of American Painting, a slide-lecture also provided by the professional staff of the National Gallery.

This lecture will show the development of American painting from the "primtives" of new young country to the modern movements of the 20th century. Works by Copley, West, Stuart, Inneas, Homer, Eakins, Ryder, Henri, Bellows, Marin and many others will be discussed.

Both of these programs are open to the public and free of charge. They will be given in the library's lower level. The public is also invited to see the special exhibit of Shakespeareana now at the library until April 10. It includes an excerpt from the famous 1623 First Folio edition of the Merry Wives of Windsor, the 1619 Quarto, and a whole gallery of Shakespearian documents, photographs and pamphlets.

SPRING IS HERE — One of the more distressing signs of Spring is the indiscriminate dumping and littering of road sides with accumulated trash. One example here, is in the Town of Esopus, off River Road, south of Port Ewen. Another is off Ulster Avenue, Ulster Park. The incident off River Road occurred within 15 feet of a "No Dumping" sign that had been placed by the Ulster County Highway Department last summer after a similar incident. The incident off Ulster Avenue occurred on land that had been posted against trespassing by the Ulster Park Land Owners Association, Inc. Supervisor Roger W. Mabie said the Esopus Town Board is particiularly incensed by such incidents and highly deplores the civic irresponsibility and slovenly habits of those who do the dumping and littering. It was pointed out that State Law prescribes a $50 fine for such acts. Supervisor Mabie further stated that every dumping and littering incident in the Town of Esopus will be investigated and that if the perpetrators can be determined, the maximum fine will be imposed. Realtors Plan Sales Parley in Newburgh on 7th

Karl Jurgens, vice-president of the New York State Association of Real Estate Boards, Inc., has announced that the annual sales conference for the Lower Hudson Region of New York will be held Wednesday, April 7, at the Holiday Inn, Newburgh.

He noted that realtors from the Ulster County Board of Realtors, Dutchess County Board of Realtors, Newburgh Real Estate Board, Orange County Board of Realtors, Putnam County Board of Realtors, Rockland County Board of Realtors, Sullivan County Real Estate Board and Westchester County Realty Board will participate. It is expected, Jurgens said, that about 150 realtors and their sales people will be on hand for the day long program.

Judgens noted that the Conference is designed to acquaint the area realtors and salesmen with new methods and procedures used in their day to day business activities. He noted that trends in financing and new ideas in sales are enabling more and more people to purchase homes. The percentage of home ownership in the United States has increased steadily over the past 20 years, Jurgens said.

The purpose of the conference, which is sponsored by the New York Association, is to keep abreast of the technological changes in the business so that the area buyers and sellers of real estate may be adequately and properly served.

The program, Jurgens said, will consist of many of the top people in their field. On the program will be: The Approach to Professionalism in Real Real Estate, Martin T. Smolens, realtor, Collingswood, N. J.; Your Advertising Dollar—Waste or Profit, Harry V. Illingworth Jr., realtor, Pittsford; Oh, Those Salesmen, George K. Moyer, Binghamton, secretary, NYSAREB; Opportunities for the Realtor Through FHA, and Fred J. Martin, New York State Director, Federal Housing Administration.

The conference is one of seven that will be held in different areas of the State and is held under the direction of the Association's Education Committee. Jurgens is Chairman of the Conference and the Newburgh Board is acting as the host board.

Republicans Are Working On Compromise for Budget

BY CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Influential Republicans in the Legislature are working on a compromise version of Gov. Rockefeller's sales-tax plan as a possible solution to the state budget crisis, it was learned today.

Under their version, the 2 per cent statewide tax would be limited strictly to retail sales and would not apply to services, such as haircuts, laundry and automobile repairs.

They also would grant an exemption avidly sought by New York industry, so that manufacturers would not have to pay the tax on purchases of equipment or fuel.

The effect would be to reduce by $46 million the $330 million in revenue that Rockefeller had estimated the tax would yield in the new fiscal year to help balance his proposed $3.48-billion budget.

Informed sources reported, however, that the GOP leadership was leaning strongly toward the plan as a potential solution to the Legislature's budget impasse.

The report came as the Senate's Democratic majority leader, Joseph Zaretzki, declared he was determined to bring the Republican governor's original sales-tax proposal to a vote on Tuesday.

As the Senate and Assembly prepared to reconvene this afternoon, the state government was in its fifth day of the 1965-66 fiscal year without a budget.

This meant the state had no authority to pay its employes or its bills or to make the normal state - aid payments for education, welfare and other programs.

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt reported over the weekend that obligations falling due in April totaled $691 million, most of it in aid for operation of the public schools.

Senate Minority Leader Earl W. Brydges acknowledged that a revised version of the sales-tax plan was under consideration, but he declined to discuss details at this point.

Both Democrats and Republicans have protested that the Rockefeller plan to extend the sales-tax principle to services made the tax too harsh.

Eliminating services would cost $23 million in potential revenue in the new fiscal year and granting a manufacturers' exemption would cost an equal amount, State Budget Director T. Norman Hurd said.

The Republican governor spoke out against the budget cuts Sunday night, accusing the Democrats of "playing a shell game with the people."

Efforts to break the budget impasse this week will be spurred by the fact the employes of state institutions are due to receive their paychecks on Friday. Normally the checks would be mailed out Wednesday.

Art Lecture Is Set for Library Tuesday Night

Another of the popular art lectures, "700 Years of Art," will be featured at Kingston Library, Tuesday, April 6, starting at 7:30 p. m. The lecture, with over 60 slides, is prepared and provided by the U. S. National Gallery of Art in Washington, D. C.

The lecture will show the radical changes in painting since the Middle Ages, and how they mirror man's ever-changing ideals. The great epochs of art are vividly contrasted to show how cultural ideals, social customs, and art itself have developed in western countries from 1200 to the present day.

On Thursday, April 15, starting at 7:30 p. m., the library will present A Survey of American Painting, a slide-lecture also provided by the professional staff of the National Gallery.

This lecture will show the development of American painting from the "primtives" of new young country to the modern movements of the 20th century. Works by Copley, West, Stuart, Inneas, Homer, Eakins, Ryder, Henri, Bellows, Marin and many others will be discussed.

Both of these programs are open to the public and free of charge. They will be given in the library's lower level. The public is also invited to see the special exhibit of Shakespeareana now at the library until April 10. It includes an excerpt from the famous 1623 First Folio edition of the Merry Wives of Windsor, the 1619 Quarto, and a whole gallery of Shakespearian documents, photographs and pamphlets.

SPRING IS HERE — One of the more distressing signs of Spring is the indiscriminate dumping and littering of road sides with accumulated trash. One example here, is in the Town of Esopus, off River Road, south of Port Ewen. Another is off Ulster Avenue, Ulster Park. The incident off River Road occurred within 15 feet of a "No Dumping" sign that had been placed by the Ulster County Highway Department last summer after a similar incident. The incident off Ulster Avenue occurred on land that had been posted against trespassing by the Ulster Park Land Owners Association, Inc. Supervisor Roger W. Mabie said the Esopus Town Board is particularly incensed by such incidents and highly deplores the civic irresponsibility and slovenly habits of those who do the dumping and littering. It was pointed out that State Law prescribes a $50 fine for such acts. Supervisor Mabie further stated that every dumping and littering incident in the Town of Esopus will be investigated and that if the perpetrators can be determined, the maximum fine will be imposed. New York Papers Faced With New Strike Threat

NEW YORK (AP) — A new strike threat hung over New York City newspapers today following a breakdown of negotiations. But Mayor Robert F. Wagner said he did not regard the collapse as "impossible of solution."

While no new talks were immediately scheduled, Wagner urged the printers and publishers Sunday night to continue to make "every conceivable effort" to settle the dispute over economic issues. Wagner said he had studied a report from Theodore H. Kheel, his labor adviser, and found the situation "difficult" but one that could be solved without a strike.

The negotiations involving the printers and photoengravers collapsed early Sunday after more than 10 hours of bargaining.

Find Man's Body On River Bank Near Port Ewen

Identity of the body of a man found Saturday morning on the bank of the Hudson River just south of Port Ewen remains a mystery and the sheriffi's department has sent out a description of the man in the hope that someone may be able to identify him.

A seven year old nephew of Philip Sior of Port Ewen discovered the body Saturday morning about 10:30 while walking along the river bank. The sheriff's office was notified and Ulster County Investigator Thomas Mayone, Ulster County Identification Officer Earl Conro and Deputies Burton Wolven, Bernard Ellsworth and James Freer went to the scene and conducted an investigation.

The body, which had apparently been in the water a month or more, was badly decomposed. It was found some five or six feet up on the bank, apparently having been deposited there by the tides.

Anyone knowing of a missing person of the above description should contact the Ulster County sheriff's office.

County Investigation Officer Thomas Mayone said teletype messages had been sent out to ascertain if any person answering the description had been reported missing.

Snyder Addresses Presbyterian Men On 'Top Headline'

The Colonial City Chapter of Presbyterian Men, an affiliate of the National Council of United Presbyterian Men, held its 13th annual communion breakfast at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday. Frederic Snyder, speaker for the occasion, used as his topic, "The Top Heading of All Time." The most important headline ever erected in the affairs of men, he said, deals with good news. He said he had consulted with scientists of power numerous authors and men of strong intellect. All were united in the estimate that the greatest fact in the history of the planet is found in the birth of Christ.

In part, he spoke as follows:

"St. Paul attests this, Galations 4:4. He affirms the truth of the incarnation of God in Christ, by saying "When the fulness of time was come God sent forth His Son."

"This glorious, redemptive good news, rounds into the 'Top Headline of All Time'. Many headlines deal with man and his prosperity, this one deals with his destiny and eternity. It will do man no good to make progress in adventures in space, unless he grants space in his heart for the residence of The Redeemer. 'God is more interested in inner grace than in outer space.'

"We must steadily pray for the regeneration of the Russian people and of all men who have lost their way on the Communist path. Our hope is in regeneration not extermination. Communism is a thing you can pray-away but never flay away. There is greater power in the 'Book of Books' than in the bomb of bombs.

"What is there in Kingston, that requires the sacrafice of Jesus to explain? Our hospitals are built in the foot steps of the Great healer. It requires the church to explain the operation of conscience in Kingston. But for the moral restraints, this meeting could not be held. The schoolhouse came out of the church house. All our vast findings in science, we owe to Christian institutions. The thorny problems of money inflation, air pollution, soil erosion, mental confusion, can be happily solved through Christian cooperation. War is the most hideously advertised thing in the world. Today war flames get more vivid, because men will not follow the commands of the Prince of Peace. Peace is, wars are made. Christ provides the remedy for the crime colored ills of the nation. What a pity we are no longer indignant over the repugnant!

"The three billion copies of trashy, degrading pornographic literateure sold last year in the United States averaged out to 12 copies for every man, woman and child in the country. What an example of civic sleeping sickness. Parents and others meet this scum, with a mere ho! hum.

Mr. Snyder said that he wished the utmost success to all present in their business and professional pursuits. Children and the elderly can survive only if business is kept prosperous. However, they must weigh the eternal fact that true happiness comes from what Christ has done for us, rather than from anything we can do. The surrendeded will is the only good. All men are made level by death and sin. Through the everlasting mercy of God, found in the "Top Headline Of All Time" man can escape from himself and enter the imperishable Kingdom of God.

The speaker closed with a fervent appeal that the Men's Club seek to prompt all believers in prayer, to especially pray for the American prisoners in the Communists Chinese prisons. The war in Asia, is sure to victimize them. Jesus expressed special concern for all prisoners. Let us energize our prayers for these forgotten men in China.

Autobahn Closing

lowered their steel barriers and said "no" to all travelers.

The Russians and the East Germans said their restrictions were made necessary by Soviet and East German military maneuvers beginning today but the general feeling was that the Communists were striking back against plans for a meeting of the West German Parliament's lower house in West Berlin on Wednesday.

The West German government went ahead with plans for the meeting. As an additional show of defiance, the Bonn government announced a Cabinet meeting would be held in West Berlin the same day. Sources in Bonn said Chancellor Ludwig Erhard would preside.

The East Germans closed the autobahn at 9:30 a.m. and said it would be closed at least until 4 p.m. (10 a.m. EST).

Although civilian traffic was stopped at both ends of the autobahn — the superhighway linking West Berlin and West Germany — Allied military traffic apparently was not affected.

A U.S. Army convoy of 18 vehicles carrying 80 combat infantrymen moved out of West Berlin in the direction of West Germany shortly before the highway was closed.

The U.S. convoy reached West Germany after an uneventful 3½-hour journey through East Germany. Since it left Berlin before the frontiers were closed, it did not directly challenge the closing of the main highway.

Manslaughter Case In Poughkeepsie

The second degree manslaughter case pending against Hugh Joseph Smith, 34, of 9 Sled Hill Road, Woodstock, is scheduled Tuesday at 9 a. m. before City Judge Milton Haven in Poughkeepsie. He is held in connection with the Nov. 23, 1963 death of Mrs. Catherine Schaefer of that city.

Mrs. Schaefer was found lying on the sidewalk in front of her home, 228 Mill Street, by Patrolman Richard Hayes. She was later pronounced dead of a skull fracture. The death had been ruled "accidental" following an inquest before Dutchess County Medical Examiner Dr. Chester H. Golding.

Authorities said Smith told police he panicked after Mrs. Schaefer was injured, and subsequently went to Mexico. On his return from a second trip there, he reportedly telephoned the office of District Attorney Raymond C. Baratta and said he had something on his mind and wanted to talk to police about the woman's death.

Charge Mt. Marion Man With Drunken Driving

A 35-year-old Mt. Marion man was injured at 8:25 p. m. Sunday and later cited for a Vehicle and Traffic law violation, after his car went out of control on Route 9W one-tenth of a mile south of Route 199 and hit a guard rail.

Trooper Thomas Searles of the Kingston substation said Lloyd Tonnensen was driving north when the vehicle hit the guard rail which separates the north and south bound lanes on Route 9W. He was taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctors ambulance and treated for lacerations of the right cheek.

Searles reported that Trooper Peter Van Pelt Jr., issued summonses to Tonnensen charging him with driving a car while intoxicated and operating without a license. The summonses are returnable at a later date before Justice of the Peace Robert S. Stedge, Town of Ulster.

New York Papers Faced With New Strike Threat

NEW YORK (AP) — A new strike threat hung over New York City newspapers today following a breakdown of negotiations. But Mayor Robert F. Wagner said he did not regard the collapse as "impossible of solution."

While no new talks were immediately scheduled, Wagner urged the printers and publishers Sunday night to continue to make "every conceivable effort" to settle the dispute over economic issues. Wagner said he had studied a report from Theodore H. Kheel, his labor adviser, and found the situation "difficult" but one that could be solved without a strike.

The negotiations involving the printers and photoengravers collapsed early Sunday after more than 10 hours of bargaining.

Find Man's Body On River Bank Near Port Ewen

Identity of the body of a man found Saturday morning on the bank of the Hudson River just south of Port Ewen remains a mystery and the sheriff's department has sent out a description of the man in the hope that someone may be able to identify him.

A seven year old nephew of Philip Sior of Port Ewen discovered the body Saturday morning about 10:30 while walking along the river bank. The sheriff's office was notified and Ulster County Investigator Thomas Mayone, Ulster County Identification Officer Earl Conro and Deputies Burton Wolven, Bernard Ellsworth and James Freer went to the scene and conducted an investigation.

The body, which had apparently been in the water a month or more, was badly decomposed. It was found some five or six feet up on the bank, apparently having been deposited there by the tides.

Coroner Henry S. Hartley of Saugerties was notified and ordered the body removed to the Kingston morgue, where an autopsy was performed. Cause of death has not been determined.

The body is that of a colored male, approximately 25 to 35 years of age, weighing between 200 and 225 pounds, brown eyes, 6 feet 2 inches tall. He had two gold teeth in the upper jaw, one on either side.

The body was clothed in light weight blue pants, a light colored shirt with the name "E. Arnold" printed on the collar. Also by the body was a windbreaker jacket of tan and light brown color.

Anyone knowing of a missing person of the above description should contact the Ulster County sheriff's office.

County Investigation Officer Thomas Mayone said teletype messages had been sent out to ascertain if any person answering the description had been reported missing.

Fire Destroys Shed At Lumber Yard

Volunteer fire-fighters from three companies battled flames that destroyed a large shed at the R. H. Linge Inc., lumber yard in New Hackensack, Saturday night.

Firemen in command of Chief Thomas J. Armstrong concentrated their efforts on wetting other sheds and piles of lumber. The shed that was destroyed contained roofing, siding, shingles and other lumber.

Richard H. Linge, Town of Wappinger supervisor and owner of the yard, said he could not estimate the loss until a checkup was made. He said he had no idea how the fire started, noting there was no electricity in the building.

Snyder Addresses Presbyterian Men On 'Top Headline'

The Colonial City Chapter of Presbyterian Men, an affiliate of the National Council of United Presbyterian Men, held its 13th annual communion breakfast at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday. Frederic Snyder, speaker for the occasion, used as his topic, "The Top Heading of All Time." The most important headline ever erected in the affairs of men, he said, deals with good news. He said he had consulted with scientists of power numerous authors and men of strong intellect. All were united in the estimate that the greatest fact in the history of the planet is found in the birth of Christ.

In part, he spoke as follows:

"St. Paul attests this, Galations 4:4. He affirms the truth of the incarnation of God in Christ, by saying "When the fulness of time was come God sent forth His Son."

"This glorious, redemptive good news, rounds into the 'Top Headline of All Time'. Many headlines deal with man and his prosperity, this one deals with his destiny and eternity. It will do man no good to make progress in adventures in space, unless he grants space in his heart for the residence of The Redeemer. 'God is more interested in inner grace than in outer space.'

"We must steadily pray for the regeneration of the Russian people and of all men who have lost their way on the Communist path. Our hope is in regeneration not extermination. Communism is a thing you can pray-away but never flay away. There is greater power in the 'Book of Books' than in the bomb of bombs.

"What is there in Kingston, that requires the sacrafice of Jesus to explain? Our hospitals are built in the foot steps of the Great healer. It requires the church to explain the operation of conscience in Kingston, But for the moral restraints, this meeting could not be held. The schoolhouse came out of the church house. All our vast findings in science, we owe to Christian institutions. The thorny problems of money inflation, air pollution, soil erosion, mental confusion, can be happily solved through Christian cooperation. War is the most hideously advertised thing in the world. Today war flames get more vivid, because men will not follow the commands of the Prince of Peace. Peace is, wars are made. Christ provides the remedy for the crime colored ills of the nation. What a pity we are no longer indignant over the repugnant!

"The three billion copies of trashy, degrading pornographic literateure sold last year in the United States averaged out to 12 copies for every man, woman and child in the country. What an example of civic sleeping sickness. Parents and others meet this scum, with a mere ho! hum.

Mr. Snyder said that he wished the utmost success to all present in their business and professional pursuits. Children and the elderly can survive only if business is kept prosperous. However, they must weigh the eternal fact that true happiness comes from what Christ has done for us, rather than from anything we can do. The surrendeded will is the only good. All men are made level by death and sin. Through the everlasting mercy of God, found in the "Top Headline Of All Time" man can escape from himself and enter the imperishable Kingdom of God.

The speaker closed with a fervent appeal that the Men's Club seek to prompt all believers in prayer, to especially pray for the American prisoners in the Communists Chinese prisons. The war in Asia, is sure to victimize them. Jesus expressed special concern for all prisoners. Let us energize our prayers for these forgotten men in China.

Autobahn Closing

lowered their steel barriers and said "no" to all travelers.

The Russians and the East Germans said their restrictions were made necessary by Soviet and East German military maneuvers beginning today but the general feeling was that the Communists were striking back against plans for a meeting of the West German Parliament's lower house in West Berlin on Wednesday.

The West German government went ahead with plans for the meeting. As an additional show of defiance, the Bonn government announced a Cabinet meeting would be held in West Berlin the same day. Sources in Bonn said Chancellor Ludwig Erhard would preside.

The East Germans closed the autobahn at 9:30 a.m. and said it would be closed at least until 4 p.m. (10 a.m. EST).

Although civilian traffic was stopped at both ends of the autobahn — the superhighway linking West Berlin and West Germany — Allied military traffic apparently was not affected.

A U.S. Army convoy of 18 vehicles carrying 80 combat infantrymen moved out of West Berlin in the direction of West Germany shortly before the highway was closed.

The U.S. convoy reached West Germany after an uneventful 3½-hour journey through East Germany. Since it left Berlin before the frontiers were closed, it did not directly challenge the closing of the main highway.

Manslaughter Case In Poughkeepsie

The second degree manslaughter case pending against Hugh Joseph Smith, 34, of 9 Sled Hill Road, Woodstock, is scheduled Tuesday at 9 a. m. before City Judge Milton Haven in Poughkeepsie. He is held in connection with the Nov. 23, 1963 death of Mrs. Catherine Schaefer of that city.

Mrs. Schaefer was found lying on the sidewalk in front of her home, 228 Mill Street, by Patrolman Richard Hayes. She was later pronounced dead of a skull fracture. The death had been ruled "accidental" following an inquest before Dutchess County Medical Examiner Dr. Chester H. Golding.

Authorities said Smith told police he panicked after Mrs. Schaefer was injured, and subsequently went to Mexico. On his return from a second trip there, he reportedly telephoned the office of District Attorney Raymond C. Baratta and said he had something on his mind and wanted to talk to police about the woman's death.

Today's Business Mirror

BY SAM DAWSON AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market in recent weeks had seemed unsold by all the optimistic predictions for business. But in the first two days of this month, at least, it appears to have responded finally to the outpouring of records and to assurances that some of the threats to continuing prosperity may be more apparent than real.

Some Impressed

Record employ ent figures, record profits by leading corporations, record output by the auto and steel industries, rising use of consumer installment credit by a confident public have impressed some of the wary investors.

Their caution in recent weeks has been described as a concentration on the threats to a further spread of prosperity: Fighting in Viet Nam, the approach of the May 1 strike deadline in the steel mills, the tough and complicated problems besetting the international monetary framework and the reserves of U.S. gold.

Or the caution has been traced to reservations that since at present the economy is so good it can't get much better.

Some of the problems have quieted down in recent days. The Viet Nam situation may not have improved, but it didn't get much worse. Hopes for a settlement of steel labor negotiations were voiced in some quarters, despite the union's stiff demands and management's reaction.

Early Results

President Johnson's plan to get American businessmen and bankers to help cut the deficit in the U.S. balance of international payments was reported to be having early results, with perhaps as many dollars coming home as are going abroad.

And the statistics have taken an even brighter turn.

Employment is reported to have risen markedly and the percentage of the labor force out of work to have dropped. This would put a more solid foundation under the business upswing .The Labor Department stresses that the rate for unemployed married men is down to 2.5 per cent, compared with 2.9 per cent a year ago. Even the much publicized and troublesome rate of joblessness among teen-agers dropped in March to 13.9 per cent from 14.4 per cent in February.

Record Car Month

In March the auto industry produced more cars than in any other month in its history. Steel mills turned out record tonnages — some of it admittedly for inventory buildups as a hedge against the strike possibility, but a lot of it for current use by their busy customers.

Plans for increased government spending in the months, and even years, ahead are taking shape as Congress acts on programs for the Great Society. State and local government spending is rising.

Businessmen have caught the spirit and raised the amounts they'll put out for new plants and equipment.

Sexton is qualified for Air Force enlistment and will be leaving for Lackland Air Base in April. Mitchell and Carpino enlisted through the Kingston recruiting office, 597 Broadway on Feb. 12. Airman Carpino passed a by-pass specialist test and will be working in the automotive field at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., while Airman Mitchell will be a special equipment operator at Headquarters Strategic Air Command, Offutt AFB, Nebraska. Both were promoted immediately upon completion of basic training. (Freeman photo)

Income Tax Law Questions and Answers

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published by The Freeman as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—I just lost my job and don't have the money to pay what I owe on last year's taxes. What should I do?

A—Even if you don't have the money t pay the balance of tax due on last year's income, be sure to file your return on time. Failure to file is a violation of the law and will subject you to severe penalties.

Enclose a note with your return telling why the balance due is not enclosed. You will be billed for what you owe and interest charged on that amount until it is paid up.

Q—Is the interest on a life insurance loan deductable? I had to make one last year to get up the down payment money on the house we bought.

A—You can deduct the interest on this loan if you pay the interest in cash. If the interest on the loan is added to the total loan on your policy, there is no deduction in that year but you are permitted a deductin when you finally make your payment.

Q—Do I have to pay taxes on the dividends I received on my life insurance policy?

A—No. Your dividends from mutual insurance companies are not taxable since they are considered a reduction of premiums. However, if the insurance was taken out in connection with the operation of a business, and the premiums were deducted in prior years as a business expense, a portion of the dividends may be taxable. Also, if you own stock in an insurance company and there are cash dividends, they are currently taxable.

Q—On the retirement income credit, do you have to have worked for the 10 previous years? I've been retired for two years and if this is so I won't be able to claim it.

A—To qualify for this credit you must have earned at least $600 from wages, salaries, or other compensation for personal services for each of any 10 prior calendar years. Once you have met this requirement you will remain qualified as far as previous earnings go.

Q—Since we bought a home last year, my wife and I will be itemizing our deductions for the first time this year. How can we make sure we don't overlook any of the deductions we are entitled to?

A—Check your 1040 instruction booklet closely. You may also want to purchase a copy of "Your Federal Income Tax" which is on sale at any Internal Revenue Office.

Remember that when you itemize you must have the records or other evidence to substantiate both the amount and the character of the deduction.

NEW YORK (AP) — Douglas MacArthur has been gone a year, an old soldier who finally did fade away a decade after he was summarily relieved of his command of the Korean conflict.

In the special, hour-long biography-memoir of the controversial, brilliant general on ABC Sunday night, the narration made no mention of the curious parallel of today's debates about broadening the Vietnamese war with a similar difference of opinion which ended MacArthur's long military career.

By and large, David Wolper's treatment stuck pretty close to straight biography of a man who was born in the days when Geronimo still was terrorizing the West and lived to enter the atomic age.

The successes and the failures were all put into the record. But after an hour, Douglas MacArthur seemed as much as a mystery as before. He remained a remote authoritarian figure.

An aura of glamor surrounded the general — the dramatic speeches, the fulfillment of his promise to return to the Philippines, the eagle-like profile, all this was captured again and again. But missing was any clue of the man behind the sunglasses and corncob pipe and measured prose.

CBS' "Twentieth Century," in a half hour Sunday night was able to reveal much more of the motivation and inner processes of violinist Isaac Stern.

Describing himself as a born ham, Stern explained the relationship of the audience to his music.

"I love to play music," he said, his face reflecting this, "It is an act of love."

It was a fine program and far too short.

Area Builders Hear About Computer Role

The role of the computer and its growing importance in the home building business was the subject of a talk by William R. Smolkin, New Orleans Marketing Consultant, at the monthly meeting of the Home Builders Association of the Hudson Valley. The meeting was held at the Hellenic Center, Poughkeepsie.

Smolkin, president of W. R. Smolkin Associates inc., briefly outlined the growing importance of computer use in all phases of today's business life and predicted that within the next two to five years every home builder will be making some use of a computer service. Smolkin predicted that home builders will in the near future be using computer service for the scheduling of construction, preparation of accounting reports and in making of market analyses of proposed subdivisions.

A total of 14 new members were inducted into the Home Builders Association of the Hudson Valley by Malvern Cunningham, Kingston. Sam Hankin, president, reported that he had been advised by the National Association of Home Builders that the Hudson Valley Association is, at present, the fastest growing home builders group in the country. The Hudson Valley Home Builders now have a membership of 140 and have set a goal of 200 memberships for 1965. Hankin congratulated Louis Ritter, Poughkeepsie, membership chairman, for his efforts.

Anthony Gallo, Fishkill, reported on the annual spring dinner dance of the Association which is planned for May 1. The dance will be held at the Concord Hotel Kiamesha Lake.

Democrats Survey Lottery Plan for Help on Schools

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Democratic State Chairman William H. McKeon wants his party's 62 county chairmen to survey voter sentiment on proposals for a state lottery to raise money for public schools.

McKeon said he had been told there was an "overwhelmingly and enthusiastically favorable" response to proposals by Democratic lawmakers for a New York State lottery similar to one held in New Hampshire.

Such a lottery, McKeon said Sunday, would provide a minimum of $250 million a year for primary and secondary schools.

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — A student studying an old book in the Palermo library found between the pages a folded sheet of paper 50 by 70 centimeters (20 by 28 inches) in size, on which the 14,233 verses of Dante's "Divine Comedy" had been penned in 69 columns of tiny script.

Hudson Painter Held Following Stabbing

A 23-year-old Hudson painter is charged with second degree assault and being held in the Columbia County jail for the alleged stabbing of his upstairs neighbor in a bar fight Saturday night.

James Kinsey, 32, is in Columbia Memorial Hospital in serious condition with stab wounds about the neck and abdomen. Nathaniel Davis, was arrested charged with the assault. Both men reside at 235 Columbia Street, Hudson. The assault alleged took place during an argument in which three men participated. The three argued over membership in a fraternal organization. Kinsey allegedly grabbed a knife to protect himself when the third man began to strike him. He dropped the knife and Davis allegedly produced a hunting knife and stabbed Kinsey. Davis was picked up and questioned Saturday night but released only to be again picked up Sunday and charged with the assault.

Previews of Progress

KHS Students View GM Demonstrations

"Liquid sunshine" powered a portable radio; a small platform moved across the floor on a thin layer of air; and a "misbehaving" suitcase illustrated principles used in modern guidance systems.

Kingston High School students saw these and other interesting demonstrations when the famed General Motor science show, Previews of Progress, appeared at the school under the joint sponsorship of the Key Club (Kiwanis,) and the Student Council.

45-Minute Show

William Myers and Bruce Burton of General Motors Public Relations Staff presented the 45-minute show. They are one of seven teams that take the show to more than a million students each year.

One of the highlights of the show was a fuel cell, a device that converts chemical energy into electrical power. Potentially one of the most significant scientific developments of the century, the fuel cell manufactures electricity with much greater efficiency than is now obtained from conventional power plants.

During the show, a few drops of "liquid sunshine" added to the cells provided enough energy to operate a portable radio.

Another example of solar energy, the amazing Sunmobile, was demonstrated. The 15-inch model car depends on eight photoelectric cells for its operation. The button-like cells on the hood of the car convert light rays into electricity which drives a small electrical motor inside the car. A 300-watt lamp was used to simulate the sun's rays during the show. As the light struck the cells, the Sunmobile moved smoothly across a table.

In addition to sun power, the Previews audience saw an air bearing platform in operation. This small platform, supported by three large circular pads, is designed to slide over any flat surface on a thin layer of air.

Platform Operation Simple

The operation of the Previews platform is simple. A small blower forces air through the three pads, creating a thin layer of air between the pads and the floor. The air eliminates nearly all sliding friction, enabling easy mobility of the platform.

Another Previews sequence illustrated principles used in modern guidance systems. A student volunteer, Frank Montafia, manipulated a suitcase with "a mind of its own" as the lecturer, William Myers, explained how today's planes, ships and missiles are safely guided along predetermined courses.

Students also saw the Exploding Wire Phenomenon. Using the principle of stored energy, a 10-watt power supply furnished about 30-million watts in an instant to demonstrate the electrical disintegration of a fine wire. This phenomenon may someday propel space vehicles.

Other Previews demonstrations included examples of the wonders of modern chemistry and a capsule history of jet propulsion traced from 200 B.C. to futuristic gas turbine power.

Previews of Progress has been seen by more than 32 million American students and adults. The demonstrations, constantly updated to keep pace with recent technological advances and presented in easy-to-understand non-technical language, have proved to be a big hit with students around the globe. Nearly seven million persons in Latin America, Europe, Africa, Australia and New Zealand have seen the show.

At the request of the U.S. Department of Commerce, GM recently equipped and trained special units of the show for appearances at five International Trade Fairs in South America and the Near East.

Publishes Book On D & H Canal

Mrs. Dorothy H. Sanderson, former director of the Ellenville Public Library, is author of "The Delaware and Hudson Canalway: Carrying Coals to Rondout," which was published recently.

Based on material Mrs. Sanderson has been collecting since 1958, this 80-page publication treats the human side of the canal, presenting findings from speeches, interviews of old canalers, newspaper and magazine articles, as well as folk stories, poems, and songs.

It also presents in miniature a visual D. & H. Canal trip, including more than 60 pictures of the waterway that from 1828-1898 carried coal and other merchandise between Honesdale, Pa., and Rondout.

Of special interest, also, are two full-page maps, by Charles D. Robinson of Cornwall-on-Hudson, of the canal and its connecting gravity railroad which carried the coal from the mines to the Honesdale terminus.

Cardinal Meyer Has Another Slight Relapse

CHICAGO (AP) — Doctors have ordered Albert Cardinal Meyer returned to tube feeding after the prelate suffered another slight relapse.

A spokesman for Mercy Hospital, where the cardinal underwent brain surgery for a cancerous tumor Feb. 25, said Sunday the Chicago archbishop "is not in a coma, but he does sleep most of the time."

Doctors said Cardinal Meyer suffered a relapse March 26 and went into another decline over the weekend. His condition is aggravated by a persistent swelling in his left leg, which has been attributed to a blood clot.

Julie Andrews or Sophia Loren?

Hollywood Ready Tonight For 37th Academy Awards

BY JAMES BACON
AP Movie - Television Writer

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Will it be Julie Andrews or Sophia Loren tonight — Oscar night?

That seems to be the major item of suspense as Hollywood dresses up for its biggest show — the 37th annual Academy Awards.

When the nominations first were announced six weeks ago, Miss Andrews looked like the odds-on favorite — almost a shoo-in.

But things have changed.

Actors, who only nominate their fellow actors and actresses, made Miss Andrews one of the five top actress nominees and excluded Audrey Hepburn, who did the screen version of "My Fair Lady."

Julie, who created the Eliza Doolittle role on Broadway, was overlooked for the movie version. That may have triggered the actors' snub of Miss Hepburn.

But for Oscar itself, all members of the academy vote. "My Fair Lady," in its screenings for the academy membership, drew the biggest crowds in Oscar history. One night 300 persons, including Greer Garson, were turned away. The academy had to run an extra screening.

Talk in the lobby after the screenings made much of Audrey's performance and scores of members asked how she could have been overlooked.

As a result, the Oscar race, often a popularity contest, evolved into a form race. That's where Miss Loren, winner in 1963, entered the picture.

Her "Marriage, Italian Style," second only to "My Fair Lady" in audience turnout, was widely regarded as the classic performance of the five nominees.

The others, besides Miss Andrews ("Mary Poppins") were Debbie Reynolds ("The Unsinkable Molly Brown"); Anne Bancroft ("The Pumpkin Eater") and Kim Stanley ("Seance on a Wet Afternoon").

Among the men, Rex Harrison is the favorite for his professor Higgins of "My Fair Lady." The other nominees are Richard Burton ("Becket"); Anthony Quinn ("Zorba the Greek"); and Peter Sellers ("Dr. Strangelove").

"My Fair Lady" is rated a shoo-in for best picture, best direction and most of its 12 nominations.

The results will be carried over ABC-TV and radio plus the Armed Forces Radio Service. Showtime is 10 p.m. (EST).

Dutchess Man Dies Of Bullet Wound

A 51-year-old Dutchess County man died of a bullet wound in the head Saturday night, while enroute in an ambulance from his home to St. Francis' Hospital in Poughkeepsie.

Dr. Chester H. Golding, Dutchess County medical examiner, in a preliminary finding, ruled George Gruntler, of Rt. 9G, Staatsburg, died of lacerations of the brain and listed the death a suicide pending a formal inquest.

Gruntler's wife and daughter-in-law found him wounded in a bedroom after they heard a single shot, according to Rhinebeck State Police, who said a .22 caliber rifle was found near the man's body.

The wounded man was taken to the hospital by the Hyde Park Rescue Squad. Troopers reported Gruntler had been ill for a long time.

Dutchess Man Dies Of Bullet Wound

A 51-year-old Dutchess County man died of a bullet wound in the head Saturday night, while enroute in an ambulance from his home to St. Francis' Hospital in Poughkeepsie.

Dr. Chester H. Golding, Dutchess County medical examiner, in a preliminary finding, ruled George Gruntler, of Rt. 9G, Staatsburg, died of lacerations of the brain and listed the death a suicide pending a formal inquest.

Gruntler's wife and daughter-in-law found him wounded in a bedroom after they heard a single shot, according to Rhinebeck State Police, who said a .22 caliber rifle was found near the man's body.

The wounded man was taken to the hospital by the Hyde Park Rescue Squad. Troopers reported Gruntler had been ill for a long time.

Dear Abby . . .

She's "Agin" Sex!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am tired of reading articles and columns saying that people are "sick" just because they don't go wild over sex. Tell me something, why do people keep pushing sex? Why didn't you tell that woman, whose husband lost interest in her, to leave the poor guy alone? She probably wore him out. I happen to be one of those people who couldn't care less about sex and I wouldn't change if I could. If you stop to think a minute, you will have to agree that half the world's problems stem from sex. To mention a few: Overpopulation, unwanted children, sex crimes, venereal disease and adultery. Besides, sex can ruin your reputation quicker than anything else. I am not a bitter old maid. I am a 37-year-old married woman and the mother of two teen-agers. And I am not locked up anywhere, so I think I'm normal. I wouldn't give you a nickle for sex and I am perfectly content.

NOT SEXY AND COULDN'T CARE LESS

DEAR NOT SEXY: You may be "perfectly content"—but how about your husband?

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: I have had some experience in the matter of men losing interest in sex after having reached a certain age, so I think I am qualified to make a statement on the subject.

Some men lose their youth at 50, and some at 60. But you can take my word for it, if any man over 60 tells you a different story, he is lying.

You are foolish to advise women whose husbands have lost interest in them to "get them to a doctor." No doctor on earth can help them I am 72 years old and I know more about life than you do. A doctor once told me that after a man reaches 60, he is all washed up in the "love" department. And so is a woman, no matter what anybody says. We accept the fact that as we get older our eyes grow dim, and our hearing starts to fade. Our bodies aren't in the same condition at 55 as they were at 25. So why not face ALL the facts? We just plain dry up. And this happens to everybody if they live long enough.

Respectively yours,
"WASHED UP"

DEAR ABBY: A wife wrote wanting to know if medical treatment was in order for her husband, who seemed to have lost all desire for her. If this letter came from my wife, I would like to answer her through your column:

"No, my dear, medical treatment is not in order for me. But it is quite possible that it is in order for YOU! When I married you, ten years ago, you were 5'3" and weighed 117. Today you weigh 170, and are about six axe handles across the rear. Since bearing our two wonderful children, you've decided that you've done your job, and you just lounge around getting fatter. The housework gets done only when you are expecting guests. No, I am not planning to leave you. I think too much of our children. But the thought of walloping some of that fat off you has crossed my mind several times."

Abby, you could probably save many, many marriages if you would tell wives that "letting themselves grow fat and lazy" has destroyed more marriages than all the money fights, in-law trouble, and infidelity put together.

SIX-TWO AND ONE EIGHTY

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: Speaking of men losing interest in the opposite sex reminds me of something I read long ago: "When we are young, we avoid temptation. When we are old, temptation avoids us."

YOUR FAN, FRANKIE

MINFORD A. OVERFIELD

A Harding Avenue man, Minford A. Overfield, was honored Friday on the occasion of his 40th anniversary of service with Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp.

The customer service supervisor, who makes his home at 85 Harding Avenue, was presented with a service emblem by Ernest R. Acker, retired board chairman, during ceremonies at the utility's general office in Poughkeepsie.

Overfield joined Central Hudson in April 1925. After serving in Poughkeepsie, he transferred to Kingston in 1944 as Special Commercial Representative. The utility veteran became service supervisor in 1951 and district supervisor in 1954.

The Kingston resident is a member of Kingston Lions Club and the Kingston Chamber of Commerce. He is a former director of the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross and a past vice president of the Industrial Management Club. He is also a former deacon of the First Dutch Church and a past Noble Grand, Poughkeepsie Lodge 21, I.O.O.F.

Overfield is a member of the Saugerties and Kingston Boards of Electrical Examiners and the Chapel Corner Grange. He has been active in Community Chest, March of Dimes, Cancer Society, Benedictine Hospital and Red Cross campaigns in Kingston in recent years.

CCNY Prof Will Lecture at Local College April 30

Prof. William Miller, of the department of physics at the City College of City University of New York, New York City, will serve as a visiting lecturer at Ulster County Community College Friday, April 30.

He will visit under the auspices of the American Association of Physics Teachers and the American Institute of Physics as part of a broad, nationwide program to stimulate interest in physics. The program is now in its eighth year and is supported by the National Science Foundation.

The American Association of Physics Teachers is one of the five member societies of the American Institute of Physics. Other member societies are the American Physical Society, Optical Society of America, Acoustical Society of America and the Society of Rheology.

Prof. Miller will give lectures, hold informal meetings with students, and assist faculty members with curriculum and research problems. Professor Calvin F. Grass, chairman of the science, mathmatics, engineering, and technology department of the Ulster County Community College, is in charge of arangements for his visit.

Prof. Miller received the B.B.A. degree in business administration and physics from CCNY in 1943 and the Ph. D degree in physics from the University of Pennsylvania in 1948.

From 1948 until 1955, he was associated with the National Bureau of Standards where he conducted research in fields of radiowave propagation, high energy scattering of electrons and positions, and x-ray spectrometry and attenuation. He was responsible for theoretical work on Eniwetok to guide radiation measurements.

From Februaray 1955 until January 1956, Dr. Miller worked at the Naval Research Laboratory where he conducted research on semi-conductors and solid state devices, including effects of electron bombardment on transient behavior of semiconductors.

Dr. Miller joined the faculty at CCNY in 1956 as an assistant professor of physics and in 1961 was made associate professor which title he holds now.

Harrisburg Plans Interstate 84 Start

HARRISBURG (AP) — Construction will begin this year on Interstate 84, which, when completed, will provide northeastern Pennsylvania with a direct connection to the New England states, Henry D. Harral, secretary of highways, announced Friday.

Harral said his department planned to take bids on about six miles in Pike County this fall and will complete the $60 million expressway in Pennsylvania within five years.

The project will play a vital role in Gov. Scranton's $10 billion highway building program, the secretary said.

Dead in Wrecked Car

Dominick Lacenera, 35, of Middletown was found dead in his wrecked car at the intersection of Routes 208 and 17-K Sunday. Police said the car had struck a utility pole at Scott's Corners, Orange County. The accident happened about 3:30 a. m. but was not discovered until some four hours later.

$500 Is Stolen From School Safe

Burglars who dug a hole through a 12-inch corridor wall of a safe at Chatham High School made off with $500 of school funds some time Sunday.

Entrance to the building was gained through a rear fire escape, State Police at Claverack outpost reported. The doors to the principal's office and the school nurse room were pried open. A hole was dug through a 12-inch corridor wall, which also formed the rear of the safe. Two lengths of two by four inch timbers were spliced together and inserted through the hole to trip an emergency lock in the safe. The safe door was closed after the theft and entrance to the safe was not discovered for some time. William Wolfe of the BCI and Trooper J. Fitzgerald, both of Claverack outpost are investigating.

Industry came late in the Chesapeake country; agriculture and fishing still predominate. In southern Maryland, tobacco remains a principal crop.

Library Board Approves Raise In Members Dues

Approval of an increase in membership dues was voted at a recent special meeting of the Kingston City Library Association, which was presided over by Frederick Stang, president of the Board of Trustees.

Ellsworth Johnson and John Buck, Jr., co-chairmen of the association's committee of the whole, led a general discussion. Buck compared the Kingston Library with national standards and averages, and noted the local library was far below par in terms of its financial support, and that this was the root of its present problems.

He stated that the American Library Association recommends a minimum of $3.50 per capita support, the average public library in New York State receives $3.60 per capita, the average public library in the U. S. receives $2.64 per capita, while the Kingston Library receives $1.14.

Buck explained that the library's Board of Trustees was doing a fine job, but did not have sufficient funds with which to work. The Association committee's purpose, Buck said, was to help the staff and trustees through contribution of volunteer assistance.

Chairmen of the various subcommittees were introduced to explain the functions of their respective groups. Mrs. Jeremiah Sachs described the projects now being undertaken by the publicity committee, involving National Library Week, news releases and the operation of a library booth at the Lions Exposition.

Dr. John Patton, chairman of the finance sub-committee, explained that his group was involved in encouragement of gifts and endowments, and the forthcoming membership drive. Later in the program, he noted the vital importance of library development in this area for students. Dr. Patton is chairman of the Humanities Department at the Ulster County Community College.

Ellsworth Johnson described the functioning of the Forms of Library Organization sub-committee for Mrs. Morton Kamen, who is chairman, but was unable to attend. The group is concerned with the study of various forms of government with which the library might work in cooperation.

John Buck explained the functioning of the Library Services group, which is charged with supplying volunteer assistance for branch library operation, hospital service, and a variety of other activities at the library.

A request was made for volunteers, and the meeting adjourned. Anyone interested in working on any of the sub-committees may contact Don Sager, director of the Kingston City Library, for additional information.

Ex-Marine Charged With Murder of Sisters

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) —A 21-year-old former Marine was charged with second-degree murder after police say, the mutilated bodies of two Niagara Falls sisters were found in his apartment.

Asst. Dist. Atty. William Hunt Jr., said Wayne Drinkwater told him he had been overcome early Sunday by a sudden, unexplained urge to destroy, had grabbed a knife and stabbed the girls, whom he had invited to his apartment for a party.

Drinkwater, who was sleeping, and the girls' fully clothed bodies were found in the living room by Drinkwater's father, Elmer, who shared the apartment with his son, police said.

Police said Amelia Maracle 20, and her sister, Alva, 17, had been stabbed and mutilated with a knife.

Young Drinkwater was discharged in February from the Marine Corps, Hunt said, after he had been hospitalized since November.

Paris May Be Chilly

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's ambassador-designate to France, Valerian A. Zorin, may receive a chilly reception in Paris. He is to take up the new post soon.

A book by Zorin, "Foundations of Diplomacy," published Friday, says that President Charles de Gaulle's government creates conditions for fascism.

Zorin, former deputy foreign minister, wrote that between 1958 and 1963 France was transformed from a parliamentary republic into a presidential form of government and De Gaulle established "a regime of personal power."

Executions Banned

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Gov. Edward T. Breathitt has ordered a ban on executions in Kentucky until the 1966 Legislature can review the state's capital punishment statute.

Only one man in the last eight years has died in the electric chair in Kentucky. There are currently nine on death row.

Jump Overcall Has Weakness

By JACOBY & SON
Newspaper Enerprise Assn.

The weak jump overcall is designed to disrupt the opponents' normal communication and make it hard for them to reach the the correct final contract. It has two main disadvantages. The first is that sometimes the opponents stop to double the overcaller and when the smoke of battle clears away it is disclosed that he has lost more than he would have if only he had kept still. The second is that it frequently gives the eventual declarer valuable information as to how to play the hand.

There is a third disadvantage. Sometimes it actually helps the other side to reach the best final contract.

Left to themselves, North and South might well have failed to get beyond four hearts but West's three club bid started them swinging along and made it easy for them to reach six diamonds.

It also made the play quite easy for South. After winning the club opening and pulling trumps with two leads South decided that the odds were overwhelmingly in favor of finding the queen of hearts in the East hand. Hence he cashed dummy's ace of hearts, led a second heart, and finessed his jack. Then he picked up East's queen with the king and discarded two spades on dummy's long hearts.

If West had just kept still it is likely that South might have made the hand anyway. He could have taken the winning heart finesse or he might have played out the ace and king of hearts and then thrown East in with a third heart after the queen failed to drop. Then East would have either had to give South a ruff and discard or led away from his king of spades.

Paris May Be Chilly

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's ambassador-designate to France, Valerian A. Zorin, may receive a chilly reception in Paris. He is to take up the new post soon.

A book by Zorin, "Foundations of Diplomacy," published Friday, says that President Charles de Gaulle's government creates conditions for fascism.

Zorin, former deputy foreign minister, wrote that between 1958 and 1963 France was transformed from a parliamentary republic into a presidential form of government and De Gaulle established "a regime of personal power."

Executions Banned

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Gov. Edward T. Breathitt has ordered a ban on executions in Kentucky until the 1966 Legislature can review the state's capital punishment statute.

Only one man in the last eight years has died in the electric chair in Kentucky. There are currently nine on death row.

Jump Overcall Has Weakness

By JACOBY & SON
Newspaper Enerprise Assn.

The weak jump overcall is designed to disrupt the opponents' normal communication and make it hard for them to reach the the correct final contract. It has two main disadvantages. The first is that sometimes the opponents stop to double the overcaller and when the smoke of battle clears away it is disclosed that he has lost more than he would have if only he had kept still. The second is that it frequently gives the eventual declarer valuable information as to how to play the hand.

There is a third disadvantage. Sometimes it actually helps the other side to reach the best final contract.

Left to themselves, North and South might well have failed to get beyond four hearts but West's three club bid started them swinging along and made it easy for them to reach six diamonds.

It also made the play quite easy for South. After winning the club opening and pulling trumps with two leads South decided that the odds were overwhelmingly in favor of finding the queen of hearts in the East hand. Hence he cashed dummy's ace of hearts, led a second heart, and finessed his jack. Then he picked up East's queen with the king and discarded two spades on dummy's long hearts.

If West had just kept still it is likely that South might have made the hand anyway. He could have taken the winning heart finesse or he might have played out the ace and king of hearts and then thrown East in with a third heart after the queen failed to drop. Then East would have either had to give South a ruff and discard or led away from his king of spades.

Relief on School Tax, Help for Aging Proposed

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—School-tax relief and increased powers for the State Office for the Aging are among proposals advanced by a group of Republican State Senators to help the aged in New York State.

A special committee, appointed by Senate Minority Leader Earl W. Brydges, reported Sunday that the state also should broaden community aid programs to help the elderly.

The five-member committee's major proposals were to:

—Allow local school boards to cut by up to $5,000 the property assessment of any home-owner over 65 years old whose annual income is $3,000 or less.

—Change the State Constitution to provide state aid for communities or non-profit agencies that build nursing homes for elderly persons with low incomes.

—Provide state aid for half the cost of running local offices to counsel the aging and help them find part-time jobs.

PARKED CAR HIT—The car above, owned by Donald Hobart, of 47 Trenton Street, was involved in a mishap early Sunday on Foxhall Avenue. Police said it had been parked near 115 Foxhall Avenue when it was struck by a car operated by Robert McCarthy, of 180 Foxhall Avenue, and forced upon the sidewalk. The latter told police he had been blinded by oncoming headlights. At the scene is Officer Weston Hoffay.

Katzenbach Notes Changes In U. S. Racial Climate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach says he thinks there has been a tremendous change in the racial climate throughout the nation.

"Certainly there has been a lot of change in the South," he said in an interview. "I think most people in the South see the inevitability of the future and accept it."

Does he foresee a "long, hot summer" on the racial front?

"I think whether there are difficulties this coming summer will depend to a large extent on how well the mayors of the bigger cities, which have the biggest problems, move to meet these problems and to anticipate them — and how much we in the federal government can do to help such efforts," said the attorney general.

"Most communities with sizable Negro populations have education problems, housing problems, and unemployment problems. If government at the local level and the state level, as well as the federal level, does not move to do something about these problems, then I think one could say the chance of difficulties would be much greater than if it does.

"I don't suggest these problems can be solved by June. I think what is important is to indicate that they are recognized and they are being attacked and honestly faced up to — North and South."

On other matters relating to civil rights, Katzenbach:

—Forecast that a bill to control the activities of the Ku Klux Klan would be submitted to President Johnson within two weeks. He said the bill more likely would be aimed at providing stiffer penalties for Klan-type crimes of violence, than at the organization itself.

—Estimated the strength of the Ku Klux Klan at 10,000 men, but said, "I don't think the Klan has much influence over the general thinking of the South at all." He indicated, in reference to Klansmen, "I would be surprised if they were not" involved in recent bombings and bomb scares in Birmingham, Ala.

—Described Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace's nationwide image as "that of a racist — a very anti-Negro image." But he said Wallace probably considers himself as a segregationist: "I suspect like many people in the South he does not see the relationship between segregation and racism."

—Asserted that the Communist party has attempted to inject itself into the American civil rights movement, but has been "remarkably unsuccessful in actually influencing any decisions, and certainly has not captured any of the leadership."

Mishap on Thruway Three Injured in Car

Three persons were injured shortly after 9:30 a. m. Sunday when the car in which they were riding went out of control and hit bridge railing off the State Thruway near Mile Post 84 about seven miles south of Kingston.

The injured were taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctor's ambluance. A spokesman for the ambulance service said the car narrowly missed plunging down an 80 or 90-foot embankment into the Rondout Creek near Rosendale.

The car, reportedly operated by Robert Dischel, 25, Freeport, L. I., was traveling north when the vehicle went out of control, hit the bridge railing and knocked it out, and then luckily bounced back on the bridge.

Dischel sustained leg, back and hand injuries. Passengers were listed as Miss Phyliss Isaacs, 24, New York City, who received leg and head injuries, and Robert Meltzer, 24, of Brooklyn, who suffered back and leg injuries.

Volunteers Are Called for 55 Fires on Weekend

Volunteer fire companies throughout Ulster County spent a busy week-end battling grass and brush fires. There were 55 calls registered at Ulster Fire Control Headquaters over the weekend and 29 fire companies were involved. Several of the companies were called out numerous times.

Highland responded to seven calls, Napanoch answered five calls, in the Modena area the fires were so numerous that Orange county firemen were summoned for assistance. New Paltz, Plattekill, Gardiner and Milton firemen responded to three calls each and volunteers throughout the county were kept on the jump.

Chief Donald Wilhelm of the Napanoch department reported their troubles started Saturday when old railroad ties at the dump site near the old railroad station were involved. Again on Saturday a grass fire called Napanoch firemen to the Joseph Irving premises on Main Street, Napanoch, for a grass fire.

Sunday a brush and forest fire burned over a large area at "40 acre lot," Honk Hill, on Continental Road. Several houses were threatened at times and Ellenville firemen were called to stand by. When the houses were threatened Ellenville firemen joined the Napanoch firemen and Wawarsing was asked to stand by.

At 8:05 p. m. Sunday an unused chicken coop on Continental Road in the vicinity of the forest fire was destroyed. Again at10:35 firemen were called back to the Gerald Snyder premises near where the forest fire had originated. This time it was an outbuilding which was destroyed.

Chief Wilhelm reported several building in the vicinity of the fire were threatened when high winds carried the flames close. Chief Wilhelm gave great credit to John Irwin, Jr., who donated the services of a bulldozer to clear a path to the scene of the fire.

Sunday at 2:15 p. m. Clintondale firemen were summoned to the William Fino premises on Tucker's Corner Road where a second-story bedroom was on fire. The fire damage was confined to the bedroom where the fire originated but there was some heat and water damage. Chief Larry Capozzi reported that quick response of firemen prevented the flames from communicating to other portions of the two-story frame structure. Cause of the fire has not been determined.

Special Help Is Offered to Help Pinched Taxpayer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service says arrangements can be made for those who face undue hardship if they cannot pay their income tax in full on April 15.

In a special announcement, however, the IRS attached two conditions:

— That the taxpayer must prove he would encounter "undue hardship, as distinguished from mere inconvenience."

— That interest at 6 per cent will be charged on the unpaid portion.

The IRS said all taxpayers must submit their returns by the April 15 deadline to avoid severe penalties under the law.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington's first monument to Franklin D. Roosevelt will be dedicated next Monday, the 20th anniversary of his death.

A simple marble block will be placed on what Roosevelt once described as "that green plot in front of the archives building." It is located on Pennsylvania Avenue midway between the White House and the Capitol.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. foundation has announced a $500,000 grant to the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

The center is to be the only Washington memorial to the late president. Some $661,000 still must be raised by public subscription by June 30 if the center is to get a congressional appropriation of $15.5 million.

The foundation was named for the late president's brother, a Navy pilot killed on a World War II mission.

Move for . . .

responsible for one half the cost of storing and bringing the food to the various distribution points.

"As an example," she said, "Columbia County received from the period January-December 1963 a total of $83,232 worth of food which cost the county $2,871 to store and distribute, and half of that was then refunded by the state. Delaware County received $134,470 worth of food at a cost to the county of $5,678. Again half of that was reimbursable to the county.

"It is expected that this food will greatly benefit the children who will be able to eat regularly in spite of the problems their families might be having. For those people who have been existing on rice, beans and macaroni it will mean a more varied diet and the possibility of buying vegetables and fruits. There are many large families where the father has a good job but who must apply to welfare for extra help. They would benefit enormously from this program and might not have to go through what for them might be the unpleasant experience of being on the welfare roles. This would mean a reduction of the welfare costs to the county. All those who feel that they can help to get signatures for the petition are urged to contact CORE at 74½ Broadway or write to Mrs. E. Averill, 85 Abeel Street.

Q: "We have the following securities from which we derive most of our income: 36 Standard Brands; 80 General Foods; 300 Pacific Gas & Electric; 630 Northern Illinois Gas and 3,000 shares Commonwealth Edison. We have $7,000 in the savings bank. Our yield from present holdings is only 3 per cent. Would you recommend a more diversified portfolio, including tax-empt bonds to bring us more net income?" M. X.

A: I believe you shoul,d be commended on a fine list of holdings You are, however, disproportionately invested in two of our finest — Northern Illinois Gas and Commonwealth Edison.

It may be that you are locked into these two stocks by large capital gains. I would consult a tax expert to determine if that is so and how you can best lower your commitments in these two situations.

When feasible I would transfer part of each of these stocks into good tax-empts such as University of Illinois 3.60's due Dec. 1, 1992 to yield 3.50. This compares with a taxable yield of 2.50 on Northern Illinois Gas.

Q: "I will ask your advice about Campbell Red Lake Mines. I have 400 shares of this company. Can we expect a raise in the price of gold by the United States?" W. D.

A: I myself do not expect a rise in the price of gold in the foreseeable future.

It has been stated emphatically and repeatedly by Government sources that the price will not be boosted. Campbell Red Lake is a low-cost Canadian gold producer, which has been one of the few to show steady earnings gains over the past decade.

The shares sell at a high price-earnings mutiple because they are a hedge against a possible gold price boost, however remote.

There is a moderate yield here and if you are otherwise diversified, you might well continue to hold in view of the good quality of the stock and its hedge potential.

United States

Under First Rate

There had been unconfirmed reports that U.S. bombing accuracy in the attacks into North Viet Nam has been something less than first-rate.

The Thanh Hoa bridge where the F105s were hit is about 76 miles south of Hanoi. The Dong Phuong Thuong bridge is about 16 miles northeast of Thanh Hoa. The third bridge, near Dong Hoi, is about 50 miles north of the boundary separating North and South Viet Nam.

There were indications that Maj. Gen. Joseph Moore, the Air Force commander in South Viet Nam, would be asked for explanations of the way the Thanh Hoa mission was conducted.

Reason for Concern

Among other things, Air Force authorities were reported concerned because the two F105s were downed while orbiting over the target area as they prepared for their bomb run, instead of some distance away.

Caught with a heavy bomb load — possibly as much as 13,000 pounds — the F105s reportedly could not maneuver or reach the speeds they are capable of when not so weighted down.

Questions were raised, too, about the combat air patrols — the F100 fighters flying above the bombers with the expressed mission of watching for enemy air attack and defending the bombers from such attack.

Officials were unable to explain why the patrol in this case was caught by surprise. But they said that such cover can never be expected to air tight.

The U.S. jets were said to be armed with Sidewinder missiles, but only one of these reportedly was fired at the departing MIGs. The Sidewinder seeks out its target by homing in on heat from an enemy plane's engine. It does not require good visibility for a hit.

There was no explanation why more Sidewinders were not fired at the MIGs.

Hamburger eateries in Paris now do a booming business, and most of the customers are French.

North Viet

Saigon said heavy Red groundfire downed a number of other aircraft that made the 60-plane attack on a strategic bridge 65 miles south of Hanoi.

Officials did not disclose the total number of planes lost because rescue efforts were still going on. A South Vietnamese spokesman said three South Vietnamese Skyraiders were hit on another raid, that one returned safely to its base and the pilots of the other two planes were missing.

A Communist Chinese dispatch claimed 37 U.S and South brought down, but it made no mention of the MIGs.

Both American planes hit by the MIGs crashed into the sea. The body of one pilot was picked up by rescue ships.

The pilot of a U.S. Air Force propeller-driven Skyraider also went down into the sea when his plane was hit by fire from Red gunboats. He was listed as missing.

Hanoi Radio said North Vietnamese militiamen in Thanh Hoa Province captured two U.S. pilots, one on April 3 and another on April 4. The pilots were not identified.

Defense Department sources in Washington said an American fighter may have winged one of the North Vietnamese fighters, identified as MIG15s and 17s of Korean War vintage.

Design Is

the elimination of the present export certificate and export subsidy on wheat moving abroad.

The elimination of these devices would bring an annual saving of around $150 million a year to the government.

Under the present program, exporters must buy export certificates at 30 cents a bushel—returns from which also go to cooperating growers.

With cooperating growers getting 50 cents a bushel more on their share of the wheat used domestically, the government would eliminate the export certificate.

As under the present program, farmers would be free to ignore the program and increase wheat acreage. But they would be ineligible for either price supports or returns from marketing certificates.

Relief on School Tax, Help for Aging Proposed

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—School-tax relief and increased powers for the State Office for the Aging are among proposals advanced by a group of Republican State Senators to help the aged in New York State.

A special committee, appointed by Senate Minority Leader Earl W. Brydges, reported Sunday that the state also should broaden community aid programs to help the elderly.

The five-member committee's major proposals were to:

—Allow local school boards to cut by up to $5,000 the property assessment of any home-owner over 65 years old whose annual income is $3,000 or less.

—Change the State Constitution to provide state aid for communities or non-profit agencies that build nursing homes for elderly persons with low incomes.

—Provide state aid for half the cost of running local offices to counsel the aging and help them find part-time jobs.

PARKED CAR HIT—The car above, owned by Donald Hobart, of 47 Trenton Street, was involved in a mishap early Sunday on Foxhall Avenue. Police said it had been parked near 115 Foxhall Avenue when it was struck by a car operated by Robert McCarthy, of 180 Foxhall Avenue, and forced upon the sidewalk. The latter told police he had been blinded by oncoming headlights. At the scene is Officer Weston Hoffay.

Katzenbach Notes Changes In U. S. Racial Climate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach says he thinks there has been a tremendous change in the racial climate throughout the nation.

"Certainly there has been a lot of change in the South," he said in an interview. "I think most people in the South see the inevitability of the future and accept it."

Does he foresee a "long, hot summer" on the racial front?

"I think whether there are difficulties this coming summer will depend to a large extent on how well the mayors of the bigger cities, which have the biggest problems, move to meet these problems and to anticipate them — and how much we in the federal government can do to help such efforts," said the attorney general.

"Most communities with sizable Negro populations have education problems, housing problems, and unemployment problems. If government at the local level and the state level, as well as the federal level, does not move to do something about these problems, then I think one could say the chance of difficulties would be much greater than if it does.

"I don't suggest these problems can be solved by June. I think what is important is to indicate that they are recognized and they are being attacked and honestly faced up to — North and South."

On other matters relating to civil rights, Katzenbach:

—Forecast that a bill to control the activities of the Ku Klux Klan would be submitted to President Johnson within two weeks. He said the bill more likely would be aimed at providing stiffer penalties for Klan-type crimes of violence, than at the organization itself.

—Estimated the strength of the Ku Klux Klan at 10,000 men, but said, "I don't think the Klan has much influence over the general thinking of the South at all." He indicated, in reference to Klansmen, "I would be surprised if they were not" involved in recent bombings and bomb scares in Birmingham, Ala.

—Described Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace's nationwide image as "that of a racist — a very anti-Negro image." But he said Wallace probably considers himself as a segregationist: "I suspect like many people in the South he does not see the relationship between segregation and racism."

—Asserted that the Communist party has attempted to inject itself into the American civil rights movement, but has been "remarkably unsuccessful in actually influencing any decisions, and certainly has not captured any of the leadership."

Mishap on Thruway Three Injured in Car

Three persons were injured shortly after 9:30 a. m. Sunday when the car in which they were riding went out of control and hit bridge railing off the State Thruway near Mile Post 84 about seven miles south of Kingston.

The injured were taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctor's ambluance. A spokesman for the ambulance service said the car narrowly missed plunging down an 80 or 90-foot embankment into the Rondout Creek near Rosendale.

The car, reportedly operated by Robert Dischel, 25, Freeport, L. I., was traveling north when the vehicle went out of control, hit the bridge railing and knocked it out, and then luckily bounced back on the bridge.

Dischel sustained leg, back and hand injuries. Passengers were listed as Miss Phyliss Isaacs, 24, New York City, who received leg and head injuries, and Robert Meltzer, 24, of Brooklyn, who suffered back and leg injuries.

Volunteer fire companies throughout Ulster County spent a busy week-end battling grass and brush fires. There were 55 calls registered at Ulster Fire Control Headquaters over the weekend and 29 fire companies were involved. Several of the companies were called out numerous times.

Highland responded to seven calls, Napanoch answered five calls, in the Modena area the fires were so numerous that Orange county firemen were summoned for assistance. New Paltz, Plattekill, Gardiner and Milton firemen responded to three calls each and volunteers throughout the county were kept on the jump.

Chief Donald Wilhelm of the Napanoch department reported their troubles started Saturday when old railroad ties at the dump site near the old railroad station were involved. Again on Saturday a grass fire called Napanoch firemen to the Joseph Irving premises on Main Street, Napanoch, for a grass fire.

Sunday a brush and forest fire burned over a large area at "40 acre lot," Honk Hill, on Continental Road. Several houses were threatened at times and Ellenville firemen were called to stand by. When the houses were threatened Ellenville firemen joined the Napanoch firemen and Wawarsing was asked to stand by.

At 8:05 p. m. Sunday an unused chicken coop on Continental Road in the vicinity of the forest fire was destroyed. Again at10:35 firemen were called back to the Gerald Snyder premises near where the forest fire had originated. This time it was an outbuilding which was destroyed.

Chief Wilhelm reported several building in the vicinity of the fire were threatened when high winds carried the flames close. Chief Wilhelm gave great credit to John Irwin, Jr., who donated the services of a bulldozer to clear a path to the scene of the fire.

Sunday at 2:15 p. m. Clintondale firemen were summoned to the William Fino premises on Tucker's Corner Road where a second-story bedroom was on fire. The fire damage was confined to the bedroom where the fire originated but there was some heat and water damage. Chief Larry Capozzi reported that quick response of firemen prevented the flames from communicating to other portions of the two-story frame structure. Cause of the fire has not been determined.

Special Help Is Offered to Help Pinched Taxpayer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service says arrangements can be made for those who face undue hardship if they cannot pay their income tax in full on April 15.

In a special announcement, however, the IRS attached two conditions:

— That the taxpayer must prove he would encounter "undue hardship, as distinguished from mere inconvenience."

— That interest at 6 per cent will be charged on the unpaid portion.

The IRS said all taxpayers must submit their returns by the April 15 deadline to avoid severe penalties under the law.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington's first monument to Franklin D. Roosevelt will be dedicated next Monday, the 20th anniversary of his death.

A simple marble block will be placed on what Roosevelt once described as "that green plot in front of the archives building." It is located on Pennsylvania Avenue midway between the White House and the Capitol.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. foundation has announced a $500,000 grant to the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

The center is to be the only Washington memorial to the late president. Some $661,000 still must be raised by public subscription by June 30 if the center is to get a congressional appropriation of $15.5 million.

The foundation was named for the late president's brother, a Navy pilot killed on a World War II mission.

responsible for one half the cost of storing and bringing the food to the various distribution points.

"As an example," she said, "Columbia County received from the period January-December 1963 a total of $83,232 worth of food which cost the county $2,871 to store and distribute, and half of that was then refunded by the state. Delaware County received $134,470 worth of food at a cost to the county of $5,678. Again half of that was reimbursable to the county.

"It is expected that this food will greatly benefit the children who will be able to eat regularly in spite of the problems their families might be having. For those people who have been existing on rice, beans and macaroni it will mean a more varied diet and the possibility of buying vegetables and fruits. There are many large families where the father has a good job but who must apply to welfare for extra help. They would benefit enormously from this program and might not have to go through what for them might be the unpleasant experience of being on the welfare roles. This would mean a reduction of the welfare costs to the county. All those who feel that they can help to get signatures for the petition are urged to contact CORE at 74½ Broadway or write to Mrs. E. Averill, 85 Abeel Street.

Diversification Is Advised to Bonds

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q: "We have the following securities from which we derive most of our income: 36 Standard Brands; 80 General Foods; 300 Pacific Gas & Electric; 630 Northern Illinois Gas and 3,000 shares Commonwealth Edison. We have $7,000 in the savings bank. Our yield from present holdings is only 3 per cent. Would you recommend a more diversified portfolio, including tax-empt bonds to bring us more net income?" M. X.

A: I believe you shoul,d be commended on a fine list of holdings You are, however, disproportionately invested in two of our finest — Northern Illinois Gas and Commonwealth Edison.

It may be that you are locked into these two stocks by large capital gains. I would consult a tax expert to determine if that is so and how you can best lower your commitments in these two situations.

When feasible I would transfer part of each of these stocks into good tax-empts such as University of Illinois 3.60's due Dec. 1, 1992 to yield 3.50. This compares with a taxable yield of 2.50 on Northern Illinois Gas.

Q: "I will ask your advice about Campbell Red Lake Mines. I have 400 shares of this company. Can we expect a raise in the price of gold by the United States?" W. D.

A: I myself do not expect a rise in the price of gold in the foreseeable future.

It has been stated emphatically and repeatedly by Government sources that the price will not be boosted. Campbell Red Lake is a low-cost Canadian gold producer, which has been one of the few to show steady earnings gains over the past decade.

The shares sell at a high price-earnings mutiple because they are a hedge against a possible gold price boost, however remote.

There is a moderate yield here and if you are otherwise diversified, you might well continue to hold in view of the good quality of the stock and its hedge potential.

United States

Under First Rate

There had been unconfirmed reports that U.S. bombing accuracy in the attacks into North Viet Nam has been something less than first-rate.

The Thanh Hoa bridge where the F105s were hit is about 76 miles south of Hanoi. The Dong Phuong Thuong bridge is about 16 miles northeast of Thanh Hoa. The third bridge, near Dong Hoi, is about 50 miles north of the boundary separating North and South Viet Nam.

There were indications that Maj. Gen. Joseph Moore, the Air Force commander in South Viet Nam, would be asked for explanations of the way the Thanh Hoa mission was conducted.

Reason for Concern

Among other things, Air Force authorities were reported concerned because the two F105s were downed while orbiting over the target area as they prepared for their bomb run, instead of some distance away.

Caught with a heavy bomb load — possibly as much as 13,000 pounds — the F105s reportedly could not maneuver or reach the speeds they are capable of when not so weighted down.

Questions were raised, too, about the combat air patrols — the F100 fighters flying above the bombers with the expressed mission of watching for enemy air attack and defending the bombers from such attack.

Officials were unable to explain why the patrol in this case was caught by surprise. But they said that such cover can never be expected to air tight.

The U.S. jets were said to be armed with Sidewinder missiles, but only one of these reportedly was fired at the departing MIGs. The Sidewinder seeks out its target by homing in on heat from an enemy plane's engine. It does not require good visibility for a hit.

There was no explanation why more Sidewinders were not fired at the MIGs.

Hamburger eateries in Paris now do a booming business, and most of the customers are French.

North Viet

Saigon said heavy Red groundfire downed a number of other aircraft that made the 60-plane attack on a strategic bridge 65 miles south of Hanoi.

Officials did not disclose the total number of planes lost because rescue efforts were still going on. A South Vietnamese spokesman said three South Vietnamese Skyraiders were hit on another raid, that one returned safely to its base and the pilots of the other two planes were missing.

A Communist Chinese dispatch claimed 37 U.S and South brought down, but it made no mention of the MIGs.

Both American planes hit by the MIGs crashed into the sea. The body of one pilot was picked up by rescue ships.

The pilot of a U.S. Air Force propeller-driven Skyraider also went down into the sea when his plane was hit by fire from Red gunboats. He was listed as missing.

Hanoi Radio said North Vietnamese militiamen in Thanh Hoa Province captured two U.S. pilots, one on April 3 and another on April 4. The pilots were not identified.

Defense Department sources in Washington said an American fighter may have winged one of the North Vietnamese fighters, identified as MIG15s and 17s of Korean War vintage.

Design Is

the elimination of the present export certificate and export subsidy on wheat moving abroad.

The elimination of these devices would bring an annual saving of around $150 million a year to the government.

Under the present program, exporters must buy export certificates at 30 cents a bushel—returns from which also go to cooperating growers.

With cooperating growers getting 50 cents a bushel more on their share of the wheat used domestically, the government would eliminate the export certificate.

As under the present program, farmers would be free to ignore the program and increase wheat acreage. But they would be ineligible for either price supports or returns from marketing certificates.

Pelican Makes Try, Loses Fish, Fisherman

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Pelicans around the docks in Key West, Fla., will probably long remember the one that got away—a fisherman from Penn Yan, N.Y.

Carpenter said he had laid two Groupers, small fish, on the dock when a hungry Pelican spotted the catch.

The Pelican began a power dive to scoop up the fish in its pouchlike break. Carpenter said he stopped at that moment.

Carpenter said his head was swallowed up in the bird's beak. Eyewitnesses, he said, later reported there was a great flapping of arms and wings before the bird shook loose and flew away in obvious disgust—without the fish or the fisherman.

Strike Is Averted Of U. S. Glass Workers

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) —A threatened strike against 95 per cent of the nation's glass container industry was averted Sunday when union negotiators agree on a new three-year contract.

The new contract will give some 8,000 skilled workers an estimated package increase of 50 cents an hour.

An 11-day walkout by about 32,000 production and maintenance workers ended March 28 when the union accepted a three-year contract providing a package increase of 34½ cents an hour.

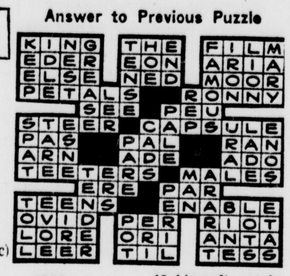

The skilled, or operating, employes' contract expired last Wednesday but they continued working on a day-to-day basis while negotiators hammered out a new contract.

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

Asks Catholic Vote

NEW YORK (AP) — A Maryland priest who is leading the Traditionalist Movement in a protest over Roman Catholic liturgical changes has called for a national referendum to determine the sentiment of Catholics.

The Rev. Gommar Albert De Pauw, 46, of Mount St. Mary's Seminary at Emmitsburg, Md., claims Roman Catholic doctrine is at stake in current church trends.

He repeated his charges Friday that American Catholics have been "brainwashed by extremists of the clergy," who he said have sold the people the idea that changes in the liturgy are mandatory. They are permissive, Father De Pauw said.

Lights Offer Hope For Four Trapped In Arkansas Cave

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Ark. (AP) — A flickering string of lights offered hope today for the lives of four spelunkers trapped in a cave by a flooding underground stream.

Skin divers tried — and failed — to reach the trapped men through the dark depths of the swollen stream.

Blink SOS Signal

Rescue workers said lights outside the cave, at the end of a line reaching 900 feet inside, blinked in a distinct S-O-S signal several times — an eerie but hopeful sight in the nightlong vigil.

The rescue workers took the signals as a sign of hope that the four trapped men were safe above the water level in one of the rooms off the main tunnel.

The string of bare light bulbs was installed in the outer reaches of the cave to give interior lighting and enhance the tourist value of the cave.

The lights are hooked up in series — as are many strings of Christmas tree lights — and when one goes out, they all go out. This way, the trapped men could signal by unscrewing a bulb at their end of the line.

Water Unusually High

Water flows frequently through the cave, but usually not deep enough to trouble either spelunker or tourist — "and never this deep before," said a deputy sheriff when a skin diver reported depths of 30 to 35 feet.

When the four spelunkers entered Rowland Cave — a maze of unexplored limestone tunnels in this remote and hilly section of north Arkansas — Saturday, they said they would come out by noon Sunday. The cave was dry then.

The explorers were looking for evidence linking Rowland Cave with Blanchard Springs Cave, a mammoth labyrinth a few miles away.

Sunday noon passed with no sign of the spelunkers. By this time, the water had swept in.

Jim Fields of Silver Springs, a tiny community in the area, tried twice to lead a team of skin divers through the underground stream and reach the stranded men. A tangled safety line stopped him the first time. Stomach cramps got him the second time.

Tax Returns 100,000 Behind Last Year

Many taxpayers have found that money withheld by their employers for taxes in 1964 was not enough and they still owe money.

The Internal Revenue Service's Buffalo district has had the lowest return in the state. Director John E. Foley said returns were about 100,000 behind last year's pace.

In Manhattan, returns were reported about equal to or slightly ahead of the number returned at this time a year ago.

The Albany district reported that filing was about normal.

Banks and other lending agencies throughout the state have noted an increase in borrowing this year.

'66 Could Mark Gunsmoke End

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Amanda Blake lost another case of bourbon. "Gunsmoke" will be back next season.

This makes the third year running that the carrot-haired Amanda has bet a set worker the series won't be renewed. She defended her rashness: "It just isn't logical for a series to keep going on and on like this. I'm bound to win one of these years."

Don't get the idea that Amanda is anxious to see "Gunsmoke" fold. She is as loyal to the Dodge City drama as anyone. But as a 10-year veteran of the series and as bride with homes in three states, she is understandably weary of the rigors of putting out the hour-long film.

"This year we end this season's shows on April 6 and start next season's on April 7," she remarked.

She does manage to get some time off during the season's shooting, but not as much as she would like. As the wife of cattleman Jason Day, she divides her off-duty time between her house at nearby Calabasas, his house at Scottsdale, Ariz., and his ranch near Bryce Canyon in Utah.

Despite her bets about "Gunsmoke's" demise, Amanda retains a fiercely loyal attitude toward the show, and she has her own ideas about how it should proceed. She does not approve of the introduction this season of guest stars like Jean Arthur and Betty Hutton.

"The people who tune in 'Gunsmoke' aren't interested in guest stars," she reasoned. "They're not even interested in Jim Arness, Amanda Blake, Milburn Stone or Ken Curtis. They want to know what is happening to Matt, Kitty, Doc and Festus."

Nor does she anticipate a return of Dennis Weaver as Chester, now that his own show, "Kentucky Jones," has gone down the drain. "The show has progressed since Dennis left," she said. "It would be a mistake to go back."

Another case-of-bourbon bet for her next season?

"Yes, a couple of people named Amanda Blake and Milburn Stone come up for contract renewal next season, and that pair is going to want so much money that CBS will think twice about continuing the show."

Pelican Makes Try, Loses Fish, Fisherman

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Pelicans around the docks in Key West, Fla., will probably long remember the one that got away—a fisherman from Penn Yan, N.Y.

The Pelican began a power dive to scoop up the fish in its pouchlike break. Carpenter said he stopped at that moment.

Carpenter said his head was swallowed up in the bird's beak. Eyewitnesses, he said, later reported there was a great flapping of arms and wings before the bird shook loose and flew away in obvious disgust—without the fish or the fisherman.

Strike Is Averted Of U. S. Glass Workers

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) —A threatened strike against 95 per cent of the nation's glass container industry was averted Sunday when union negotiators agree on a new three-year contract.

The new contract will give some 8,000 skilled workers an estimated package increase of 50 cents an hour.

An 11-day walkout by about 32,000 production and maintenance workers ended March 28 when the union accepted a three-year contract providing a package increase of 34½ cents an hour.

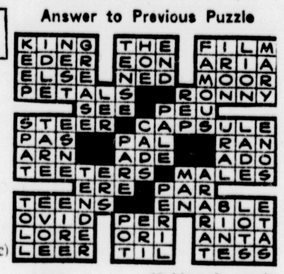

The skilled, or operating, employes' contract expired last Wednesday but they continued working on a day-to-day basis while negotiators hammered out a new contract.

Asks Catholic Vote

NEW YORK (AP) — A Maryland priest who is leading the Traditionalist Movement in a protest over Roman Catholic liturgical changes has called for a national referendum to determine the sentiment of Catholics.

The Rev. Gommar Albert De Pauw, 46, of Mount St. Mary's Seminary at Emmitsburg, Md., claims Roman Catholic doctrine is at stake in current church trends.

He repeated his charges Friday that American Catholics have been "brainwashed by extremists of the clergy," who he said have sold the people the idea that changes in the liturgy are mandatory. They are permissive, Father De Pauw said.

Lights Offer Hope For Four Trapped In Arkansas Cave

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Ark. (AP) — A flickering string of lights offered hope today for the lives of four spelunkers trapped in a cave by a flooding underground stream.

Skin divers tried — and failed — to reach the trapped men through the dark depths of the swollen stream.

Blink SOS Signal

Rescue workers said lights outside the cave, at the end of a line reaching 900 feet inside, blinked in a distinct S-O-S signal several times — an eerie but hopeful sight in the nightlong vigil.

The rescue workers took the signals as a sign of hope that the four trapped men were safe above the water level in one of the rooms off the main tunnel.

The string of bare light bulbs was installed in the outer reaches of the cave to give interior lighting and enhance the tourist value of the cave.

The lights are hooked up in series — as are many strings of Christmas tree lights — and when one goes out, they all go out. This way, the trapped men could signal by unscrewing a bulb at their end of the line.

Water Unusually High

Water flows frequently through the cave, but usually not deep enough to trouble either spelunker or tourist — "and never this deep before," said a deputy sheriff when a skin diver reported depths of 30 to 35 feet.

When the four spelunkers entered Rowland Cave — a maze of unexplored limestone tunnels in this remote and hilly section of north Arkansas — Saturday, they said they would come out by noon Sunday. The cave was dry then.

The explorers were looking for evidence linking Rowland Cave with Blanchard Springs Cave, a mammoth labyrinth a few miles away.

Sunday noon passed with no sign of the spelunkers. By this time, the water had swept in.

Jim Fields of Silver Springs, a tiny community in the area, tried twice to lead a team of skin divers through the underground stream and reach the stranded men. A tangled safety line stopped him the first time. Stomach cramps got him the second time.

Tax Returns 100,000 Behind Last Year

Many taxpayers have found that money withheld by their employers for taxes in 1964 was not enough and they still owe money.

The Internal Revenue Service's Buffalo district has had the lowest return in the state. Director John E. Foley said returns were about 100,000 behind last year's pace.

In Manhattan, returns were reported about equal to or slightly ahead of the number returned at this time a year ago.

The Albany district reported that filing was about normal.

Banks and other lending agencies throughout the state have noted an increase in borrowing this year.

'66 Could Mark Gunsmoke End

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Amanda Blake lost another case of bourbon. "Gunsmoke" will be back next season.

This makes the third year running that the carrot-haired Amanda has bet a set worker the series won't be renewed. She defended her rashness: "It just isn't logical for a series to keep going on and on like this. I'm bound to win one of these years."

Don't get the idea that Amanda is anxious to see "Gunsmoke" fold. She is as loyal to the Dodge City drama as anyone. But as a 10-year veteran of the series and as bride with homes in three states, she is understandably weary of the rigors of putting out the hour-long film.

"This year we end this season's shows on April 6 and start next season's on April 7," she remarked.

She does manage to get some time off during the season's shooting, but not as much as she would like. As the wife of cattleman Jason Day, she divides her off-duty time between her house at nearby Calabasas, his house at Scottsdale, Ariz., and his ranch near Bryce Canyon in Utah.

Her husband pilots her between those places.

Despite her bets about "Gunsmoke's" demise, Amanda retains a fiercely loyal attitude toward the show, and she has her own ideas about how it should proceed. She does not approve of the introduction this season of guest stars like Jean Arthur and Betty Hutton.

"The people who tune in 'Gunsmoke' aren't interested in guest stars," she reasoned. "They're not even interested in Jim Arness, Amanda Blake, Milburn Stone or Ken Curtis. They want to know what is happening to Matt, Kitty, Doc and Festus."

Nor does she anticipate a return of Dennis Weaver as Chester, now that his own show, "Kentucky Jones," has gone down the drain. "The show has progressed since Dennis left," she said. "It would be a mistake to go back."

Another case-of-bourbon bet for her next season?

"Yes, a couple of people named Amanda Blake and Milburn Stone come up for contract renewal next season, and that pair is going to want so much money that CBS will think twice about continuing the show."

VERY CASUALLY DRESSED SUPPER GUESTS

Q: I asked several couples in for Sunday night supper and bridge. I was quite surprised to see two of the men guests wearing sweaters over sport shirts and no ties. True, it was an informal party, but I did go to a lot of fuss for supper and when I saw the casual way in which these men were dressed, I felt rather let down. Is this casual way of dressing accepted today?

Inviting Friend of a Friend

Q: A bachelor friend of ours has been seeing a young woman for the past several months. He seems interested in her. I would like to invite them both to dinner some evening so that we can meet her. Would it be proper to call him and ask him to bring her to dinner or must I invite her personally?

A: You should invite her personally at least this first time. Write a note or telephone her saying that John Smith has spoken of her so often that you would love to meet her, and would she come with him to dinner next Sunday.

Applauding Dinner Music

Q: When dining in a restaurant where dinner music is played by an ensemble throughout dinner, is it proper for the dinner guests to applaud the musicians at the end of a musical selection?

Home Extension Service News

Government legislation seeks to protect the consumer by requiring that textiles and wearing apparel be properly labeled. The Federal Trade Commission is currently responsible for the administration and enforcement of four separate and important pieces of consumer legislation, three of which deal directly with textiles and the other with furs.

The large number of fiber trade names, over 1100, prompted the passing of The Textile Fiber Products Identification Act, effective March 1960. It is the newest of the labeling laws. The act requires that informative labels be placed on articles of wearing apparel, costumes and accessories, draperies, floor coverings, furnishings, beddings, and other textile products of a type customarily used in a household.

This act requires labels to be conspicuously affixed to a textile fiber product until sold and delivered to you. This label may be sewn in; it may be a hang tag; or it may be affixed to a package or container. Look for, read, and save labels. The label must give the following information: Name of the fiber; the registered identification number, house mark, or name under which business is conducted; the per cent of each fiber in the fabric, listed in order of its predominance by weight. If the fiber content is 5 per cent or less, it is listed as other fiber or fibers. They also must tell the country of origin, if other than the United States and the fiber trade name may be given on the label, if desired. If so, the lettering used to display the generic name and the trade name must appear in equal size and conspicuousness at least once on the label.

The Wool Products Labeling Act of 1941 requires that wool products, except upholstery and floor coverings, be labeled as to the percentage by weight of wool they contain. In addition, the label is required to tell whether the wool is virgin or new, reprocesed, or reused, and must give the manufacturer's name or registered number.

The Flammable Fabrics Act of 1953 bars from the market those fabrics and articles of wearing apparel which are so highly flammable as to be dangerous when worn. All wearing apparel, regardless of material, fiber content, or construction, together with such fabrics and films which may be sold and intended for use in apparel, fall within this provision.

VERY CASUALLY DRESSED SUPPER GUESTS

Q: I asked several couples in for Sunday night supper and bridge. I was quite surprised to see two of the men guests wearing sweaters over sport shirts and no ties. True, it was an informal party, but I did go to a lot of fuss for supper and when I saw the casual way in which these men were dressed, I felt rather let down. Is this casual way of dressing accepted today?

Q: A bachelor friend of ours has been seeing a young woman for the past several months. He seems interested in her. I would like to invite them both to dinner some evening so that we can meet her. Would it be proper to call him and ask him to bring her to dinner or must I invite her personally?

A: You should invite her personally at least this first time. Write a note or telephone her saying that John Smith has spoken of her so often that you would love to meet her, and would she come with him to dinner next Sunday.

Applauding Dinner Music

Q: When dining in a restaurant where dinner music is played by an ensemble throughout dinner, is it proper for the dinner guests to applaud the musicians at the end of a musical selection?

When you shop, read the label, advises Elizabeth D. Overbagh assistant home demonstration agent, in the following article:

Government legislation seeks to protect the consumer by requiring that textiles and wearing apparel be properly labeled. The Federal Trade Commission is currently responsible for the administration and enforcement of four separate and important pieces of consumer legislation, three of which deal directly with textiles and the other with furs.

The large number of fiber trade names, over 1100, prompted the passing of The Textile Fiber Products Identification Act, effective March 1960. It is the newest of the labeling laws. The act requires that informative labels be placed on articles of wearing apparel, costumes and accessories, draperies, floor coverings, furnishings, beddings, and other textile products of a type customarily used in a household.

This act requires labels to be conspicuously affixed to a textile fiber product until sold and delivered to you. This label may be sewn in; it may be a hang tag; or it may be affixed to a package or container. Look for, read, and save labels. The label must give the following information: Name of the fiber; the registered identification number, house mark, or name under which business is conducted; the per cent of each fiber in the fabric, listed in order of its predominance by weight. If the fiber content is 5 per cent or less, it is listed as other fiber or fibers. They also must tell the country of origin, if other than the United States and the fiber trade name may be given on the label, if desired. If so, the lettering used to display the generic name and the trade name must appear in equal size and conspicuousness at least once on the label.

The Wool Products Labeling Act of 1941 requires that wool products, except upholstery and floor coverings, be labeled as to the percentage by weight of wool they contain. In addition, the label is required to tell whether the wool is virgin or new, reprocesed, or reused, and must give the manufacturer's name or registered number.

The Flammable Fabrics Act of 1953 bars from the market those fabrics and articles of wearing apparel which are so highly flammable as to be dangerous when worn. All wearing apparel, regardless of material, fiber content, or construction, together with such fabrics and films which may be sold and intended for use in apparel, fall within this provision.

Open Season So Far On Cy Young Winners

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dean Chance, 1964 recipient of baseball's top pitching prize, is taking his lumps — literally — this spring in exhibition play. Sandy Koufax and Whitey Ford, the 1963 and 1961 winners, respectively, have come in for more than their share of training camp troubles.

Of the last four pitchers to capture the award, only Drysdale has managed to stay both physically fit and effective against the hitters.

Chance, the Los Angeles Angels' brilliant 20-game winner, was knocked out of the box by a line drive Sunday — for the second time in the last two weeks — after facing only four hitters in his club's 6-0 loss to the San Francisco Giants.

The Angel ace, appearing in relief in the eighth inning, was clipped in the back of his right leg by Willie Mays' line smash and taken out of the game. Chance was sidelined several days last month after being struck on his pitching arm by a shot hit by Vic Roznovsky of the Chicago Cubs.

Not Serious

The right-hander minimized Sunday's injury. "This is nothing," he said while an ice pack was applied to the leg. "I don't know why I was lifted. I wanted to stay in there and pitch."

The Chance mishap followed on the heels of news that an arthritic elbow condition threatens to make a "once-a-week" pitcher of Sandy Koufax, the Los Angeles Dodgers' southpaw ace. Koufax said Saturday he will "learn to live with" the elbow trouble.

Drysdale, who took the Cy Young Award in 1962 with a 25-9 mark and won 18 games last year, has been strong in his exhibition appearances.

Ford has been hit freely in three of five training tests for the New York Yankees after a winter shoulder operation.

Veteran pitchers Don Elston of the Cubs and Chuck Estrada of the Baltimore Orioles and Rick Reichardt, the Angels' $175,000 bonus outfielder, were among weekend roster casualties as clubs trimmed down to opening-day limits.

The Cubs released Elston. The Orioles optioned Estrada, 27, to Rochester of the International League. The Angels shipped Reichardt to Seattle of the Pacific Coast League.

13th for Reds

The Cincinnati Reds won their 13th exhibition game in the last 14, whipping Detroit Sunday 4-3 as Frank Robinson drove in three runs. The St. Louis Cardinals slugged Kansas City 14-1, scoring 10 runs in the fourth inning.

In other games, Philadelphia overcame Baltimore 4-3 in 10 innings; Pittsburgh downed the New York Mets 9-8, also in 10 innings; Washington nipped the Yankees 4-3; Milwaukee topped Houston 3-1, the Dodgers rocked the Chicago White Sox 8-5; Cleveland stopped another Angel squad 7-1, and Minnesota was jolted 4-0 by its Denver farm club.

Stony Point, NSO Quintets Suffer Losses

Warren Isaac, the Iona College star, couldn't make his heralded appearance but the other members of the powerful Pine Plain Bombardiers were at the Municipal Auditorium and they bombed the June Vernon Builders of Stony Point, 96-83, last night as action continued in the 12th annual Kingston Basketball tournament.

Another doubleheader is planned for Tuesday night with Armstrong's Eagles of Kingston opposing the Newburgh Esquire Lounge at 7:15 and Ray's Tackle Shop of Kingston playing another local entry—City Electric—at 8:30.

Isaac played in a tourney game in Westchester Sunday and had to bypass, for one night, the local action. However, it didn't stop the Bombardiers from jumping to an early lead and then coasting home against a good Stony Point outfit.

Leads All the Way

Tom Hannon, the former St. Bonaventure star, rimmed 20 points in the first half to spark the victory. Bill Telasky had 24 of his 32 points in the third and fourth quarters to keep the tourney favorites in front the entire distance.

Bill Brubacher did a good job for the losers, hitting for 30 points. Tony Citarella had 18.

Ted Feeney's Boyle's Tavern led by only seven points, 41-34, at halftime but outscored the Poughkeepsie cagers, 16-9, in the third period to clinch the verdict.

A switch in dates brings the World Champion Cleveland Browns to New York as early as Oct. 24. The Chicago Bears are scheduled for one of their infrequent appearances in Gotham on Nov. 28. The Oct. 10 game at Minneapolis marks the Giants' first visit to the home lair of the Vikings.

Other home dates include: Philadelphia, St. Louis, Washington-ton, Pittsburgh and Dallas in the seasonal finale on Dec. 19. If you're wondering about tickets, it's long since too late, unless you're satisfied with lower stand, behind the goal posts.

Difficulty Over Scheduling Is Stumbling Block

Members of the Interstate Baseball league tabled a request by Fred Davi of Kingston to admit the local team into the circuit and gave the Glasco promoter until the April 25 meeting to meet schedule commitments agreed upon by the other seven teams, at its meeting Sunday in Amenia.

President Bill Wing of Millbrook told The Freeman that Davi came to the meeting prepared to meet the league by-laws and scheduling arrangements.

"I'll go along with anything you say. I just want to play ball in this league," Davi told league managers.

They then set Sunday, May 9 as the opening date. Davi then made several requests for changes in the schedule. According to Wing, he claimed May 9 is too early for him (Davi) because of high school and college players on his roster. He wanted a later date.

Agree to Saturday Ball

The majority of the managers agreed to Saturday night baseball in Kingston — a deviation from the traditional Interstate policy of Sunday baseball only.

Kingston was not voted into the league and Davi was then given until the April 25 meeting to meet the schedule commitments. If he can't ,the league will operate with seven teams.

If another club more closely contiguous with Interstate area applies in the meantime, the Interstate will give that application most serious consideration as the eighth team.

Teams set to start the season on May 9 are Millbrook, Millerton, Arlington and Amenia from New York State; Winstead and Torrington, Connecticut and Pittsfield, Massachusetts.

Pine Bowl Speedway To Commence Sunday

Pine Bowl Speedway will begin its season on Sunday, 2:30 p. m. The Speedway is located on Route 150, five miles south of Troy.

Snead Cops Tourney, Sets Sights on Masters

By KEN ALYTA
Associated Press Sports Writer

He didn't name any names — names like Arnold Palmer or Jack Nicklaus, for example — and a broad smile creased his wrinkled old face after his victory in the $70,000 added Greensboro Open.

But the fabled and feared Slammin' Sam of another golfing era took definite note, in his joshing fashion, that this was the last warmup before the Masters, the biggest of them all.

"Those odds on me oughta go 'way down now," Sam observed. "Say from 20-1 to about 19-1."

The odds will be much lower on Palmer and Nicklaus, the co-favorites. But old Sam, who will be after his fourth title, must be given some consideration after his impressive, five-stroke triumph Sunday that made him the oldest man ever to win a PGA tourney. It was his eighth victory in the Greensboro event, sometimes called "The Sam Snead Open," since 1938. And he did it in a breeze.

Total Is 273

By shooting sub-70 rounds four times, Snead posted a winning total of 273, five better than his three nearest pursuers — Billy Casper, Phil Rodgers and Jack McGowan.

Now he moves to Augusta, Ga., and the Masters starting Thursday, hoping "I keep putting like I have here and the rest of my game picks up a little."

By winning the $11,000 top prize he brought his earnings in 25 years here to more than $41,000.

Snead, opening with a three-under-par 68 for the 7,000-yard Sedgefield County Club course, followed with a 69 that gave him the co-lead with Bill Casper. On Saturday his 68 put him two shots in front of Labron Harris Jr. A final 68 Sunday completed the rout.

Rodgers, Casper and McGowan each won $4,733. Then came Harris in fifth place at 279 for $3,200.

British Open champion Tony Lema had a 67 finish for 280 and sixth place to win $2,900.

Russell, Celts Top Philly, 108-98

BOSTON (AP) — "War is hell, no matter how it's fought," said Bill Russell, the sweat of the first battle still glistening on his forehead. His war is named Wilt Chamberlain.

Boston's playoff perennials had just beaten Philadelphia 108-98 Sunday in the National Basketball Association Eastern Division finals. The Celtics did it with their trademark defense and hot cornermen.

Capt. Russell, however, was stating a general sentiment that the giant shadow the 7-foot-1 Chamberlain casts across this best-of-7 series spells a long, fierce struggle.

The second game is in Philadelphia Tuesday night.

"Every game against Chamberlain is three days' work," Russell said. "He's always been so tough to play there's no talking about degrees."

Tackle Shop Set For Tournament

Ray's Tackle Shop of Kingston will meet June Vernon Builders of Stony Point at 7:15 tonight at the Poughkeepsie IBM Country Club in a semi-final game of the 22nd annual Hudson Valley Basketball tournament.

Pine Plains Bombardiers, the pre-tourney favorite, meets Port Chester in the second game.

Winners of tonight's games will collide on Wednesday at the IBM court for the championship.

New 4th Place Teams in State

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Teams from Elmira and Sloatsburg have moved into a fourth-place tie in teams handicap competition at the 40th annual New York State Men's bowling tournament here.

Sammy's Cafe from Elmira and the Sloatsburg Legion each rolled 3,141 to tie Sunday, marking the only change in team handicap and scratch competition.

Gregg Griffo Sr., of Baldwinsville, led all-events scratch play with 1,964 pins and with the same total was fifth in all-events handicap.

William Sullivan, of Yorkville, led all-events handicap with 1,992. Sullivan and Ange Santucci, also of Yorkville, continued to dominate doubles handicap play with 1,336 pins.

The tournament, which began March 27, offers $136,239 in prizes and will continue weekends through May 30.

Operate on Knee Of Elgin Baylor

The injury will prevent Baylor, who has scored more than 2,000 points in his pro career, from helping his team in the National Basketball Association post-season playoffs, a hospital spokesman said. But if the knee responds to therapy, he may be in the line-up next season.

An orthopedic specialist said the Lakers' All-Star would be hospitalized for about a week and then wear a cast for a month.

"Every effort will be made to rehabilitate the knee for his return to the Lakers next season," Dr. Robert Kerlan said.

Saturday, four minutes into the opener of the best-of-7 series with Baltimore, Baylor leaped into the air for one of his deadly jump shots. Suddenly he dropped to the floor in pain and limped from the game.

Sunday afternoon doctors removed the uppermost layer of fibrous matter of his kneecap and a tendon attached to it.

"The doctor told me that it was a freak injury," Baylor explained. "The top part of the kneecap just pulled away from the rest of it."

Here's a side of the VW that few people know about: the underside. It is completely enclosed, and sealed with rubber to make it practically airtight. So tight, there are reports it will float! But here's a more useful advantage: a VW sloshes through water that brings other traffic to a standstill.

On most cars, control wires and cables are left exposed. But notice how flat and smooth the VW bottom is. No hollow pockets and hanging parts to trap air and slow you down. Less drag. Better gas mileage. A VW depreciates less than any other car because less can happen to it.

The Volkswagen's heater and defroster are part of the chassis, built into it and therefore included in our price: $1,595*, top to bottom.

Baseball Roundup

Open Season So Far On Cy Young Winners

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dean Chance, 1964 recipient of baseball's top pitching prize, is taking his lumps — literally — this spring in exhibition play. Sandy Koufax and Whitey Ford, the 1963 and 1961 winners, respectively, have come in for more than their share of training camp troubles.

Of the last four pitchers to capture the award, only Drysdale has managed to stay both physically fit and effective against the hitters.

Chance, the Los Angeles Angels' brilliant 20-game winner, was knocked out of the box by a line drive Sunday — for the second time in the last two weeks — after facing only four hitters in his club's 6-0 loss to the San Francisco Giants.

The Angel ace, appearing in relief in the eighth inning, was clipped in the back of his right leg by Willie Mays' line smash and taken out of the game. Chance was sidelined several days last month after being struck on his pitching arm by a shot hit by Vic Roznovsky of the Chicago Cubs.

Not Serious

The right-hander minimized Sunday's injury. "This is nothing," he said while an ice pack was applied to the leg. "I don't know why I was lifted. I wanted to stay in there and pitch."

The Chance mishap followed on the heels of news that an arthritic elbow condition threatens to make a "once-a-week" pitcher of Sandy Koufax, the Los Angeles Dodgers' southpaw ace. Koufax said Saturday he will "learn to live with" the elbow trouble.

Drysdale, who took the Cy Young Award in 1962 with a 25-9 mark and won 18 games last year, has been strong in his exhibition appearances.

Ford has been hit freely in three of five training tests for the New York Yankees after a winter shoulder operation.

Veteran pitchers Don Elston of the Cubs and Chuck Estrada of the Baltimore Orioles and Rick Reichardt, the Angels' $175,000 bonus outfielder, were among weekend roster casualties as clubs trimmed down to opening-day limits.

The Cubs released Elston. The Orioles optioned Estrada, 27, to Rochester of the International League. The Angels shipped Reichardt to Seattle of the Pacific Coast League.

13th for Reds

The Cincinnati Reds won their 13th exhibition game in the last 14, whipping Detroit Sunday 4-3 as Frank Robinson drove in three runs. The St. Louis Cardinals slugged Kansas City 14-1, scoring 10 runs in the fourth inning.

In other games, Philadelphia overcame Baltimore 4-3 in 10 innings; Pittsburgh downed the New York Mets 9-8, also in 10 innings; Washington nipped the Yankees 4-3; Milwaukee topped Houston 3-1, the Dodgers rocked the Chicago White Sox 8-5; Cleveland stopped another Angel squad 7-1, and Minnesota was jolted 4-0 by its Denver farm club.

Stony Point, NSO Quintets Suffer Losses

Warren Isaac, the Iona College star, couldn't make his heralded appearance but the other members of the powerful Pine Plain Bombardiers were at the Municipal Auditorium and they bombed the June Vernon Builders of Stony Point, 96-83, last night as action continued in the 12th annual Kingston Basketball tournament.

Another doubleheader is planned for Tuesday night with Armstrong's Eagles of Kingston opposing the Newburgh Esquire Lounge at 7:15 and Ray's Tackle Shop of Kingston playing another local entry—City Electric—at 8:30.

Isaac played in a tourney game in Westchester Sunday and had to bypass, for one night, the local action. However, it didn't stop the Bombardiers from jumping to an early lead and then coasting home against a good Stony Point outfit.

Leads All the Way

Tom Hannon, the former St. Bonaventure star, rimmed 20 points in the first half to spark the victory. Bill Telasky had 24 of his 32 points in the third and fourth quarters to keep the tourney favorites in front the entire distance.

Bill Brubacher did a good job for the losers, hitting for 30 points. Tony Citarella had 18.

Ted Feeney's Boyle's Tavern led by only seven points, 41-34, at halftime but outscored the Poughkeepsie cagers, 16-9, in the third period to clinch the verdict.

Russell, Celts Top Philly, 108-98

BOSTON (AP) — "War is hell, no matter how it's fought," said Bill Russell, the sweat of the first battle still glistening on his forehead. His war is named Wilt Chamberlain.

Boston's playoff perennials had just beaten Philadelphia 108-98 Sunday in the National Basketball Association Eastern Division finals. The Celtics did it with their trademark defense and hot cornermen.

Capt. Russell, however, was stating a general sentiment that the giant shadow the 7-foot-1 Chamberlain casts across this best-of-7 series spells a long, fierce struggle.

The second game is in Philadelphia Tuesday night.

"Every game against Chamberlain is three days' work," Russell said. "He's always been so tough to play there's no talking about degrees."

Here's a side of the VW that few people know about: the underside. It is completely enclosed, and sealed with rubber to make it practically airtight. So tight, there are reports it will float! But here's a more useful advantage: a VW sloshes through water that brings other traffic to a standstill.
On most cars, control wires and cables are left exposed. But notice how flat and smooth the VW bottom is. No hollow pockets and hanging parts to trap air and slow you down. Less drag. Better gas mileage. A VW depreciates less than any other car because less can happen to it.
The Volkswagen's heater and defroster are part of the chassis, built into it and therefore included in our price: $1,595*, top to bottom.

Miss Wright Wins BatonRougeOpen

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Mickey Wright, the 30-year-old Dallas blonde who dominates the LPGA tour, pondered today whether to give up pro golf and its ulcer-breeding tensions.

Sun-splashed situations where big pay checks ride on a two-foot putt have begun to pall for Miss Wright, after four years as the tour's ace golfer.

She missed a putt like that on the 18th green Sunday, giving her a 54-hole total of 214. She still won the $8,500 Baton Rouge Open, but it took two extra holes in a sudden-death playoff with Jo Ann Prentice.

Miss Wright picked up her $1,275 in top money and said maybe now would be the time to quit.

"I certainly wanted to win because if I'm going to retire I would want to do so as a champ," she said. "The LPGA has a lay-off for the next two weeks. During that time I expect to make a decision."

The missed putt was enough to give any golfer visions of retiring. It gave the queen of the LPGA a double bogey 6 and a 73 over the 6,696-yard, par 72 Sherwood Forest Country Club course. She had reached the 18th with a two-stroke lead.

Boyer Is Charged In Assault Case

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A warrant was to be served today on Cletus Boyer, New York Yankees' third baseman, charging him with assault and battery in the barroom beating of a male model, police reported.

Modzelewski signed a warrant Thursday night against Roger Maris, Yankee outfielder, charging him with assault and battery during the hassle early Thursday. Maris said he was merely trying to break up the fight.

Police said Boyer denied being involved in the fight but Robert J. Burns, 46, signed a statement saying he saw Boyer throw a punch at Modzelewski over the shoulder of Nick J. Sindicich, bar owner who was attempting to break up the fight.

Burns said Sindicich was restraining Modzelewski who, according to Burns, was offering no resistance, when Boyer shouted, "Mind your own business" and hit the model in the mouth.

Modzelewski said he took exception to obscenities directed at him and a date as they left the bar. He said two men beat him after he demanded an apology. He identified one of them as Maris.

A former Kingston bowler and son of a well known local bowling lanes manager, George Flemings, was in the lineup of the Nassau Sportsmen of Nassau, L. I., who rolled 3131 gross to take over the team handicap lead in the Rip Van Winkle Classic at Ferraro's Bowlerama.

Ang-Els in Lead

Ang-Els Rest of Kingston took over the women's gross lead with a 2832 series. Net leaders are the Keglerettes of Glens Falls with 2667. June Vandemark led Ang-Els with 474. Irene Maurer shot 472, Edna Heldron 465, Doris Cady 412, Edith Lawrence 400.

Deerhead Inn, Poughkeepsie, took over second in men's gross with 3116 and Koemm's Five, Kingston, is third with 3111.

A New York combine, Abraham and Straus, shot 2748 for third high gross in the women's division.

Kathy Diamond Leads

Kathy Diamond of Kingston is leader in the gross singles division with 671. Tom Sickler and Millie Berardi, Kingston, pace the scratch doubles with 1165.

A Kingston tandem — Joe Fedak and Jerry Vanyo — moved into scond place in gross doubles with 1324. The leaders, with 1347, are Clyde Lee and Bill Lee of Brooklyn.

Gross all-events leader is William Smith with 1958 in the men's division and Bernice Ballard, Brooklyn, with 1743 in the women's division.

Miss Wright Wins Baton Rouge Open

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Mickey Wright, the 30-year-old Dallas blonde who dominates the LPGA tour, pondered today whether to give up pro golf and its ulcer-breeding tensions.

Sun-splashed situations where big pay checks ride on a two-foot putt have begun to pall for Miss Wright, after four years as the tour's ace golfer.

She missed a putt like that on the 18th green Sunday, giving her a 54-hole total of 214. She still won the $8,500 Baton Rouge Open, but it took two extra holes in a sudden-death playoff with Jo Ann Prentice.

Miss Wright picked up her $1,275 in top money and said maybe now would be the time to quit.

"I certainly wanted to win because if I'm going to retire I would want to do so as a champ," she said. "The LPGA has a lay-off for the next two weeks. During that time I expect to make a decision."

The missed putt was enough to give any golfer visions of retiring. It gave the queen of the LPGA a double bogey 6 and a 73 over the 6,696-yard, par 72 Sherwood Forest Country Club course. She had reached the 18th with a two-stroke lead.

Boyer Is Charged In Assault Case

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A warrant was to be served today on Cletus Boyer, New York Yankees' third baseman, charging him with assault and battery in the barroom beating of a male model, police reported.

Jerome Modzelewski, 25-year-old model, swore out the warrant Saturday but Boyer was in Puerto Rico with the Yankees during the weekend.

Modzelewski signed a warrant Thursday night against Roger Maris, Yankee outfielder, charging him with assault and battery during the hassle early Thursday. Maris said he was merely trying to break up the fight.

Police said Boyer denied being involved in the fight but Robert J. Burns, 46, signed a statement saying he saw Boyer throw a punch at Modzelewski over the shoulder of Nick J. Sindicich, bar owner who was attempting to break up the fight.

Burns said Sindicich was restraining Modzelewski who, according to Burns, was offering no resistance, when Boyer shouted, "Mind your own business" and hit the model in the mouth.

Modzelewski said he took exception to obscenities directed at him and a date as they left the bar. He said two men beat him after he demanded an apology. He identified one of them as Maris.

Waugh to Demonstrate Painting Wednesday

The art department of Ulster County Community College announces a lecture demonstration of painting by the artist Coulton Waugh on Wednesday, April 7 at 7 p. m. in Gallery Room 34. All faculty, students and public invited to attend the demonstration for which there is no charge. Dr. Dale B. Lake, president of the college, announced this event in the continuing series called "Meet the Artist".

Coulton Waugh is an artist of varied style and wide interest. He paints with a palette knife because of all the media, he feels it is the one through which he can express "the most freedom, the most sparkle, the most fire".

In conjuction with the demonstration, there will be a number of finished paintings on exhibit. Professor Ruth Muroff, coordinator of the Fine Art department, urges all art students and those interested in the creative arts to take advantage of this rare opportunity to watch and "Meet the Artist".

Jailed for Stealing Two Tires From Car

Accused of stealing two tires from a car in Kerhonkson on February 26, Benjamin Harry Smith, 20, of Eaton Court, Ellenville, was arrested Sunday by State Trooper Carl R. Larsen on a petty larceny charge. Three teen-agers involved will be petitioned into Family Court, troopers said.

Sergeant E. E. Winkky said the young man was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Abram Smith, Town of Rochester, and was fined $50 or 30 days in the Ulster County jail. In lieu of payment of the fine, Smith was committed, troopers said.

The tires were taken from a car owned by Milton Kaplan, of Granite Road, Kerhonkson, who reported the theft in February.

Roosevlt Asks Primaries to Replace Parleys

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. appealed Sunday night for a primary election system to replace the state-political convention as the starting point for state-wide candidates.

Roosevelt, considered a potential Democratic candidate for governor, said the practice of selecting candidates at conventions should be abolished because there "the influence of political leaders is great, and the influence of the average citizen is nil."

Roosevelt, an undersecretary of the U.S. Department of Commerce, spoke at a testimonial dinner for Dominic Albino, vice chairman of the Onondaga County Democratic Committee.

A statewide primary, he said, would "bring fuller participation in the democracy of our state."

Roosevelt also suggested reducing the state-residence requirement for voting from a year to six months and liberalizing absentee ballot regulations.

Mrs. Biel Hurt in Fall

Mrs. Mary Biel, 86, of Connelly was injured late Saturday afternoon when she reportedly fell in the store operated by her brother, John H. Vogt, who observed his 93rd birthday on Friday. Mrs. Biel was taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance. She suffered hip and shoulder injuries, it was reported.

MANILA, (AP) — Gen. Clayton Adams, 74, U.S. Army retired, died Sunday of a heart attack. Adams originated the World War II system of V mail for servicemen.

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Paul Bartlett, 83, painter and poet, died Sunday. Bartlett's paintings have been exhibited in many of the largest galleries in this country.

Migrant Worker Is Asphyxiated in Shack

James Phillips, 53, a migrant worker, was asphyxiated when his one room shack burned to the ground in the Columbia County hamlet of Linlithgo. State Police at Clavarack said Phillips was apparently smoking in bed Sunday morning when his tarpaper shack caught fire. He had lived on the Benjamin Bartolotta farm since 1949.

The Livingston fire department was summoned but the building was burning fiercely when the firemen arrived. Coroner Nelson Watt said Phillips died of asphyxiation.

Apple Growers Hear Resnick

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick told Hudson Valley apple growers at a recent meeting that he will do all in his power to assist in gaining them qualified help to harvest their crops.

He proposed that they draft a petition for aid which he will present to the federal Labor and Agricultural departments.

Problems dealing with the next harvest of crops and restrictions on importing labor were discussed at a meeting here of the Mid-Hudson Growers Inc., attended by members of the Mid-Ulster Growers, the Farm Bureau and others.

Spokesmen for the growers said they face a dilemma this year and will need at least 5,000 pickers from early September to November.

Discussion dealt with the new policy of using the nation's unemployed for apple picking and other farm use instead of importing what is termed "offshore" help such as Jamaicans.

Resnick said, Hudson Valley growers, were in effect being blamed for the sins of such employers as the California growers, who have failed to meet standards in wages and otherwise.

Hudson Valley growers said they had been paying the minimum wage and had provided transportation and housing for workers, who, it was said, could make as much as $20 a day, with some doing even better.

Among the 23 at the meeting were: Robert G. Geig, of Red Hook, State Farm Bureau director; Charles Andula, of Highland, executive secretary of the Mid-Hudson Growers Inc., and Ashton Hart, of New Paltz, executive secretary of the Mid-Ulster Growers.

Brydges Has Bill To Improve Falls

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Senate Minority Leader Earl W. Brydges said he would introduce today legislation to give a face-lift to the American Falls at Niagara Falls.

Brydges, from the City of Niagara Falls, urged prompt state and federal action to remove rock debris from the base of the falls and to prevent further rockfalls.

Brydges said rock debris has reduced the sheer drop of the American falls from 181 feet to less than 100 feet, and further rock slides, he said, might make the falls "merely a rapid."

Increase Jury List

Dutchess County's jury list is in the process of being increased from 5,000 names to 30,000 according to Commissioner of Jurors William P. Schryver. He said the step is the first in a plan which eventually will provide 88,000 names from which to draw jurors for duty in County and Supreme Court. The move is being conducted in compliance with the Central Jury System approved by the Board of Supervisors.

Skate Board Mishap

Waugh to Demonstrate Painting Wednesday

The art department of Ulster County Community College announces a lecture demonstration of painting by the artist Coulton Waugh on Wednesday, April 7 at 7 p. m. in Gallery Room 34. All faculty, students and public invited to attend the demonstration for which there is no charge. Dr. Dale B. Lake, president of the college, announced this event in the continuing series called "Meet the Artist".

Coulton Waugh is an artist of varied style and wide interest. He paints with a palette knife because of all the media, he feels it is the one through which he can express "the most freedom, the most sparkle, the most fire".

In conjuction with the demonstration, there will be a number of finished paintings on exhibit. Professor Ruth Muroff, coordinator of the Fine Art department, urges all art students and those interested in the creative arts to take advantage of this rare opportunity to watch and "Meet the Artist".

Jailed for Stealing Two Tires From Car

Accused of stealing two tires from a car in Kerhonkson on February 26, Benjamin Harry Smith, 20, of Eaton Court, Ellenville, was arrested Sunday by State Trooper Carl R. Larsen on a petty larceny charge. Three teen-agers involved will be petitioned into Family Court, troopers said.

Sergeant E. E. Winkky said the young man was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Abram Smith, Town of Rochester, and was fined $50 or 30 days in the Ulster County jail. In lieu of payment of the fine, Smith was committed, troopers said.

The tires were taken from a car owned by Milton Kaplan, of Granite Road, Kerhonkson, who reported the theft in February.

Roosevlt Asks Primaries to Replace Parleys

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. appealed Sunday night for a primary election system to replace the state-political convention as the starting point for state-wide candidates.

Roosevelt, considered a potential Democratic candidate for governor, said the practice of selecting candidates at conventions should be abolished because there "the influence of political leaders is great, and the influence of the average citizen is nil."

Roosevelt, an undersecretary of the U.S. Department of Commerce, spoke at a testimonial dinner for Dominic Albino, vice chairman of the Onondaga County Democratic Committee.

A statewide primary, he said, would "bring fuller participation in the democracy of our state."

Roosevelt also suggested reducing the state-residence requirement for voting from a year to six months and liberalizing absentee ballot regulations.

Mrs. Biel Hurt in Fall

Mrs. Mary Biel, 86, of Connelly was injured late Saturday afternoon when she reportedly fell in the store operated by her brother, John H. Vogt, who observed his 93rd birthday on Friday. Mrs. Biel was taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance. She suffered hip and shoulder injuries, it was reported.

DEATHS

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —Thomas D. McBridge, 62, former Pennsylvania Supreme Court justice and state attorney general, died Sunday. In 1953, he was a court-appointed counsel for eight of nine Communist party leaders tried in Philadelphia on federal charges.

MANILA, (AP) — Gen. Clayton Adams, 74, U.S. Army retired, died Sunday of a heart attack. Adams originated the World War II system of V mail for servicemen.

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Paul Bartlett, 83, painter and poet, died Sunday. Bartlett's paintings have been exhibited in many of the largest galleries in this country.

HOLLYWOOD, (AP) — Walter Henry (Hy) Heath, 74, composer of the songs "Mule Train" and "Clancy Lowered the Boom," died Saturday of cancer.

Migrant Worker Is Asphyxiated in Shack

James Phillips, 53, a migrant worker, was asphyxiated when his one room shack burned to the ground in the Columbia County hamlet of Linlithgo. State Police at Clavarack said Phillips was apparently smoking in bed Sunday morning when his tarpaper shack caught fire. He had lived on the Benjamin Bartolotta farm since 1949.

The Livingston fire department was summoned but the building was burning fiercely when the firemen arrived. Coroner Nelson Watt said Phillips died of asphyxiation.

Apple Growers Hear Resnick

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick told Hudson Valley apple growers at a recent meeting that he will do all in his power to assist in gaining them qualified help to harvest their crops.

He proposed that they draft a petition for aid which he will present to the federal Labor and Agricultural departments.

Problems dealing with the next harvest of crops and restrictions on importing labor were discussed at a meeting here of the Mid-Hudson Growers Inc., attended by members of the Mid-Ulster Growers, the Farm Bureau and others.

Spokesmen for the growers said they face a dilemma this year and will need at least 5,000 pickers from early September to November.

Discussion dealt with the new policy of using the nation's unemployed for apple picking and other farm use instead of importing what is termed "offshore" help such as Jamaicans.

Resnick said, Hudson Valley growers, were in effect being blamed for the sins of such employers as the California growers, who have failed to meet standards in wages and otherwise.

Hudson Valley growers said they had been paying the minimum wage and had provided transportation and housing for workers, who, it was said, could make as much as $20 a day, with some doing even better.

Among the 23 at the meeting were: Robert G. Geig, of Red Hook, State Farm Bureau director; Charles Andula, of Highland, executive secretary of the Mid-Hudson Growers Inc., and Ashton Hart, of New Paltz, executive secretary of the Mid-Ulster Growers.

Brydges Has Bill To Improve Falls

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Senate Minority Leader Earl W. Brydges said he would introduce today legislation to give a face-lift to the American Falls at Niagara Falls.

Brydges, from the City of Niagara Falls, urged prompt state and federal action to remove rock debris from the base of the falls and to prevent further rockfalls.

Brydges said rock debris has reduced the sheer drop of the American falls from 181 feet to less than 100 feet, and further rock slides, he said, might make the falls "merely a rapid."

Increase Jury List

Dutchess County's jury list is in the process of being increased from 5,000 names to 30,000 according to Commissioner of Jurors William P. Schryver. He said the step is the first in a plan which eventually will provide 88,000 names from which to draw jurors for duty in County and Supreme Court. The move is being conducted in compliance with the Central Jury System approved by the Board of Supervisors.

Skate Board Mishap

Gene Wagner, 14, of 231 Albany Avenue suffered a fractured right ankle in a mishap while riding a skate board on North Front Street. He was taken to the Benedictine Hospital by a Doctors' ambulance at 10:55 a. m.

Indicted on a charge of first degree murder in the alleged New Year's Day slaying of his girl friend, Robert Robishaw, 21, of 20 Front Street, Poughkeepsie, was scheduled to go on trial today before Dutchess County Judge John R. Schwartz and a jury.

Robishaw is accused of the shotgun murder of Miss Joan Mangold, 17, of 43 Verazzano Boulevard, a Poughkeepsie High School senior. Robishaw was taken into custody by city police shortly after the body of the girl was found in his parents' home.

Fishing Without License Is Charged to Leach

John Joseph Leach, 24, of Stony Point was charged with fishing wtihout a license in that community on Sunday. Trooper Thomas Searles of the Kingston substation said Leach pleaded innocent before Justice of the Peace Frank C. Carle, Town of Olive. He was released on $25 bail pending a hearing. The charge was made by Trooper Craig Bremer and Conservation Officer Henry Bernstein.

THREE HURT IN MISHAP—Occupants of the above car, including its driver, Eugene J. Winter, 35, of 99 Foxhall Avenue, were injured when it swerved from course and struck a tree on Delaware Avenue near Cottage Row early Sunday. Winter suffered a face laceration; John A. Dudek, 53, of 24 First Avenue, a face injury, and Frank Ryndak, 47, of 231 Hasbrouck Avenue, head and face injuries. Officers Plan To Demonstrate For Higher Pay

Correction officers at Ulster and Dutchess County institutions today were expected to join a statewide demonstration seeking a higher pay scale for correction officers, according to Roy A. Guarino, Hopewell Junction.

Guarino, a representative of the New York State Employes Council 50, AFL-CIO and a correction officer for the last 12 years at the Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminally Insane, Beacon, said a telegram was sent by the Council to Governor Rockefeller protesting the present pay scale and "it was ignored completely."

The Council representatives said about 50 correction officers expected to demonstrate at the Matteawan gates today and approximately the same number at Green Haven Prison.

Guarino pointed out that some corection officers from MSH were expected to participate in a demonstration at Wallkill State Prision, Wallkill, and a demonstration also was planned at the Eastern Correctional Institution at Naponoch.

William Ciuros Jr., a Council representative at the Elmira Reformatory, said the policy committee had decided to demonstrate today "to make known the grave injustices that have been forced upon correction officers by the Rockefeller administration."

The Elmira representative said further that the major complaint was, "the denial of an upgrading in salaries which was approved by the State Civil Service Commission in 1962 and then unjustly refused by the Budget Director."

Ciuros contended that another complaint "is Governor Rockefeller's refusal to support the fair and equal treatment of correction officers in the form of collective bargaining." He said that if no results are gained by today's efforts, a second demonstration will be held on Tuesday, April 13, and if that one fails to achieve anything worthwhile for the correction officers, another demonstration will be held on Wednesday, April 21.

Two Are Injured In Auto Crashes Over Weekend

Delbert Eugene Huff, 37, who resides at the Wayside Inn, Ellenville, was injured at 11:15 p .m. Saturday, when his car went out of control on Route 209 about 2 miles north of Napanoch and hit a utility pole.

State Police Sergeant E. E. Winkky said Huff was driving south on the highway and negotiating a curve when the vehicle went off the west shoulder and then crossed both traffic lanes and hit the pole on the east side of the highway.

At 4:30 p. m., Saturday, Molly Gerson, 58, of Boiceville, was injured when her car veered off Route 213 about two miles west of Stone Ridge and overturned. State Police said the woman was taken to Kingston Hospital suffering lacerations of the head and a possible back injury. The car was traveling west when it hit a soft shoulder on the right side of the highway.

Woman Issued Summons

Cars operated by Patrick McManamon, 38, of Lake Katrine, and Alice Van Wagner, 53, of Willow were involved in a collision at the intersection of Routes 375 and 28 shortly before 8 a. m. today. Trooper Thomas Searles issued a summons to the woman charging her with failing to yield the right of way. The summons is returnable before Justice of the Peace Alton Boice, Town of Hurley, at a later date.

Contract Talks Are Resumed on Steel

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The United Steelworkers and the basic steel industry resume contract talks today in the shadow of a May 1 strike deadline.

One top negotiator, USW Secretary-Treasurer I. W. Abel, says he believes an agreement can be reached before that date.

Abel said in an interview in Washington Saturday, "If they (the industry) are as interested as they claim to be on reaching an agreement we can do it. All in all I think we are progressing."

He said that any talk now of extending the strike deadline is premature.

Guarino, a representative of the New York State Employes Council 50, AFL-CIO and a correction officer for the last 12 years at the Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminally Insane, Beacon, said a telegram was sent by the Council to Governor Rockefeller protesting the present pay scale and "it was ignored completely."

The Council representatives said about 50 correction officers expected to demonstrate at the Matteawan gates today and approximately the same number at Green Haven Prison.

Guarino pointed out that some corection officers from MSH were expected to participate in a demonstration at Wallkill State Prision, Wallkill, and a demonstration also was planned at the Eastern Correctional Institution at Naponoch.

William Ciuros Jr., a Council representative at the Elmira Reformatory, said the policy committee had decided to demonstrate today "to make known the grave injustices that have been forced upon correction officers by the Rockefeller administration."

The Elmira representative said further that the major complaint was, "the denial of an upgrading in salaries which was approved by the State Civil Service Commission in 1962 and then unjustly refused by the Budget Director."

Ciuros contended that another complaint "is Governor Rockefeller's refusal to support the fair and equal treatment of correction officers in the form of collective bargaining." He said that if no results are gained by today's efforts, a second demonstration will be held on Tuesday, April 13, and if that one fails to achieve anything worthwhile for the correction officers, another demonstration will be held on Wednesday, April 21.

DO YOU KNOW YOUR CUE?

To an actor a cue is the signal for his appearance—to a billiard player it is a straight rod. Yes, the English language has many words that have more than one meaning. This is not so, however, with the wording on our insurance policies. Your policy is short and to the point. You do not have to be a trained lawyer to translate its contents. You know the bounds of your protection right from the start. Come in today, take your cue from our many protected, satisfied clients.

Two Are Injured In Auto Crashes Over Weekend

Two persons were injured in weekend traffic accidents investigated by Ellenville State Police.

Delbert Eugene Huff, 37, who resides at the Wayside Inn, Ellenville, was injured at 11:15 p .m. Saturday, when his car went out of control on Route 209 about 2 miles north of Napanoch and hit a utility pole.

State Police Sergeant E. E. Winkky said Huff was driving south on the highway and negotiating a curve when the vehicle went off the west shoulder and then crossed both traffic lanes and hit the pole on the east side of the highway.

Huff was taken to Veterans Memorial Hospital and treated for possible head, shoulder and arm injuries.

At 4:30 p. m., Saturday, Molly Gerson, 58, of Boiceville, was injured when her car veered off Route 213 about two miles west of Stone Ridge and overturned. State Police said the woman was taken to Kingston Hospital suffering lacerations of the head and a possible back injury. The car was traveling west when it hit a soft shoulder on the right side of the highway.

Contract Talks Are Resumed on Steel

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The United Steelworkers and the basic steel industry resume contract talks today in the shadow of a May 1 strike deadline.

One top negotiator, USW Secretary-Treasurer I. W. Abel, says he believes an agreement can be reached before that date.

Abel said in an interview in Washington Saturday, "If they (the industry) are as interested as they claim to be on reaching an agreement we can do it. All in all I think we are progressing."

He said that any talk now of extending the strike deadline is premature.
